Nasser Said Suspicious Of Ike Plan

Reaction Of Arab Leader Being Watched

WASHINGTON (AP) — The man with real power of decision in the Middle East, Arab leader Gamal Abdel Nasser, was reported Saturday to be extremely suspicious of President Eisenhower's six-point Mideast peace plan.

Diplomatic officials said reports from Cairo show that Nasser is very wary of the whole idea although he has not turned it down. His reaction is being watched with intense interest here because almost independently of the backroom negotiations now under way at United Nations headquarters. Nasser's decision can make or break the project.

At the same time it is believed in official quarters here that Eisenhower's move has put the ambitious president of the United Arab Republic in a very difficult spot.

Comforts Arab Chief

Eisenhower has confronted Nasser with the necessity for making a choice which in the long run may be vital to the Cairo leader's own success.

The President offered through his speech at the United Nations Wednesday to throw American support and backing behind a great new Middle East economic program. Although details of the program were deliberately left vague, the President was quite specific on one point. The point is that the Arabs themselves would run the operation.

State Department officials privately point out that Nasser is the only figure in the Arab world whose influence now reaches powerfully across national boundaries. Nasser therefore is the dominant figure among Middle East personalities who would be involved in making the President's development program work.

But U. S. support for the economic project has conditions attached, even though Eisenhower did not specifically spell them out in his U. N. appearance. State Department officials say these come from the way in which the economic proposal was put forth as one point in a total of six.

The five other points all deal with measures to be taken through the United Nations to put an end to subversion, radio agitation, assassination, and other manifestations of what the U. S. government means by the term indirect aggression.

The offer that Eisenhower has

Sees Danger If De Gaulle Is Rejected

PARIS (UPI)—French Information Minister Jacques Soustelle warned Saturday that in the unlikely event the French people rejected Premier Charles De Gaulle's proposed new constitution, France would face the "gravest danger" of civil war.

In an exclusive interview with United Press International, the dynamic Gaullist who is being mentioned as the next premier of France said he is confident the new constitution will be adopted in the national referendum Sept. 28.

Asked what would happen if a majority of the French people did not approve the proposed new basis for France's political structure, Soustelle said:

"It would be a resounding victory for the Communists, and France would fall into political chaos with the gravest danger of civil war."

On the other hand, the man who played a leading role in the return of General De Gaulle to power predicted that adoption of the constitution would bring a new era of political stability to France.

He said it would also help to give France a more effective voice in international affairs, and especially in the formulation of allied global strategy.

May Withdraw 1,800 Marines

BEIRUT (UPI) — The United States is preparing to withdraw a second Marine battalion of 1,800 men from Lebanon, "probably within a week," an informed source said Saturday.

The withdrawal would leave Marine strength in Lebanon at less than half of the original total. It would cut the total number of U.S. troops in Lebanon — Marines, paratroopers and supply troops — to 10,700.

The top strength of American forces landed in Lebanon was 14,300. The number was reduced when the 2nd Btn. of the 8th Marine Reg. was withdrawn Thursday and Friday.

GREENLEASE RANSOM

Mystery Money Baffles Senate Rackets Probers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate rackets probers said Saturday an elusive trail of evidence stops just short of solving the mystery of the missing $300,000 Greenlease kidnap ransom money.

The Special Senate Investigating Committee headed by Sen. John L. McClellan D-Ark. is collaborating with the FBI in efforts to close the gap, described as narrow but baffling.

McClellan and Robert F. Kennedy, committee counsel, said they plan to explore the story as far as they can in public hearings over the coming weeks.

They hinted that fresh evidence about the ransom has turned up in their investigations of gangland figures they accuse of conniving in labor rackets with James R. Hoffa, international president of the Teamsters Union.

Hoffa's name has not figured in the ransom mystery probe.

Gap Cited

"There is a gap we have been unable to close," McClellan told a reporter in discussing the ransom phase. He indicated it is not wide, but he declined to go further.

Kennedy told newsmen in a separate interview it may be impossible to bring out in the public hearings all that the committee has learned.

"There are two witnesses from which we have received information," Kennedy said cryptically. "One we cannot use. One, there is a question whether we can."

Kennedy refused to say whether this is because the secret informants refuse to testify publicly in fear of possible gangland vengeance. Nor would he say whether either is a police source who must be kept under wraps in hope of getting the clincher evidence.

The mystery of what happened to the money has kept the FBI on a ceaseless investigation since October 1953. The parents of little Bobby Greenlease of Kansas City paid $600,000 ransom to kidnapers at that time, unaware the 6-year-old boy already had been slain.

Carl Austin Hall and his girl friend, Bonnie Brown Heady were executed in the Missouri gas chamber for the kidnap-murder, but only half of the ransom money was recovered.

Kennedy announced he will call back to the witness stand this week Gus Zapas, an Indianapolis Teamsters Union official and former convict, who swore Friday he never had discussed in 1953 a scheme for getting rid of what Kennedy termed "hot money — stolen money, kidnap money."

Son Of Former Official Held As Boy Killed

BAY MINETTE, Ala. (UPI)— A wrestling scuffle between a pair of teen - aged friends in the predawn darkness of a Baldwin County Beach Saturday ended in the fatal stabbing of one boy and possible murder charges against the son of a former high state official.

Sheriff Taylor Wilkins said Alexander John Brown III, 15 of Mobile, died of a wound apparently inflicted by a double-edged, nine - inch - long knife in the hand of Richard Ford, also 15 of Mobile.

Wilkins said he would "have to charge Ford with murder."

The accused is the son of Tom Ford of Mobile, former publicity director for the state conservation department and widely-known editor of the publication "Alabama Conservationist."

The sheriff said two other boys, Jimmy Muscat, 15, and James McHugh, 15, both of Mobile, were cut on the arms and hands in the scuffle.

The sheriff said nine vacationing Mobile boys were in the group. They were spending the night on a pier at the Brown's summer home.

He reported the first of a series

Energetic

Almost bouncing into us in front of the downtown post office Saturday noon was W. E. Freeman, who might easily be rated the most energetic, aged man in town.

"If I can escape these fast moving autos plowing into me for the next four days I shall observe my ninetieth birthday on August 20!" he declared.

Related to some of the prominent people of both Bastrop and Monroe he has resided the past year or two in a downtown room in this city. He loves to pass the time of day with people especially if they are his old friends.

"Out of a family of eleven all my brothers and sisters are dead with the exception of a sister and one brother. Our original home was in East Feliciana parish. My sister lives in the aged home of our family there which was erected 150 years ago. The third member of my family is Dr. Ed Freeman, College Station, Tex. He is an employe of the state."

Urged To Okay Farm Measure Without Changes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Agriculture Committee knuckled under to adjournment pressure Saturday and recommended the Senate accept without change a farm bill written and passed by the House.

The committee, which Friday had demanded the measure be rewritten in a House-Senate conference, reversed itself today by a 9 to 6 vote. Chairman Allen J. Ellender (D-La) said he is "reasonably certain" the Senate itself will follow the committee recommendation and send the legislation to the White House — perhaps as early as Monday.

Final action would clear away one of the main barriers to adjournment by next Wednesday or Thursday and put an end to a major legislative dispute.

In general, the bill would permit lower price supports for cotton, corn and rice farmers — as demanded by Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson — but would send off sharp planting cutbacks. It would empower Benson

Senate Okays SS Measure By Big Vote

Bill Now Goes Back To House For Acceptance

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Saturday night passed by overwhelming vote a bill increasing social security benefits and taxes in what it hoped was veto-proof form.

The vote was 79 to 0.

The legislation, which now goes back to the House for acceptance of Senate changes, carries a 7 per cent increase in benefits, plus increased taxes to finance them.

If enacted, as seems assured in this election year, the benefits would be reflected in checks going to retired persons next Feb. 3.

House May Join

Passage of the legislation cleared away a major block to congressional adjournment. The Senate version was so similar to the House bill that House approval next week was expected.

In an effort to ease threats of a presidential veto, the Senate cut proposed federal grants to the states for public assistance programs.

Here is what the Senate bill does:

The minimum social security benefit would be upped from $30 to $33 a month; the maximum from $108.50 to $116. Combined family benefits for widows of dead eligible workers with children would be increased from $200 to $254.

In future years, a husband and wife could get benefits totalling $198 instead of the present $162.80 monthly maximum.

The payroll tax deductions would go to 2½ per cent on the first $4,800 of a worker's salary beginning Jan. 1. It reaches 4½ per cent in 1969 with employers matching the contribution of workers. Self - employed under the program would pay as high as 6¾ per cent of their earnings by 1969.

Amendments Accepted

In the face of administration objections, a pair of amendments was accepted to scale down proposed increases in federal grants to states for public assistance programs.

Sponsored by Sen. George A. Smathers (D - Fla.), they would restrict the cost of the public assistance to 197 million dollars. This was 52 million less than the program approved by the Senate finance committee and 91 million under the amount in a House-passed bill.

The key action during the unusual Saturday session came on the amendment to hike the benefit payments to 10 per cent. It was rejected 53 to 32. The bill would increase not only benefits but also payroll taxes for both

Powerful New Seadragon Sub Is Set Adrift

PORTSMOUTH, N.H. (UPI) — The Seadragon, America's youngest and most powerful atomic submarine, glided swiftly and smoothly down the ways Saturday at the naval shipyard here to take her place as the sixth of the Navy's nuclear-powered subs.

Conspicuous by his absence at Saturday's launching was Rear Adm. Hyman G. Rickover, considered the "father of the atomic submarine." Rickover has said the Seadragon is a better sub than the Nautilus, but has refused to compare the two.

"You may be able to determine that one woman is better looking than another, but you can't put a percentage on it," he said.

To Launch Triton

Rickover spurned invitations to attend both the Seadragon and Triton launchings amid indications that a snub to his wife might be involved in his decision. The Triton, another atomic sub, will be launched Tuesday at Groton, Conn. Mrs. Rickover was not invited to launch either sub.

Showers Likely Today In Area

According to the federal forecaster, the weather today will be a repetition of yesterday, with afternoon and evening thundershowers.

High reading Saturday was 94 degrees while the low was 74 degrees.

Arkansas is also in for showers this afternoon and evening, with little temperature change expected.

Tourists Soften Recession Impact

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Tourists are softening impact of the recession in Louisiana with 500 million dollars worth of sightseeing a year, sharply doubled in 10 years.

And by 1968, based on that trend, Commerce and Industry Director Curt Siegelin said Saturday, the state will have a billion dollar tourist industry.

Siegelin left a hospital during the day for a three-week rest from his duties of promiting Louisiana attractions.

Louisiana, slow to start, now is gaining a larger share every year of the 80 million Americans on the road.

"A nine million dollar increase in the tourist business the first six months this year shows Louisiana is continuing to attract visitors," Siegelin said.

Ten years ago tourists brought in an estimated 246 million dollars annually. The figure inched over the 500 million dollar mark the first time in 1957.

Until now tourists, fifth largest industry in the state, has been tabulated as a 300-million dollar level in Louisiana.

Commerce and Industry Department surveys, Siegelin said, showed the tourist trade reached 253 million the first six months this year, compared with 244 million a year ago.

John Crichton, Shreveport, president of the Louisiana Hotel Assn. said Dec. 31 the Associated membership amounted to 85, represent-

AF Rocket Appears Ready For Today's Moon Shot Attempt

BING GETS CLOSEUP LOOK AT BABY — Actress Kathy Grant tries to coax a smile from her baby, Harry Lillis Crosby III, as her husband, Bing Crosby, gives the infant a critical inspection Friday. Count-Down Believed Underway

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) Months of secret preparations for an historic rocket reconnaissance to the moon appeared near a climax Saturday night, and an unofficial source said prospects "look good" for the shoot to be made Sunday morning.

The comment was interpreted to mean that the long count-down, or preparation of the three - stage rocket for firing, was under way and that no hitches had developed.

The Air Force, however, refused to confirm that the count-down had started or even that the firing date had been set.

It was believed bad weather could cause a postponement in launching the towering rocket built for the shoot, the deepest penetration of space yet attempted.

A thick fog enveloped Cape Canaveral Saturday and showers were forecast for Sunday morning, which informed sources have predicted as firing time. But it appeared that hurricane Cleo, far at sea, would not veer close enough to affect the rocket's flight.

The Air Force has said it can launch a rocket safely from the missile test center if the sky is free of clouds up to 2,000 feet, and that rain could force postponement only if it were heavy enough to affect a rocket's electronic system.

Official Silence

The Air Force, given the staggering task of trying to make the United States first to the moon, continued to maintain official silence on the shoot.

But unless there was a last-minute change of plans, the missile men charged with launching the immense three-stage rocket reported to their stations late Saturday to begin the long, tedious countdown that would lead up to blast-off.

On nearby Cocoa Beach, "moon talk" was the only topic of conversation. Motel operators, grocery clerks and service station attend-

Mission Of Moon Rocket Is Explained

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The mission of Sunday's scheduled moon rocket is not specifically concerned with hitting the moon, going into a lunar orbit or boomeranging around the far side, sources close to the project emphasized Saturday.

While any of these things could happen, any of them would be considered "icing on the cake" if they occurred on the first shot of the test vehicle.

The primary aim of the first shot, it was pointed out, is to achieve "successful firing of all three stages of the vehicle." It is hoped this may place the probe somewhere "in the vicinity of the moon, perhaps within 50,000 miles."

'Farside' Rocket

"You've got to do that before you apply refinements in later missions," it was stated by informants who pointed out the record "shoot" to date was the "farside" rocket which went 2,400 miles from earth.

Many officials fear all of the advance speculation on what the

Crash Kills 23, Probe Is Started

NANTUCKET, Mass. (AP) — Civil Aeronautics Board officers began an investigation Saturday of New England's worst airplane disaster in which 23 persons — mostly New Yorkers vacation-bound—lost their lives in a Northeast airliner crash.

Twenty-two were killed outright, and another man, Don Breswick of Brooklyn, N. Y., died later of injuries in Massachusetts General Hospital. Eleven persons were hurt, some burned seriously.

The twin-engine Convair crashed in fog shortly before Friday midnight after cutting through treetops about 300 yards from this summer resort's airfield.

The dead included: Gordon Dean, 52, former chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission; Harvey Schwamm, 53, prominent Wall Street banker and chairman of the American Trust Co.; and John S. Pearson of Manhattan, an executive of the American International Underwriters Corp., an insurance firm.

Flown To Boston

Seven of the more seriously burned were flown to Boston for treatment at Massachusetts General Hospital. Five others are in Nantucket Cottage Hospital.

Airport officials said the plane—held back in New York because of heavy air traffic—was coming in for landing about 11:30 p.m., using instruments because of a heavy fog that had sprung up suddenly.

Witnesses said the plane came in low and ploughed into small pines and scrubs. When it hit the ground it disintegrated.

A Northeast spokesman said the pilot, Capt. John T. Burnham, 37, of Marshfield, had talked with Otis Air Force Base on Cape Cod at 11:23 and got clearance. At 11:28 Burnham talked with a Northeast agent at Nantucket and IMPERIAL BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — Three men were killed and another injured seriously Saturday when a Navy helicopter on a training mission crashed and burned in an open field one minute after taking off.

The Navy identified two of the victims as Lt. (JG) Glenn L. Erickson, 24, Imperial Beach, the pilot, and Robert F. Walker, 26, seaman 3C, Melrose Park, Ill. The name of the third man fatally hurt in the crash was withheld pending notification of next of kin.

Co - pilot Ens. Jerry McFerron, 22, Miami, Okla., was seriously burned over 40 to 60 per cent of his body and was taken to the San Diego Naval Hospital.

SHOOT AT REDS

Two Hungarians Invade Legation

BERN, Switzerland (UPI) — Two young Hungarian refugees invaded the Hungarian legation here Saturday and shot it out with communist officials for 90 minutes. One of them was critically wounded.

Endre Papp, 22, and Sandor Nagy, 22, got past the legation guards by pretending to be interested in going back to Hungary. Swiss police said they apparently planned to get away with documents that would discredit the Budapest regime.

Hungarian Minister Jozsef Marjai waived diplomatic immunity to permit a police tear gas squad to enter the legation and break up the gun battle. Nagy was found lying down on the floor of the bullet-pitted reception room where he and Papp had retreated. Nagy had bullet wounds in his head and neck. He apparently was no relation to Imre Nagy, Hungarian rebel premier who was executed recently for his part in the October 1956 uprising.

Muzzle To Mouth

Papp put the muzzle of the pistol in his mouth when police entered the room but was persuaded not to kill himself by officers who showed him credentials proving that they were not members of the legation staff.

Nagy was taken to a Bern hospital. Criminal police commissioner Kurt Kessi said a delicate operation was performed on him but "he cannot be expected to live."

None of the legation officials was injured.

Kessi said Papp told him that he and his fellow Hungarian wanted to emulate the attack staged on the Romanian legation in Bern in February 1955 by Rumanian refugees, who were said to have obtained files on espionage and blackmail operations.

Claims Khrush Still Boss In Red Countries

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Nikita Khrushchev still is the senior partner in the Moscow - Peiping Alliance, State Department officials said Saturday.

They discounted recent speculative reports that China's Mao Tse - Tung has asserted a veto power over Russia's Khrushchev. This line of thinking, one specialist said, is an exaggeration that probably stems from previous failure to accept the fact of firm Moscow - Peiping partnership.

U. S. officials long have believed the British were inducing in wishful thinking when they read into Red China's actions evidence of Titoist tendencies—resistance to Moscow domination.

Serious friction may develop as China achieves its dream of industrialization and becomes Russia's real equal, the experts concede. But the specter of China as the giant of Communism is still a half - truth.

The outlook for the near future, they said, is cooperation, concession and compromise between Moscow and Peiping, with Mos-

Statement Is Issued On Bond Vote Call

A statement issued yesterday over the signature of M. W. Montgomery, president, sets out the Ouachita Parish Police Jury's stand in the recent call for a bond election which includes the proposition of a special parish-wide tax of two mills for road maintenance.

At its meeting Wednesday, the Police Jury approved an election in which property owners of the parish would vote on the road maintenance and improvement tax a half-mill drainage tax, a four-tenths-mill tax with which to purchase Cheniere Lake, and a one-tenth-mill tax for maintenance of the lake.

On Thursday, Mayor W. L. (Jack) Howard stated he was opposed to that portion of the bond issue calling for the two-mill road tax, declaring that none of the funds could be turned over to the city, despite the fact that one-half or more of the money would be paid by Monroe property owners.

Statement

The Police Jury statement reads:

"The Police Jury of Ouachita Parish is composed of members of all 10 wards of Ouachita Parish, including six from wards 10 and three, which are composed principally of Monroe citizens, and three from Ward five, composed principally of West Monroe citizens. Nine of the total membership of

Harris Named Council Chief

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI)—Roy V. Harris of Augusta, Ga., was elected president of the Citizens Councils of America here Saturday by some 100 delegates representing 10 southern states.

Harris is president of the States Rights council of Georgia and he succeeds state Sen. W.M. Rainach of Homer, La., who has headed the organization for the past two years.

In a keynote speech during the two-day meeting, Harris said progress reports on local conditions in each of the states "generally reflected a definite turn in the tide of public opinion favorable to state sovereignty and continued social separation of the races."

He said the general sentiment among the delegates was that "tremendous strides have been made by the citizens council movement during the past four years."

"The increased organizational activity is acomplishing its objectives," Harris told the delegates. "Council leaders now feel that a successful program has been put into effect and will result in complete victory."

R.B. Patterson, executive secretary of the Mississippi Council, was re-elected secretary of the Citizens Councils of America.

W.J. (Bill) Simmons, executive secretary of the Jackson, Miss., council and editor of the Citizens Council Magazine, said the delegates saw a special screening of television films programmed by the Citizens Council Forum. He said the television and radio section of the group presented "interview-type programs with members of Congress which currently are scheduled throughout the South."

Five Negroes Fined After Attack On 3

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI)—Fines of $100 each and costs were assessed yesterday against five Negro volunteer guards for integration leader Rev. F. L. Shuttlesworth for attacking three hoboes Aug. 6.

The five were accused of jumping Ernest Howard, 34, of Massilon, Ohio; James Furlow, 36, of Duquoin, Ill., and George Cook, 45, Negro, of Atlanta, as they walked near Shuttlesworth's Bethel Baptist Church.

None of the three men were seriously injured in the attack although they required treatment for bruises and lacerations and Howard suffered a stab wound in his back.

The Negroes, most of them teen - agers, had been guarding Shuttlesworth's church which was the scene of an attempted dynamiting several months ago.

Those fined were Gertis Washington, 17; James Lanier, 19; Sam Mitchell, 17; Willie Alen, 17, and Percy A. Lee, 25.

A sixth Negro, Herbert De Bardelaben, 17, was fined $25 and costs on a reduced charge of disorderly conduct.

Charge Three Ala. Men With Grand Larceny

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — Three men were in jail on burglary and grand larceny charges Saturday because they couldn't carry their loot from a safe - cracking job with them, police said.

Herbert Hoover Glass, 28, of Jemison; Homer Shaw, 28, of Lipscomb, and Douglas Donald Poe, 22, of nearby Hueytown, were picked up last night at the scene of the attempted robbery.

Officers said burglars had blown apart a safe at the Jefferson Iron and Metal Co. here Wednesday night but were unable to carry off a 400 - pound cash box containing $8,000 in bonds and $5,000 in cash.

They had blasted the cash box loose from the safe but due to its weight, they hid it beneath a concrete loading platform, planning to return later and pick it up.

Police staked out the scrap yard and arrested Poe, an ex - convict, Shaw and Glass when they showed up there Friday night.

They were also charged with possession of explosives after officers found sticks of dynamite in their car.

Small Chance For Bill Seen

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional sources see little chance that Congress will act before adjournment on a bill creating 50 new federal judgeships.

Similar bills are awaiting action both Houses, but neither has been scheduled for a vote.

A House informant, who asked not to be identified, said he thinks the only chance would be for the Senate to act first and get the bill to the House early this week.

"But I think it is probably dead," he added.

Really Shut Down On News

KILLEEN, Tex. (AP) — The Army reached new heights in blocking information this week while Oklahoma's 45th National Guard Division was training at nearby Ft. Hood.

A newsman sought to telephone the division's public information officer, whose job is to talk with reporters.

But the telephone operator at Ft. Hood informed the newsman: "Sorry, but that number is restricted."

Car Swerves Off Highway, Couple Hurt

A Sterlington man and his wife were hospitalized last night, after their car swerved off U. S. Highway 165 north during a rain storm, plowed into a tree, bounced back into another tree and broke open a gas meter.

Guy F. Taylor, accompanied by Mrs. Taylor, was driving north on the Sterlington Rd., about four miles north of Monroe at 5 p.m., when his late-model blue Buick veered off the road and continued along the shoulder.

It slammed into a gum tree, knocking it down. The impact forced the car back into a willow tree. The mishap occurred in the front yard of the Joe Wilkins residence.

Taylor suffered extensive lacerations of the face, and Mrs. Taylor received lacerations to both legs. They were rushed to St. Francis Hospital, where they were treated and hospitalized in satisfactory condition.

In the accident, a gas meter in the Wilkins' yard was broken. United Gas repairmen were summoned and within minutes the escaping gas was turned off.

The front and left side of the auto were almost demolished. State Police from Troop F were summoned to the scene, and investigated the crash.

Bonds Down As Interest Rates Rise

NEW YORK (AP)—U.S. government and corporate bonds declined this week as short term interest rates rose on a broad front and the San Francisco reserve bank hiked its discount rate to 2 per cent.

It was the second signal by the Federal Reserve Board that it now considered the business recession about over and renewed inflationary pressures the major threat. The first came on Aug. 5 when the fed boosted margin requirements for buying corporate stocks and bonds from 50 to 70 per cent.

Utilities were hard hit among the corporate bonds, plunging to a new low for 1958 on the bond index. Sharp declines also were registered in rails, industrials and investment quality issues. Foreign dollar bonds ran counter to the downtrend by posting a small advance.

Driver Charged After Accident

A West Monroe Negro was charged with reckless driving, causing a wreck and doing property damage early yesterday, when his car left the street, ran into two front yards, and hit a light pole.

George Irvin, 43, Negro of 315 Lee St., West Monroe, was arrested after police found a broken strip of auto chrome at the scene of the accident, according to Police Chief Jeff Caldwell.

Louisiana Spending

A free-spending Louisiana state government has increased its budget by 113 per cent in the last 10 years and has increased its budget for education by 142 per cent. If the teachers had received all the pay boost voted them by the state legislature in 1956 the budget hike would have been 161 per cent.

These figures were presented by Commissioner of Administration James S. Reily, Louisiana's top-ranking fiscal officer, in an address in Shreveport.

The commissioner laid no particular blame on any governor, administration or legislature. He simply stated that money had been coming in fast, especially from oil lease bonuses and royalties, and that all administrations spent the money as fast as it came in.

It is noteworthy that in this greatly increased spending the teachers received a share that was far above average. This probably was as it should have been, as the pay of teachers prior to 1948 was disproportionately low. Nevertheless, the pay boost received by the teachers during that time should have been gratifying. If the teacher pay increase was in proportion to the boost in education cost, it meant the teachers were getting nearly two and one-half times as much in 1957-58 as in 1948-49. Not many people in other professions, trades or businesses received increases amounting to that much during that period. If the full amount voted by the 1956 legislature had been paid to them they would have received more than two and one-half times their former salaries.

It has been estimated that the gas-gathering tax voted by the legislature, if uncontested, will bring in about $20,000,000 a year.

Although the teachers went heavily into politics in seeking passage of a two-cent gas-gathering tax, the chances are that they would have fared as well without such a campaign, as members of the legislature and apparently a large majority of the people were in favor of continuing teacher pay at a rate at least as high as that received for the 1957-58 term.

Commissioner Reily's talk illustrated graphically how easy it is to increase expenses and taxes and how hard it is to get them back down. When times are easy and money is coming in fast, there is always an inclination to spend the money as fast as it comes in. This is human nature and is done by individuals as well as by national state and local governments.

Total cost of all phases of education in 1948-49 was $84,250,477 but for the present fiscal year the budget has been set at $203,675,105. This is an increase of $119,424,628, or 142 per cent.

Commissioner Reily said the greatest problem in financing is caused by Louisiana's department of education, which he said has "been favored over other departments." In view of the commissioners statement it seems strange that the teachers still contend they are in a low-paid bracket and are receiving the rough end of the financial deal. They deserve and have received excellent consideration.

Education now requires 45 per cent of all state funds in order to operate at present levels. Considering the number of teachers required to man our schools and the number of educational institutions that are constantly being built, this may not be an unreasonable proportion but the commissioner indicated it is well above the former percentage and this must necessarily be true when we note that the education budget was increased 142 per cent and the entire budget only 113 per cent.

Commissioner Reily said: "We have established a high level of state spending for governmental services based on a peak income. No one, I can assure you, wants to come down that mountain of spending. In this 10-year period we have had some 'easy money' in the form of $568,000,000 from oil lease bonuses and royalties"

Contained in these statements of Commissioner Reily undoubtedly is an explanation of why Louisiana has one of the highest per capita budgets in the union.

Aside from that, however, is the fact that this state also has one of the highest tax rates, and that can hardly be explained by "easy money." Nevertheless, it does mean that since we have raised our spending habits high we are going to have to put up a strong fight against increasing taxes to offset the loss of "easy money," which at least temporarily, has hit the oil industry because of the national recession.

Ike Is 'Plenty Mad'

President Eisenhower was reported as mad as a hornet over published reports that some United States officials were studying the possibility of surrender by the United States in a future nuclear war.

There is little wonder that Ike was plenty mad, and for several reasons.

In the first place, he is a general and there is nothing more repugnant to a general than the idea of surrender. He rejects it from the word go. He may recoil and retreat when under heavy attack but he wants the word "surrender" taken out of his vocabulary except as it applies to the other side.

In the second place, the president is not a defeatist and neither are most people of this country.

In the third place, there is no reason to assume that Russia could defeat this country or that there would ever be any reason to surrender.

The president was so angry that Secretary of Defense Neil H. McElroy and Deputy Secretary of Defense Donald A. Quarles quickly assured him and Republican senators that "there is no thought of surrender and the studies were only theoretical."

The idea even of theoretical consideration of surrender is abhorrent to most Americans and there is no doubt that the president took a similar view. From what the president said, it appears extremely unlikely that there will be any more talk of surrender and that if there should be there will be "some changes made."

Secretary McElroy told the president that the directive for the study had been made by John B. McCauley, deputy assistant secretary of defense for research and engineering.

McCauley made a trip to the senate to explain that part of the over-all study of all possibilities of an all-out war had included the conditions under which either the Soviet Union or this country might be forced to surrender.

If considering the possibility of surrender either by Russia or the United States (if we are willing to consider it) it must be remembered that surrender by the United States would be far different from surrender by Russia.

The United States, in two wars, has shown itself to be a benevolent conqueror. It not only makes no conquests by seizing and ruling the defeated nations but it helps set the defeated countries back on their feet by giving them financial assistance. Instead of demanding punishment reparations, it opens its tills to the defeated nations. When countries surrender to the United States it merely means a cessation of war and that those nations are permitted to go back to a normal peaceful existence.

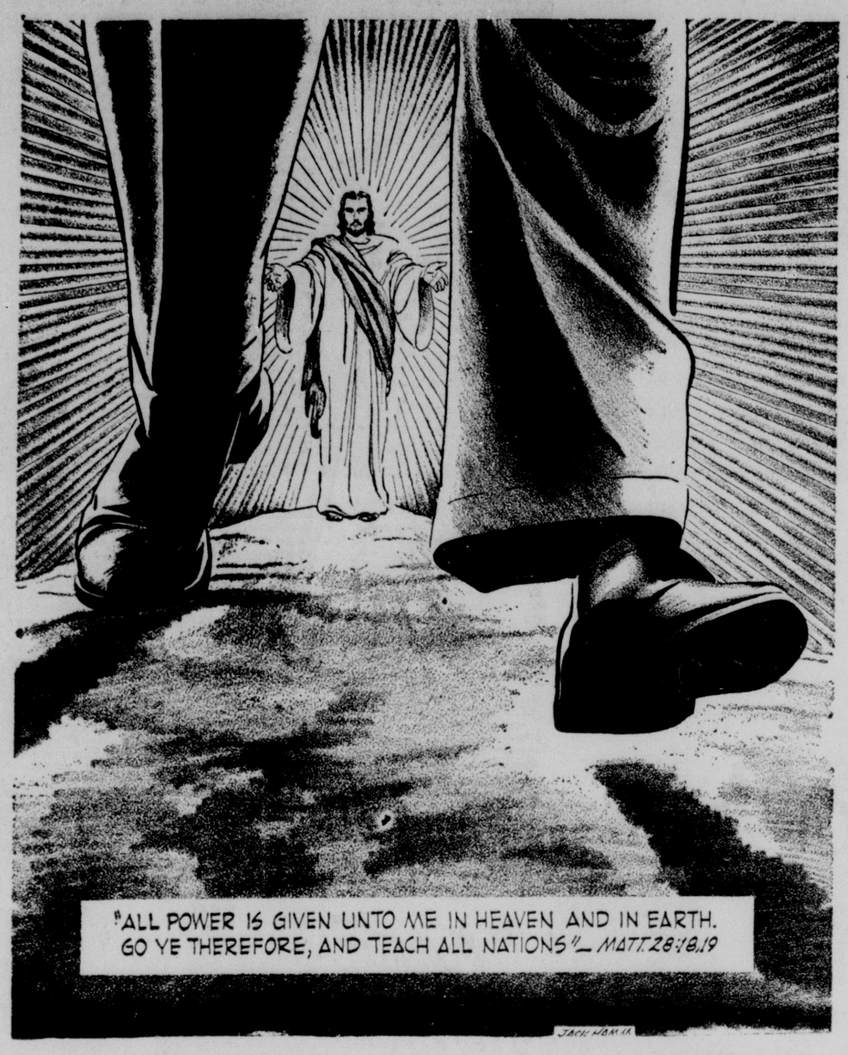

Surrender of any nation to Russia would mean total, abject surrender. It would mean that the conquered nation would be subjected to the worst forms of government endured in Russia. Surrender would mean concentration camps and slave labor.

No preparation is needed by any country for abject surrender. There is no need to consider terms that might be proposed. A conquering Russia would impose its own terms.

If we reject the idea of slavery for the citizens of this country we reject the idea of surrender to Russia.

We also reject any idea that Russia could conquer the United States for there is no reason to think that it could do so.

GEORGE SOKOLSKY'S DAYS

Passport Looked On As Document Of Protection

Again, we come to the question of definition: What is a passport? Is it a card of introduction or identification? Is it a statement of national affiliation? Is it an assertion of protection?

The passport has never been a card of identification until the United States Supreme Court withheld from the government of the United States the authority to decide to whom such a document would be granted. It was then that President Eisenhower called upon Congress to pass an act giving the secretary of state "clear statutory authority to prevent Americans from using passports for travel to areas where there is no means of protecting them, or where their presence would conflict with our foreign-policy objectives or be inimical to the security of the United States."

Having lived in Asia many years, the passport to me has come to mean a document of protection. In fact, without it, one could not live anywhere except in a few treaty ports in China and even there, it was dangerous to be without such a document.

The Supreme Court's concern with the passport arises out of the Communist cases. The State Department had been withholding passports from certain Americans on the ground that it was against the interest of the government that they should travel abroad. Some of them were suspected of being spies. Espionage is difficult to prove according to the rules of evidence. The FBI may have an enormous mass of material on a man or a woman but little of it would stand up in a court of law because the witnesses would have to be spies or former spies and their testimony in a court would imperil them. Some of the information comes from other governments and cannot be used. Some of it comes from sources which are perhaps themselves illegal, such as intercepting telephone calls or surveillances of the work of unfriendly governments.

The data has been screened and checked but if the matter has to be considered in the open court, much of it must be withheld. As Robert Johnson of the Passport Office said, even if the State Department knew that an American Communist planned to go to Moscow and to take with him important American defense secrets for delivery to Communist espionage officials, a passport could not be denied him under current Supreme Court decisions.

The Supreme Court, in the case of Rockwell Kent and Walter Briehl, held that Communism is a matter of belief and association. The court said:

". . . They are being denied their freedom of movement solely because of their refusal to be subjected to inquiry into their beliefs and associations. They do not seek to escape the law nor to violate it . . ."

This is after the Hiss case and the Rosenberg case, the Fuchs espionage, the cold war, and everything else that is current history. The court held that the State Department could only withhold passports in cases involving allegiance and in those involving criminal activity. Unless a spy has been caught, tried and convicted, he is not legally a spy, no matter what information the State Department, the FBI and the CIA may have and he is entitled to a passport. This applies to Communisst who may be members of the propaganda divisions of the Communist Party and who may be going abroad to do harm to the United States. The State Department is precluded from going into motives and personal histories and is limited to court decisions.

That is now the law of the land and will remain the law unless Congress passes another act to give the State Department authority over passport control or until another court comes into existence.

The minority of the present court said:

". . . In a wholly realistic sense there is no peace today, and there was no peace in 1952. At both times the state of national emergency declared by the President in 1950, wherein he stated that 'world conquest by Communist imperialism is the goal of the forces of aggression that have been loosed upon the world' and that 'the increasing menace of the forces of Communist aggression requires that the national defense of the United States be strengthened as speedily as possible,' was in full effect . . ."

Of course, the Supreme Court may choose to ignore a presidential proclamation, but the court is bound by a constitutional act of Congress.

Political Brain Softening Seen

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Dr. Clarence W. Couchmaster, the nation's psychiatrist, was strangely reluctant to discuss his patient's latest symptoms.

Were they as serious as all that?

"Worse than serious," said Dr. Couchmaster, cracking his knuckles and bending his head. "The symptoms are, I would say, most embarrassing in the case of a major nation."

Hardening of the economic arteries?

"Worse still," said Dr. Couchmaster, with graveside gravity. "Softening of the political brain."

Oh, is that what's been happening to us?

"Yes, I'm afraid it is," replied Couchmaster. "Specifically, there are definite signs of an onset of second childhood."

For example?

"Extreme susceptibility to the power of injurious suggestion," said Couchmaster who can speak a mouthful when he must. "I know no other way to explain the way in which we have been seduced into dispatching our scarce troops to faraway lands. A grown-up, sophisticated nation would have been very suspicious about pouring ground troops into Korea. After all the fighting and casualties since 1950 we still have two divisions there. Turkey and Thailand have a few troops there, but none of our European allies have any. Even Canada, which is rolling in prosperity and has the same interest in control of the Pacific Ocean, has reneged on responsibility in Korea. The USA is holding the bag. A nation with all our experience in worldly affairs should know better."

Well, live and learn, huh?

"That's what worries me about this patient," said Couchmaster. "It's a very dull child who gets burned at the same fire twice. But we've gone and done the very same thing in Lebanon as in Korea. The Communists baited a trap, dared us — and in we walked. First, we sent only 5,000 Marines. Senators who discussed this original commitment with the President later told a certain reporter that the number was just right. Five thousand Marines were enough to keep order, but not enough to get weighed down there for years to come. But at the last count we had increased the commitment to 13,000 ground troops. We are still in Korea after eight years. How long before we can get out of Lebanon? The Communists are systematically separating us from our sons and our Armed Forces. A mature nation might be fooled once, but not twice."

As easy as taking candy from a baby, eh?

"Imitation," said Couchmaster, "is another childish trait, and rather commonplace in second childhood. It is often said that the USA must take the place of the British Empire. Pure mimicry of a sub-adolescent order. That's bad enough, but it isn't all. The late Senator Taft, I believe, was the first to point out that, having defeated the Axis powers in World War II, we straightway went to Nuremburg and began to imitate their concept of a criminal trial. It was no time at all after World War II that President Truman began to mimic Mussolini by trying to draft the railroad workers and make the trains run on time."

And these are symptoms of national second - childhood?

"There are more," said Couchmaster with sorrowful conviction. "We didn't stop with imitating Britain, Germany and Italy. Since 1945 we have been imitating Soviet Russia. Actions by the President and the Supreme Court have strengthened the central government. Actions by Congress have stressed economic well - being above personal liberty. Intellectuals have joined with Laborites, as was true in Russia, to level out class distinctions, to substitute Force for Law, to share the wealth and for that matter to share America with the world."

And these, Dr. Couchmaster, are symptoms of a second childhood in our nation? What is the cure, if any?

"Grow up, America," said Couchmaster. "Grow up."

Racial Crisis Is Moving To Crucial Stage

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI) —Virginia's segregation crisis moves into its most crucial stage to date this coming week, with the painful decision between closed or integrated schools in three areas apparently only a few days off.

It appeared likely that Negroes will know by the week's end whether their eight-year-old fight to crack Old Dominion racial barriers is successful.

Norfolk School Supt. J.J. Brewbaker said Saturday his school board may decide Monday on the applications of 151 Negro students to white schools. The board will meet "promptly" after Norfolk's local pupil assignment plan is passed upon by U. S. District Judge Walter E. Hoffman Monday morning, he said.

Activity also steps up Monday in both Charlottesville and Arlington County, Virginia's two other localities under final, federal court orders to stop discriminating against Negroes in school enrollments this coming September.

If any of the three localities allows one Negro into a white school, that school would close under a state "massive resistance" law.

Taxing Right Of House Menaced

For 169 years the house of representatives has jealously guarded its exclusive right to initiate appropriations measures and tax legislation.

And almost from the beginning, the senate has each year made some attempt to "muscle in" on the house's exclusive jurisdiction in these matters.

This year has been no exception. In fact, the senate may, before congress adjourns, have made more progress toward its goal than in any previous congress.

At least that is the warning voiced by Chairman Clarence Cannon (D.-Mo.) of the powerful house appropriations committee.

"The senate has figured out a new device to get around this exclusive prerogative of the house," Cannon warned. "The senate has now adopted a grotesque plan which is technically known as the public debt transaction under which funds are released from the U. S. treasury through the issuance of securities which, in effect, are nothing more nor less than appropriations."

So successful has this device been, according to Cannon, that bills appropriating billions of dollars have been sent to the house by the senate this session without ever being submitted to the appropriations committee.

The house so far has been alert and has turned down such legislation. Most notable examples were the so - called community facilities act and a bill subsidizing five rare minerals.

The former would have set up an agency to disburse $2 billion for needed community projects such as roads, buildings, sewage disposal plants, and other projects. Conceived as an anti - recession measure, it would have authorized the agency to borrow money from the treasury at less than three per cent interest.

The minerals bill would have allowed the secretary of interior to issue bonds to finance a subsidy program for tungsten, lead, zinc, acid - grade fluorspar, and columbium - tantalum.

Both would have completely bypassed Cannon's economy - minded group both this year and in succeeding years.

The house rose up and defeated a rule making it in order to even consider the community facilities act, but congressional leaders still are attempting to pump new life into the measure. The house interior committee hacked the "public debt transaction" language from the minerals bill before it was reported out.

"Men who want special favors, particularly from the treasury, do not want to come to the house or they come to the house only incidentally," says Cannon of most lobbyists. "They go to the senate because they know where they can get a bill providing money out of the treasury without complying with the constitutional routine of the house."

"The result is that within the last several years the senate has become the dominant body of the congress," Cannon snorts. "The house which is traditionally closer to the people and for that reason was placed in constitutional control of the purse strings is being further relegated to a secondary position by this device of the public debt transaction."

The original draft of the Constitution placed the right of appropriations exclusively in the house, and the senate was prohibited from voting on money matters.

However, as related in the papers of the late President James Madison, the right to participate in appropriations was given to the senate also because — as Madison relates it — the framers of the Constitution had a second thought that perhaps the house would be too impulsive and extravagant. So the right was extended to the senate to hold down the expected exuberance of the house, which still must initiate such legislation.

Through the years, Madison's fears have not been realized. In fact, in recent years the house has been striving valiantly to hold down the appropriations enthusiasm of the senate.

Fun Spoiled By Throbbing Head

Emotional tension is a common cause of headache. It has spoiled many a week - end and holiday when it comes as a letdown from a tough schedule. Headaches also occur during periods of extreme stress resulting from pressing social engagements and critical business sessions. Washday headache and Wall street headache originate in tension and the same can be said of headaches during menstruation, the menopause, and hot weather.

Nervous strain affects the head in many ways. Migraine develops when the blood vessels are the target. This one - sided pulsating headache may become so severe the individual is nauseated and moody and light hurts the eyes. Most victims are so miserable they must excuse themselves and go home to bed.

The attack may be preceded by spots before the eyes, double vision, dizziness, chilliness, and tremor. The brain vessels constrict at first; later, they dilate. Every beat of the heart is felt in the head as a throbbing pulsation because the arteries are overdistended with blood.

The nose on the affected side may be stopped up. This is not the cause but the result of headache. Congestion is brought on by dilatation of the blood vessels.

Relaxation, a few aspirin tablets, and a good sleep relieve the majority. An adequate dose of ergotamine tartrate is effective if used as soon as the condition develops. Many migraine sufferers learn to avoid situations that bring on an attack. In a few, allergy or a glandular upset is the trigger mechanism, but in the majority, the cause is tension, fatigue, or overwork.

Some individuals who are subject to migraine ward off the attacks by using one of the epilepsy remedies. In these persons a relationship often exists between the two disorders and there usually is a family history of both conditions.

Status lymphaticus is thought to result from enlargement of certain glands in the center of the chest. Most deaths from this malady usually are caused by an overwhelming infection.

Views Of Our Readers

West Monroe, La.

As a teacher and resident of Ouachita parish, I would like to express my sincere appreciation to Rep. Lawrence Gibbs for his untiring efforts toward the betterment of education in Ouachita parish and throughout the state

I had the opportunity of being in Baton Rouge during the meeting of the Legislature and was privileged to observe the firm stand taken by Rep. Gibbs for the support of education. Rep. Gibbs maintained his position and stood by his convictions even in the face of violent newspaper attacks.

In addition to the outstanding efforts of Rep. Gibbs, I also commend the governor and lieutenand governor of our state who extended every courtesy and every assistance to the Louisiana Teachers Association representatives who were working so diligently throughout the session. Their cooperation made possible such accomplishments as were made.

I would like to quote from a recent conversation with Dr. L. L. Fulmer, President of the Louisiana Teachers Association, during which he said "The teachers of Louisiana do not have a better friend in the legislature than Lawrence Gibbs. He supported teacher legislation throughout the session. Further, through his most able presentations on the floor he was a powerful influence on other members of the House of Representatives. Whenever he spoke it was clearly evident that he had made a study of the issue and was well informed on the subject. The teachers and the people of Louisiana are deeply indebted to Rep. Gibbs for his most able efforts in behalf of better public education."

We teachers are deeply appreciative in every way, and fully realize how very fortunate Ouachita parish is to have so capable a representative as Rep. Lawrence Gibbs.

Extortion Try Ends In Trap

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (UPI)—An attempt by an unemployed typewriter worker to extort $50,000 from millionaire industrialist Leon A. Beeghly ended in an FBI trap Saturday.

William T. Casey was captured by federal agents when he appeared at a lonely spot near the Ohio Turnpike to pick up a package supposedly containing the money he had demanded on threat of death. He was unarmed and offered no resistance.

Following his arraignment Saturday, Casey was held in $25,000 bond on federal extortion charges.

FBI agent W.A. Murphy said Casey wrote Beeghly on July 31 demanding the money. He threatened the millionaire with death for himself and his family if the money was not paid.

Beeghly, 74, president of the Standard Slag Co., and a director of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Co. and a number of other firms, contacted the FBI who instructed him to remain in touch with the extortionist.

A telephone call, one of four, Friday night, instructed Beeghly to send his son, Charles, 45, executive vice president of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Co., to a downtown restaurant where he found another message. It specified the meeting near the turnpike early Saturday.

Twirl Clinic Registration Slated At NE

Registration for a five-day twirling clinic will open Monday at 8 a.m. in the Northeast State gymnasium, Miss Ann Nichols, director, announced.

The clinic is open to persons six years old and over. Classes will be formed according to age and experience of students, and instruction will be given on both individual and group basis, the director explained.

Miss Nichols will be assisted by two experienced twirlers, Miss Bonnie Williams of Rock Island, Ill., and Miss Betty Brown of Natchitoches.

The class program will run from 8 to 10 a.m.; 10 to 12 a.m.; 1 to 3 p.m.

Various Phases

Phases of instruction to be given at the clinic include: contest twirling, use of the fire baton, dancing, and corps twirling. These types of training will be given by the three teachers who will work with each group.

The program of instruction is prepared to offer beginners and students who have had experience the kind of training which will be helpful in preparing them for performances in various types of programs and school activities, including cooperation with bands.

Miss Nichols, a Northeast junior, is a physical education major and feature twirler. She has won several titles, "Miss Majorette of Louisiana," Miss Mississippi Southern Majorette," "Miss Bienville Parish," and she was runner-up in the "Miss Holiday in Dixie" contest.

The local twirler has performed at the "Miss Northeast" pageant, "Miss Monroe-West Monroe" contest, the Cotton Festival, "Miss Stockshow" contest, and with the Northeast band.

Miss Wiliams has been a feature twirler at the University of Mississippi and she has gained wide recognition for twirling at various contests. She also is a professional dancer.

Miss Brown is a twirling specialist at Natchitoches High School and holder of the 1956-57 state twirling contest.

U.S., Britain Work On Plan For Mid-East

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI) Britain and the United States Saturday helped hammer into shape a western proposal to turn the Middle East political turmoil over to U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold.

The Americans, meanwhile, were reported preparing to pull another battalion of Marines out of Lebanon.

Britain's Sir Pierson Dixon and Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge of the United States carried on the negotiations as their two chiefs, Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd left the city for brief weekend respites from the emergency Assembly debate on the Middle East crisis. The U.N. session will be resumed Monday morning.

Lodge and Dixon conferred at U. N. headquarters with Hammarskjold and Norweigian Deputy Foreign Minister Hans Engen. The Norweigian is the author of a resolution which would have the Assembly instruct Hammarskjold to take urgent steps to safeguard the independence and political integrity of Lebanon and Jordan and permit the United States and Britain to withdraw their military forces.

Lodge said after the conference, "We are really moving along." He predicted that the watered-down Norweigian formula would secure widespread Assembly backing when it finally comes to a vote.

Meanwhile, reliable Beirut informants said another U.S. Marine battalion would be pulled out of Lebanon soon, "probably within a week," reducing U.S. strength there to 10,700 from a peak strength of 14,300 men.

With Dulles and Lloyd out of town and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko in seclusion at the Russians' Long Island estate, matters were in the hands of the "second team" but they were pressing forward in the hope of finding a formula upon which the necessary two-thirds majority of the assembly could agree.

One thing that greatly complicates the economics of the world is that so many people are living in it who can't afford to do so.

Sees Need For Better Lighting

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The crash of a Northeast Airlines Convair at Nantucket Friday night points up the need for better airport lighting systems, a spokesman for the Airline Pilots Assn. said Saturday.

Preliminary reoprts on the Nantucket accident indicated the pilot landed short of the runway when fog suddenly thickened in the last crucial seconds before he touched down.

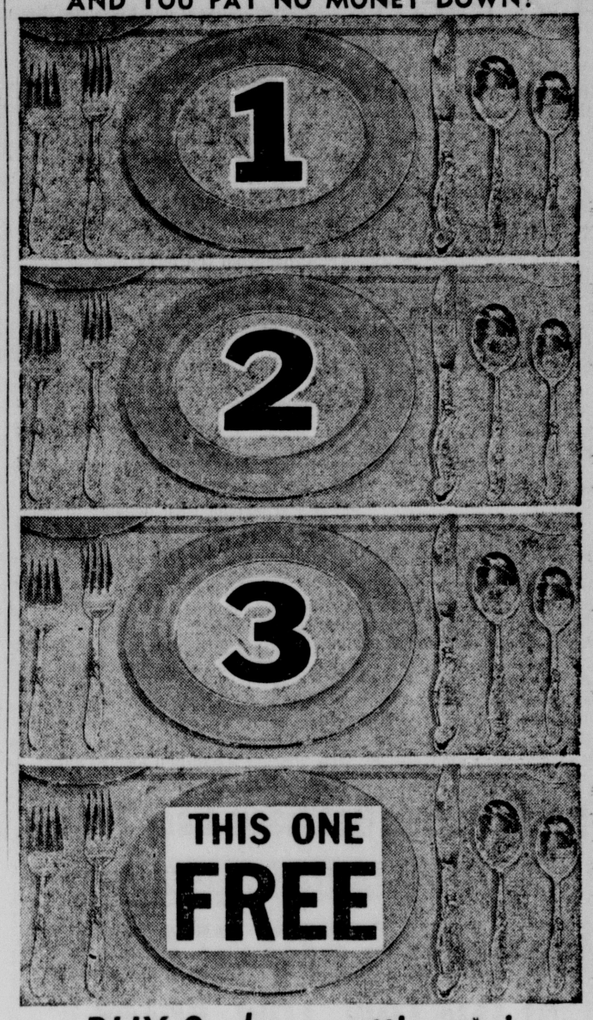

The A L P A spokesman emphasized that it is too early to determine all the factors that may have caused the crash. But he said the Nantucket airport has no instrument landing system and no high - intensity approach lights and only a minimum or radio navigational aids.

The A L P A safety expert said the ideal airport bad - weather lighting system consists of high-intensity "center line approach lights" which illuminate the exact center of a runway down its entire length with a fog - piercing gleam. Only Newark, Washington and Idlewild airports have center line approach light systems, he added.

The Navy is working on a complete blind landing system that will land a plane safely even in "ceiling -and - visibility zero" weather.

Ike Plans 11th Hour Aid Fight

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower is planning an 11th hour fight for all the foreign aid money he can get because he regards it as vital to his peace program for the Middle East, a high administration official said Saturday.

This informant said the President felt grateful for Democratic support of the program so far and hoped to get bipartisan support or his appeals next week in what is expected to be the final week of the 1958 session of Congress.

Specifically, the President was said to want Senate approval of the $3,518,000,000 foreign aid appropriation approved by the Senate Appropriations Committee and acceptance of that total by the House, which voted only $3,078,000,000.

The Senate is expected to go along with its committee. It is common, however, for House-Senate conference committees, which compromise different versions of bills, to split their differences. The President was said to be anxious for Congress to approve all or as much as possible of the 440 million dollars added by the Senate committee to the House-approved total.

The administration official, who is familiar with Eisenhower's attitude, cited the widespread support voiced in Congress for the Middle East program the President submitted to the United Nations assembly this week. The chief executive was said to feel that the best way Congress could follow through now would be to approve maximum foreign aid.

Auto Plunges Off Ferry, 1 Man Drowns

MELVILLE, La. (AP) — Dave Barber, 67-year-old Fordoche Negro, drowned Saturday when he moved his car to the front ramp of the Atchafalaya River ferry and toppled off.

Constable Otis H. Savage, who identified Barber, said the body and auto were lost in the deep, swift river.

Barber went to Melville during the night for a wake, the officer said, and was returning when he drove onto the ferry at 3:45 a.m.

The constable gave this story:

Barber got out of his car and removed the ferry chain when the craft was still some 200 yards from the river bank.

"Then he drove his car to the edge of the boat, where it hung up on the mat. The pilot yelled to the boathand to hook the boat chain onto the car bumper, but the chain was too short.

"The pilot then decided to stop the ferry, and the car toppled into the river."

State Spending Is Estimated

BATON ROUGE (AP) —The Public Affairs Research Council said Saturday state spending will climb to 653½ million dollars this fiscal year, while highways and public welfare may push the total even higher.

The 653½ is $2,300,000 or one-half per cent under spending in the previous fiscal year, which ended June 30.

Because of the teachers pay problem, PAR said, there has been uncertainity about the state's financial outlook for over a year.

Of the estimated total state spending by PAR, 505½ million will come from state taxpayers.

PAR said the Highway and Public Welfare departments may exceed present spending estimates, reminding that these two big spending agencies operate out of dedicated state revenues and federal aid.

Education spending will require 41.1 per cent of all state revenues, and 31.8 per cent of all funds available, PAR said. This estimated spending will be down $6,900,000 from estimated spending the previous year or 3.2 per cent.

But the education funds remain 50 million higher than in the 1955-56 fiscal year two years ago, showing a gain of 31.6 per cent, PAR said.

A major portion of the education reduction is in money for public schools, down $7,800,000. The total of $154,300,000 is a reduction of 4.8 per cent.

PAR said spending for public schools is 32.7 per cent higher tha in fiscal 1955-56

Higher education expenses will run $46,100,000 million, up $1,800,000 or 4.1 per cent.

Welfare is placed at $157,300,000, up $7,600,000 or 5.1 per cent.

The welfare increase, PAR said, is caused mainly by a boost in the new medical vendor program. It provides compensation for doctors and others giving service to welfare recipients.

To Return For Trial Of Murder

ATLANTA (AP) — Edwin Ray Dockery, 24, said Saturday he is ready to return to Alabama and stand trial for the murder of an aircraft worker near Collman, Ala.

"If I get the chair for murder in Alabama, there are lots of other things I will tell," he told detectives and newsmen.

The "other things" are crimes he committed or knows about, he indicated, but he would not go into details about them. But he did say "I don't think so," when asked if his crimes included other murders.

Dockery, alias Ray Bouger, has signed a statement that he choked to death Willie Thelbert Heatherly, 26, found near Cullman, Ala., Tuesday with a belt around his neck and his hands tied.

He is being questioned about the kidnaping and stabbing of Caswell P. Ellis III, New Orleans candy manufacturer, in Mississippi. Officers have quoted Dockery as saying he knew who kidnaped and stabbed Ellis.

In Mobile, Det. Capt. Talley Rollings said Ellis had identified Dockery from a picture as the man who kidnaped and stabbed him at Waynesboro, Miss., Aug. 5.

Of the Alabama murder charge, Dockery said, "I'm a practical man and I believe in doing things the best way. This is the best way for me."

Noting that he still has 10 years to serve in Michigan and faces other charges here as well as in Alabama, he added, "it just wouldn't make sense not to go on and stand trial for murder."

ATHENS (UPI) — Archbishop Makarios, ousted leader of the Greek Cypriots on Cyprus, Saturday rejected Britain's modified self - government plan for that troubled Mediterranean island colony.

The rejection was contained in his answer to urgings by the British governor of Cyprus, Sir Hugh Foot, not to reject "this last chance" to work together.

Refunds Due 68 Residents Of District

There is money waiting to be picked up by 68 Northeast Louisiana federal income tax payers, and of this number, 24 listed Monroe, West Monroe and Ouachita Parish addresses when they mailed in their 1957 returns.

The New Orleans office of the Internal Revenue Service said that 1,083 Louisiana residents have not claimed refunds due them on 1957 income taxes.

$56.52 Average

Chester A. Usry, district director, said the refund checks range from $825.32 down to 46 cents, for an average of $56.52, and persons due refunds are instructed to write to the Internal Revenue Service at 600 South Street, New Orleans. They must enclose a signature as it appeared on their income tax return to establish identification.

Advertises For Men To Finish Work

CORINTH, Miss. (UPI) — An electrical contractor, who has been picketed by a union for refusing to sign a contract and fined by the state for hiring outside labor, advertised Saturday for electricians to finish work on the Wurlitzer construction job.

Ray Electric Co., a subcontractor, was fined earlier this week for failture to hire local electricians for the job as required by law.

The project has been picketed by the Local 852 Brotherhood of Electrical Workers almost constantly since work got under way.

Arthur Croxdale, head of C&B Construction Co., which has the main contract, said Ray had attempted to hire local men before but had been unable to because of the union's insistence on a union contract.

The union has maintained it only wanted to see local men get the work. Pickets have not been at the project since the fine was levied.

Today the company placed a quarterpage ad in the Daily Corinthian for 10 to 12 men needed to finish the work.

She is a rare woman who believes what her mirror and birth certificate tell her.

Kathy Crosby Is Released From Hospital

The pretty 23-year-old actress, determined to attain the status of a registered nurse to "take care of our children," and Bing posed briefly with their son before leaving the hospital.

Bing, attired in sports clothes, kept a close eye on photographers to make sure they didn't get too close to "Bing Jr.," whose formal name will be Harry Lillis Crosby III.

Also posing with the mother and child — both of whom were described as being in "fine" condition — was Sister Mary Clements of the hospital staff.

When Bing was asked to step close to his wife and son, he said "if I get any closer, I'll be in the quilt."

Kathy became disturbed because she thought the flashbulbs were bothering her son. Bing then called a halt to all picture taking.

The child was the fifth son for Bing, who was previously married to the late Dixie Crosby.

He answered "you bet" last week when asked whether the couple would have more children. "Lots of them," he said.

Hospital spokesmen said Bing was about half an hour behind schedule when he came to pick up his wife and son, and the crooner kept newsmen and photographers waiting a while longer before appearing with them at the brief, prearranged press conference.

"I feel fine," said Kathy, who was dressed attractively in a black sheath dress.

She said she expected to enter a fall term nursing course at the hospital, located between Los Angeles and Hollywood.

Mrs. Crosby has been taking courses toward a bachelor of science degree at Los Angeles City College.

2 Executives Fined In Tenn.

DANDRIDGE, Tenn. (UPI) — Two Bush Bros. Co. executives were fined $50 each Saturday on a charge of voting in both the Republican and Democratic primaries Aug. 7.

Fred C. Bush, president of the canning firm, and Jack T. Bush, superintendent of Bush's Chesnut Hill plant, did not appear in court and their $50 cash bonds were forfeited for the fine.

Justice of the Peace R. T. Felknor, who took warrants against the two, said Jack Bush told him the law didn't apply to him and that he would vote in both primaries if he wanted to.

Restrictions Are Lifted

HONOLULU (AP) — Military and Civil Aeronautics Administration officials said Saturday that all restrictions on air and sea traffic around Johnston Island were lifted.

Neither the Navy nor the CAA would say whether lifting of the ban meant completion of nuclear missile testing in that area.

Await Word From Judge

ANNISTON, Ala. (AP)—Badman Ralph Cozzolino remained in Calhoun County jail here Saturday pending word from a federal judge who must decide his future.

The 32-year-old public enemy who had eluded police since he fled Kilby Prison at Montgomery July 17, was captured without resistance Friday nigh as he was driving through Anniston's business district.

He had been hunted throughout north Alabama and the Knoxville, Tenn., area since he eluded Atlanta police last Monday.

Cozzolino is wanted for an $18,000 supermarket robbery at Chamblee, Ga., and has a life sentence against him in Tennessee, a long term remaining at Kilby, and a three-year federal prison sentence.

FBI agents said it is up to the federal judge at Atlanta to decide what disposition will be made of Cozzolino.

Pay Tribute To Former A-Chairman

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower and the Senate paid tribute Saturday to Gordon Dean, former chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission who was killed in a plane crash at Nantucket, Mass., Friday night.

Leeis L. Strauss, Dean's successor as AEC chairman and now the President's special assistant on atomic affairs, said both Eisenhower and he were "terribly shocked at the tragic death of Gordon Dean."

"He was an able administrator and a great patriot," Strauss said in a statement. "The nation has lost a distinguished citizen whose contributions to tour welfare and progress were many. I mourn the untimely passing of my friend."

Sen. Albert Gore (D-Tenn.), a cousin of Dean's wife, led the Senate tributes as the Senate met in an unusual Saturday session.

Gore said the "tragedy of his death calls attention to the quality of his citizenship and service to his country." He said Dean had an "ability and an awareness of public interest, an administrative capacity and a quality of patriotism that is all too rare."

Joining in the eulogy were Sens. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.), Wayne Morse (D-Ore.), who served under Dean in the Justice Department; Mike Monroney (D-Okla.), Francis Case (R-S.D.) and John S. Cooper (R-Ky.).

Dean, a Democrat, was named to the AEC by former President Truman in 1949. He became its chairman in 1950 and served through 1953.

After leaving the AEC, he became an investment banker, joining the New York firm of Lehman Bros., and also served as chairman of the board of nuclear science and engineering Corp. and senior vice president and coordinator of Atomic Energy for General Dynamics Corp., builders of the atomic submarine Nautilus.

Although he as a lawyer by profession, specializing in criminal law, with no particular knowledge of science, Dean took to the AEC chairmanship the ability to say yes or no in a hurry — without ruffling feelings. His relations with congress — a vital aspect of the job were excellent.

Coeds Slate Cheerleader Camp Session

Six Northeast State coeds will leave August 24 for training at a five - day cheerleader camp at Southern Methodist University, Dallas.

Attendance of local college students is being sponsored by Northeast's student council, headed by Lemmie Hightower.

The cheerleader camp, one of the annual summer features at S. M. U., is considered among the most highly rated training events of its kind in the south, Hightower said. "The two - day course can be a great asset to the coming season's athletic program," he added.

Instruction at the university will be broad enough to apply to all types of athletic events found in colleges.

To Make Trip

Students who plan to make the trip include: Margaret Varnado of Monroe, who held a place on the Northeast cheering squad last season; Frances Smith of Sicily Island; Juanita Ratcliff of Rayville; Carolyn Albritton of Winnsboro; Sara Emrick of Jonesville, and Sue Shows of West Monroe.

The group will be taught methods of leading yells, conducting pep rallies, decorating football fields, preparing for other sports affairs, and promoting school spirit in general.

Immediatey after their return from camp the leaders will meet with Bobby Joe Oden, director of student activities, and Hightower to initiate plans for the first out-of-town game which Coach Jack Rowan's Indians will play with Southern State at Magnolia, Ark. on September 13.

Developer Of Bronchoscope Dies At Age 92

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Dr. Chevalier Jackson, renowed developer of the bronchoscope for ridding the human insides of alien matter, died Saturday. He was 92. Cause of death was not given.

Dr. Jackson, who since his withdrawal from active practice had been living on a farm in neighboring Montgomery County, was admitted to Temple University Hospital seven months ago.

He founded Temple's bronchoscopic clinic which bears his name and is now headed by his son, Dr. Chevalier L. Jackson. The son, sole survivor, was summoned home from a Brazilian lecture tour.

Credit for originating the bronchoscope generally is given to Dr. Gustav Killian, a German. But medical history records Dr. Jackson as perfecter of the technique.

The bronchoscope is a slim, hollow metal tube with a light at the tip for looking down gullets, windpipes and lungs. Forceps are inserted into the tube so that foreign objects may be taken from lungs and stomach.

Swartz Boy, 14, Suffers Injury

What started out as a family fishing trip sent a 14-year-old Swartz youth to Wright-Bendel clinic yesterday with a badly injured foot.

James Elton, 14, suffered a deep slash into the instep of his left foot at 2 p.m., when he stepped barefoot out of a jeep, and onto a jagged broken bottle, near Lake Ervin in Richland Parish.

His grandfather, G. E. Mason, also of Swartz, rushed him to the clinic where he was treated.

Mason had stopped the jeep and gotten out to ask directions of fishermen, when the mishap occurred. Mrs. Mason, their son, Clause Ray Mason, and his wife were also in the jeep.

They applied a tourniquet to halt heavy bleeding from the lacerated foot.

POLICE BLOTTER

EQUIPMENT STOLEN

Thieves with a yen for airplane equipment made off with a headphone and microphone set from a plane at Selman Field.

O. B. Frazier, 2756 Point Dr., told Monroe police that the set was taken after dark Friday night, from the North Louisiana Aero Hangar.

CASH IS TAKEN

Thieves entered the golf house of the Highland Park Country Club and stole $94.25 from a cash register Friday night or early Saturday morning.

The Ouachita parish sheriff's department was notified of the burglary at 6:30 a. m. yesterday.

Entry was gained after the thieves knocked out a window. They opened the cash register and took the cash, but did not disturb anything else in the building, officials said.

Investigation is underway by members of the sheriff's department.

Boats Recovered

Two stolen boats were recovered yesterday by a Monroe man, within an hour after he reported the theft to police.

O. S. Joiner, 4315 S. Grand St., called police at 5:45 a. m., and reported that a 14 foot boat had been taken overnight, in addition to a 12 foot boat stolen two weeks ago.

One hour later, he called to say that a fisherman had found both boats. The chains which attached the boats to the levee had been cut, and Joiner said he believed that someone had come up the river in another boat and taken his crafts.

Vandalism

Torn wallpaper and splattered paint in a house at 205 N. McGuire St. were reported to Monroe police yesterday by John Varino, owner of the residence.

Varino, who lives at 1717 S. Grand St., said that the vandalism occurred at some time between August 3 and 13. Police began investigation.

Escapee Sought

A 42 - year - old man is wanted by Monroe police, for simple escape from the city jail.

Luther Charles Keith, of Ananaac, Tex., walked off from the jail yesterday morning, officials said.

Faces Charges

A Negro woman who was reported injured in a fight with another woman late Friday night has been charged by Monroe police with aggravated battery and use of a dangerous weapon.

Robbie Tony, who gave her address as the Bennett Hotel, was stabbed several times by Cora V. Williams, Negro of 2312 Adams St., police said.

She was treated at Conway Memorial Hospital, released, then charged with the offenses.

Police said that both women had been fighting with beer bottles at Five Points on DeSiard Street. The Williams woman was arrested and charged with aggravated battery and use of a dangerous weapon.

Thefts Reported

Watermelon, peaches, electric drills, car jacks and a truck were reported as stolen to Monroe and West Monroe police yesterday.

J. A. Jennings of Rayville told Monroe police that he parked his truck at 100 Depot St. at 10 p.m. Friday, but when he went looking for it at 5:30 yesterday morning, the vehicle was missing.

The red ¾ ton truck was loaded with striped watermelons and two bushels of peaches. The keys were left in the truck.

J. R. Stuckey, 1010 Riverside, complained to Monroe police that two half - inch electric drills were taken from his truck, while it was parked in the Louisville Business Center Friday night.

West Monroe police received a report from Bob Ganey, 112 Splane Dr., West Monroe, that a car jack was stolen from his truck while it was parked in front of a cafe on Nat Street, near the paper mill, sometime between August 13 and 16.

Monroyans Named Student Advisors

BATON ROUGE (Special) — Four local girls have been selected to serve as student advisors at LSU for the 1958-59 school year.

Sylvia Gentry, Joan Magruder, Joretta Ray and Lynn Theus, all of Monroe, are among the 75 coeds named by Helen B. Gordon, dean of women, to orient new students in various phases of campus life.

Coed-advisors are chosen on the basis of reputable scholastic records, an active participation in campus affairs and a general appreciation of university standards and policies.

Cotton's Holsum Bakery

RECENTLY — THE W. E. LONG TROPHY FOR EXCELLENCE IN PRODUCTION OF HOLSUM BREAD - NOW! (Reproduced Below) THE STORY OF OUR NEWLY MODERNIZED MONROE PLANT IN THE JULY ISSUE OF "THE DOUGH BOY," OUTSTANDING BAKER'S MAGAZINE IN THE SOUTH AND SOUTHWEST!

At left, above and below are pictured some of the modern equipment that has been installed in the renovated plant at Monroe, showing efficient layout and ample space allowed for operation.

TURN OVER ONE OLD BAKERY TO THE COTTONS AND YOU HAVE —

OPEN HOUSE FOR MODERNIZED PLANT

More than 10,000 people visit Monroe, La., plant during 3-day ceremonies.

TEN THOUSAND OR MORE people from Monroe, La., and environs visited the modernized baking plant of Ouachita Bakery, Inc. in that city, during open - house, which was conducted on a Sunday afternoon at the end of May, and on the two succeeding evenings. The hundreds upon hundreds of visitors came despite prevailing bad weather and the ominous menace of a flood by the Ouachita River, which crested at an almost record - breaking high, and threatened to burst levees in and around Monroe.

The Holsum plant of the Cottons marked culmination of improvements over a five - year period with the celebration. This was formerly the Ouachita Baking Co. plant, Northeast Louisiana's largest bakery. It was taken over in 1953 by the Cottor interests, headed by William F. "Bill" Cotton, president of Cotton Brothers Baking Co. of Alexandria, La. The Monroe bakery operates as a separate unit, under management of Fred Cotton, a son of Bill. Since 1953, the 12 routes operated when the present operators took over, have grown to 37 routes.

The bakery was originally founded as the Ouachita Baking Co. of Monroe, back in 1926, by the late G. B. Watkins, and later it was operated by his son, G. B. Jr., until Cotton took over. Incidentally, the present office manager, Sam Rasberry, is now in his 30th year at this plant.

Only bread and bread products are produced at the Monroe bakery, but cakes are sold. However, these are produced at the Cotton plant in Alexandria.

The Monroe bakery has a capacity of 5400 loaves per hour. Although only semi - automatic at present, it will become fully automatic eventually, when the expansion and improvement program is fully extended.

A cursory view of the plant layout might give the impression that it is smaller than it actually is. During the past five years, the Cottons have employed considerable ability and ingenuity to circumvent obstacles and problems to gain greater operational efficiency, and to achieve full use of available space. For example, an enclosed conveyor tunnel was constructed over what was formerly the loading space and dock in the rear of the original plant, to transport the boxed bread products from the slicing and wrapping room to the loading dock, which was added some years ago to the rear of the plant. Then the compactness of the production department also may mislead about capacity and floor area covered, but maximum operational efficiency has been gained.

Storage of bag flour has been eliminated, as this plant as well as Cotton Alexandria plant use the bulk flour system. The Monroe plant has four storage tanks providing a combined capacity of 440,000 lbs. of flour. What the Cottons have accomplished to increase the efficiency of what was formerly not too modern an operation, is a marvel. When the interviewer remarked that the Cotton interests have spent a good deal of money and capital investment in improvements, one of the loyal employees added: "You are right, but one thing is sure — those Cottons know how to spend money in good investments, efficiency and getting the maximum return on every dollar spent."

The endless search for more efficiency, which characterizes all Cotton operations, is quite evident at the Monroe plant. For example, power failures were as frequent as three times monthly, so the management decided to do something about it, because of losses involved in the handling of live doughs. The answer came with the installation of their own emergency power plant, now in use. This has proved quite profitable, because when depreciation for this power unit is considered, its use in the event of just one power failure will pay for itself. Fred Cotton points out that the unit is occasionally used to insure its operation in case of need. This is the only plant in Louisiana with an emergency electric power plant.

The improvement program is continuing. Plans include construction of new dressing rooms, as well as a new dough room next fall.

The open - house observance was a very successful one, and the thousands who came were taken on tours of the plant, including grocers and dealers. The management was capably assisted by the industry's good friends, the allied tradesmen who turned out in numbers to be of service. The visits proved highly valuable in making the public more conscious of baker's bread and keenly aware of the modern equipment and scientific methods employed in its production.

As one of the Monroe plant officials commented: "When you get thousands of folks like this interested, it is a real service to the community in its educational and informative aspect, besides its value to the baking industry. So many folks still have the idea that bread dough is still kneaded by hand with all the attendant unsanitary aspects. Tours of the bakery such as at our open-house, serve to correct these false ideas."

A full - page, two - color ad in the Monroe News-Star announced the open - house and invited the public to visit the modernized Monroe plant, "Northeast Louisiana's largest bakery." Valuable door prizes were given away during the two evening visits. These included a gas range, an air-conditioner and a roaster oven. The ad carried a large picture of the W. E. Long Trophy, won by the plant for excellence in production of Holsum bread among the country's Holsum plants.

Loyalty and good personnel relations prevailing among the 100 or more employees, have been achieved through consideration of workers' needs. The company's program includes many employee benefits, such as a credit union, group insurance, hospitalization, pensions, and others.

During the past five and one-half years, the equipment in the plant has been replaced by modern or latest - type units. In the production department are two mixers, one No. 13 and the other No. 16, a six - pocket divider, a moulder, a 44-tray traveling oven, a depanner and a de - lidder, two slicing and wrapping machines, overhead proofer, cooler, bread conditioner and other equipment, all modern type. The equipment has been laid out to provide the highest efficiency in a compact plant.

The genial and modest, but aggressive young manager, Fred Cotton, is only 28 years old, but he has had eight years of experience in the baking industry, three of them spent in all departments of the Alexandria plant, and five at the Monroe establishment. Fred finished two years of college at Louisiana State University. He is married and the father of a 22-month old daughter — really the apple of his eye. Besides keen interest in cameras and photography, he goes in for hunting and fishing. Production manager of the plant is Bill Burnett, and the sales manager, O. W. Whatley.

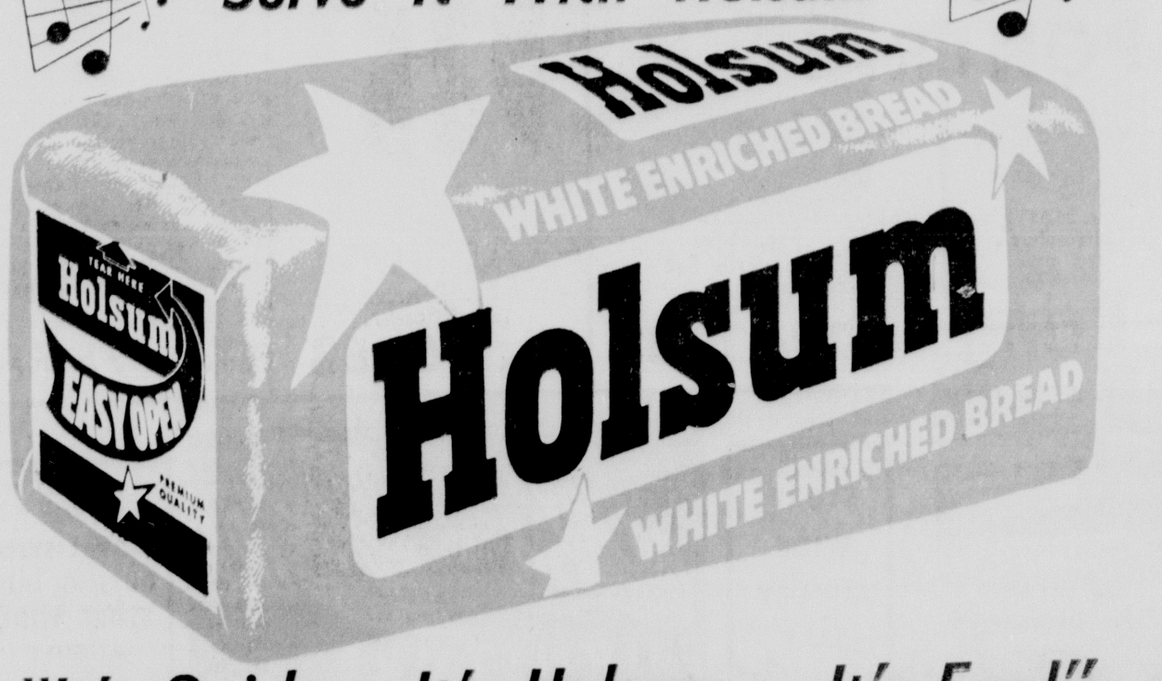

Cotton's Monroe bakery serves an area in a radius of 60 miles. To maintain sales in that market, the bakery uses various forms of advertising, including TV spots, and one 30 - minute program, also spots on radio, and a fair amount of newspaper advertising, plus more than 25 billboards of 24-sheet type.

To stimulate efforts among driver salesmen, the Monroe plant management recently conducted a 60 - day contest that involved points given to each salesmen at each week-end. Numerous prizes were offered for drivers running up the largest number of points. Among them were an outboard motor, appliances, kitchen utensils and others. However, the top prize was unique. This was the use of a fully air - conditioned delivery truck, with power steering, power brakes, radio, heater and all latest appliances. At the end of each week, the driver salesman amassing the largest number of points got the use of this truck for his deliveries for the ensuing week. Then at the close of the 60-day period, the salesman having the most points got the luxury truck for permanent use.

The Cotton Monroe plant is an excellent example of bakery modernization, top efficiency, ingenuity and careful planning for maximum and most effective use of available space, and capable management — all of which under an aggressive young manager, have brought a tripling of bread routes within a half - decade.

DWIGHT D. VINES

Dwight Vines Is Added To NE Faculty

Dwight Delbert Vines has been appointed to the Northeast State faculty as instructor in business administration, President George T. Walker announced yesterday.

Vines did his graduate study at Louisiana State University following interruption of college work by four years of service in the U. S. Air Force, one of which was spent in the Far East.

After graduating from JonesboroHodge High School, he entered Northwestern State College where he was awarded the B.S. degree in business administration.

Many Honors

He won many distinctive honors for his academic work and accomplishments in campus activities during his stay at Northwestern State. Among the major achievements was his selection as the recipient of the Pi Omega award of 1956-57, which is given annually by the business education fraternity to the outstanding graduate in that field of study. His name appears in the Senior Hall of Fame for this period.

Vines held the Northwestern chapter presidency of two national organizations, Pi Omega Pi, business education fraternity, and Phi Kappa Delta, honorary forensic fraternity, which requires membership on the debate team.

He also was active in Pi Kappa Phi, social fraternity, and he was a member of the "N" Club, having lettered in tennis.

Vines is married and the father of a son, aged one and one-half. They live at 602 Lakeshore.

When a custard uses both cornstarch and egg yolks as thickening, the milk should be cooked with the corstarch before the egg yolks are added. That's because cornstarch can take a boiling temperature and the egg yolks can not or they will curdle the mixture.

Achievements Of Congress Are Listed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The space-age 85th Congress Saturday neared the end of its two-year stand—a period that should long be remembered.

If it does nothing else in its few remaining days this Congress will go down in history for, along other things:

1. Enacting the first civil rights bill in almost a century.

2. Putting the dollars-and-cents boost behind America's first satellite.

3. Making it more expensive to mail letters.

4. Okaying Alaska's admission to the union as the 49th state.

Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas said publicly Saturday for the first time that he expects Congress to quit for the year some time this week. How early in the week, Johnson said, depends on "how long senators want to talk."

Johnson made his comment after calling the Senate into an unusual Saturday session to complete action on a House-passed bill raising social security benefits and taxes.

Another matter before the senators, and one that might keep them in a late-night session, was the long-deferred nomination by President Eisenhower of W. Wilson White to be assistant attorney general for civil rights.

The post is a new one, set up under the civil rights bill enacted by the present Congress. Many Southern Democrats object to White's getting the job because he did legal research for Eisenhower's use of troops in the Little Rock, Ark., integration dispute.

Johnson told the Senate Saturday there are several other actions on which it must reach a decision before adjourning. He listed these as the foreign aid appropriation, a boost in the public debt ceiling, farm surplus disposal overseas, and renegotiation of contracts.

Also, he said, final action still must be taken on bills in conference for adjustment of Senate and House differences.

The 85th Congress already has won a niche as one of the biggest-spending congresses in history. It has voted appropriations of about 140 billion dollars and paved the way for an expected federal deficit of 12 billion dollars this year. It boosted the national debt ceiling once last year and is about to raise it again this year. Hopes for an election-year tax cut had to be abandoned.

It has been a busier than average Congress. Whether its net accomplishments were good or bad will be debated before the November congressional elections are held.

Grand Jury Relaxes In 2-Week Probe

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — A federal grand jury relaxed Saturday in the middle of a vigorous two-week probe into the affairs of an alleged international gambling syndicate believed to have grossed "substantially more" than $3,500,000 last fall at Terre Haute, Ind.

The jurors, which heard 68 witnessses in the past week, were to resume the hearing Monday morning, with more than 100 persons listed for testimony.

Among the witnesses scheduled in the coming week were Zeppo Marx of the famous Marx Brothers comedy team; H. L. Hunt Dallas, Tex., multi-millionaire oilman said to be the second richest man in the world; Dr. B. H. Kean, described as a Park Ave. physician in New York City, and Tobias Stone, a nationally known bridge expert.

Most of the witnesses thus far, and some of those still to testify, were described by government spokesmen as men who placed large bets with the gamblers before their Terre Haute dean was raided by U.S. tax intelligence agents last Nov. 29 after 10 weeks of operation.

Also scheduled to testify were Mayor Ralph Tucker of Terre Haute, and Hoosier democratic nominee for governor in 1956, and several of his city officials. District attorney Don A. Tabbert said he intended to ask them what they knew, if anything, about the syndicate's operations.

After the first week of the inquiry, Tabbert said testimony indicated that "substantially more" than the original estimate of $3,500,000 gross income was realized by the syndicate.

Cat Fright Proves Fatal

DALLAS (AP) — Mrs. Annie Fifer, 72, who fell into a ditch when frightened by a cat, died Saturday of a broken neck suffered in the accident.

Her husband, Azidd Fifer, told police Mrs. Fifer was frightened by the cat Wednesday morning as she walked to a nearby meeting of her church.

Recover Two Bodies In Ala.

CAMDEN, Ala. (UPI) — Two bodies were recovered from the Alabama River early Saturday, both drowning victims.

Wilcox County Sheriff T. Jenkins said the body of Billy Martin, 20, of Lemison in Marengo County, was recovered at 2:15 a.m.

Martin's father said the youth swam up the river Friday from Clifton Ferry, nine miles from here to get bait for them to fish with. He was caught in the swift current and drowned.

Brooks Brewton, 35, of Frisco City in Monroe County, drowned Thursday night and his body wasn't recovered until about 8:15 a.m. Saturday. He was dumped into the swift river when his outboard motorboat overturned near Monroeville.

Means Of Combating Ray Seen

BURLINGTON, Vt. (UPI) — A radiation expert expressed the conviction Saturday that scientists will find a means some day of undoing the damage inflicted by atomic rays upon the apparatus of heredity.

Up to now geneticists have assumed that radiations like those generated by nuclear tests or medical X - ray machines caused ineitable and irreversible damage to the germ cells which transmit hereditary characteristics from generation to generation. They say this is dooming untold millions to defective lives.

But new information disclosed at the first international congress of radiation research concluded here last night has shaken some concepts heretofore considered all but gospel.

This fact and the mushrooming of world research in radiation, as reflected at this congress, moved Dr. Austin M. Brues of the Atomic Anergy Commission's Argonne National Laboratory to observe:

"I think we're going to find a way to repair genetic damage from radiation. I don't think it's a fantastic idea at all."

Dr. R. A. Conard of the Atomic Energy Commission's Brookhaven National Laboratory told the Congress that 2 Marshall Islanders dusted with fallout from the 1954 Pacific bomb tests still are radioactive.

Conard said part of their radioactivity stems from nuclear reactions that would be a characteristic effect of the so - called "clean H - bomb" exploded under similar circumstances.

The radioactive Marshallese, inhabitants of Rongelap Island, were dusted with "hot snow" from the explosion March, 1, 1954, of a 15 megaton fission -fusion- fission bomb at Bikini, 105 miles from Rongelap. A 15 megaton bomb is equal in power to 15,000,000 tons of TNT.

The Rongelap natives were exposed to fallout radiation for about 50 hours before they were evacuated from their contaminated island. They were permitted to return in March, 1957.

Sailors Save Ten Persons

MEMPHIS (UPI) — Two sailors on early morning dates helped save 10 persons Saturday in a before-dawn fire here.

The Navy identified the men as sailors Ted N. Castleberry, Rte. 3, Forsyth, Ga., and Arthur H. Gonzales, Sante Fe, N.M.

The sailors, sitting on a front porch with their dates, heard a woman scream "fire." They dashed next door to find smoke pouring from a house.

Castleberry and Gonzales entered the burning duplex twice to bring out two men, three women and five children.

ants speculated on "whether the big one will make it."

The Air Force has pinned its hopes on an unwieldy - looking rocket, shaped like a giant telescope with a knobby device containing the "payload package" on top.

But the rocket, unlike the Vanguard, is not an entirely new assembly. The first stage is a Thor intermediate range ballistic missile, 18 of which have been fired since testing of the weapon began.

Big Question Mark

Mounted atop the Thor is the highly modified second stage of a Vanguard, the Navy's temperamental satellite-launcher. This was the section which failed to ignite when the Navy fired its last Vanguard last June 26.

The vital third stage is the big question mark.

Lt. Gen. Samuel Anderson, over-all chief of the Air Force missile program, has said the third stage has never been flight tested. But Anderson said its engines have been fired on the ground many times, and he discribed it as "a good rocket."

The knob-shaped contrivance at the top of the rocket is the payload package, the part of the vehicle which will travel alone for most of the journey. This is packed with special instrumentation, including a television-like scanning device to send back signals which could be reconstructed to give crude pictures of the moon.

Whether or not the first attempt succeeds, the Air Force will fire two more moon rockets later this year. The Army has been assigned two shots as part of the same program.

Tourists Soften Recession Impact

ing 9,035 rooms, of which 31 were motels with 1,721 rooms.

On July 31 this year, the Association total reached 90 members, representing 9,424 rooms. Of this number, 36 were motels representing 2,100 rooms.

Not all motels are included in this group.

A. J. Spatafora, president of the New Orleans Hotel Assn., said, "Generally, business in this area seems to be on a par with 1957. The Sugar Bowl and Mardi Gras always are our peaks. . .We would like very much to see more done to promote tourist travel and conventions in the summer months."

A wait-and-see policy about the recession no longer is evident, said Al Bourgeois, convention manager for the Roosevelt Hotel in New Orleans.

"Reservations are being made well in advance," he said. "Business the first six months this year is slightly over 1957. The recession that was setting in now has taken a reverse tack."

Visitors to the International Trade Mart in New Orleans are up almost 10,000 for the first six months of 1958, compared with the corresponding period a year ago.

In the French Quarter, the Cabildo Museum reports a 27.8 per cent rise during the six-month period.

The State Tourist Bureau said registrations amounted to 67,067 the first half of 1958 at the highway stations, up more than 2,000.

However, these figures don't show that the average tourist party now consists of 3.9 persons, compared with 3.1 a year earlier.

Right along with the new national trend, out-of-state use of state park facilities by the tent-and-trailer crowd is up 200 per cent.

Statement Is Issued

16 represent the taxpayers of Monroe and West Monroe, and seven represent those living in the country wards.

"Members of the Police Jury have long ago adopted a policy of cooperation with the cities of Monroe and West Monroe as it feels that we are all citizens of Ouachita Parish, and that a benefit to one segment benefits all the people Selman Field, for instance, was owned by Ouachita Parish prior to World War II. When the government needed this field for the U. S. Air Force, it was deeded to the government. After the war, the government offered to return the field to the parish. After investigation, it was decided by the Police Jury that the best interests of the parish, including the City of Monroe, would best be served by having the government deed the property to the City of Monroe. Recent statements in the news seem to substantiate our position that Selman Field will best serve all the people as now constituted for bringing into the parish many new industries.

Cooperation

"As another example of our cooperative spirit, it will be recalled that several years ago, the drainage problem in Monroe was abominable. The Federal government made available certain funds to the parish with which to construct drainage canals and ditches, which primarily relieved this situation. The entire parish voted a drainage maintenance tax which could be, and was used exclusively to maintain this drainage program to relieve the problem in the city of Monroe.

"This drainage tax has expired ove a year ago. The proposed one half mill tax will serve all of the parish instead of a small portion and will replace the expired tax.

Used By All

"The roads of the parish of Ouachita are used by all the residents, including the people of our Twin Cities. The people who live in the country wards use the parish road "to come to town" to buy from our many merchants. Our merchants, farm supply and machinery dealers, and others use these roads to deliver merchandise and equipment to the farmers and country residents. Many city dwellers own property in the suburban areas. Many of our good folks like to fish, hunt and picnic, and use these roads.

"We feel that the proposed two-mill tax for blacktopping our principal parish roads will benefit every citizen of Ouachita Parish, regardless of where they live or work or play.

"The Cheniere Lake propositions are in the same category. All of the people of Ouachita Parish will benefit from its purchase and maintenance, both for recreation and water conservation.

Sales Tax Out

"The Police Jury knew that some had proposed a sales tax in which our two cities and the parish would share on a population basis. Such a tax is not possible without a special act of the Legislature. The Police Jury waited until the Legislature adjourned with no action authorizing such a tax before submitting any proposition to the people for a vote. Due to increased costs of labor and material, and having no special fund for road maintenance, the general fund is depleted annually by gravel road maintenance. The blacktop program proposed will save money both for citizens and maintenance.

"Sixty out of 64 parishes in Louisiana now have road taxes. Ouachita is one of the four without support for its roads."

If the saying, "You're as old as you feel," be true, many a person is 62 after a good night's rest and 77 at the end of the day.

Nasser Said Suspicious Of Ike Plan

put before Nasser thus can be summed up in these terms: If Nasser is willing to renounce the use of indirect aggression to achieve his aim of a unified Arab world, the U. S. President is willing to back an economic agency which would get large supplies of American dollars to build up the economies and raise the living standards of the Arab peoples.

If Nasser is determined to persist in a course which the United States considers reckless and a threat to world peace, then Eisenhower sees no prospects of dealing with the Middle East other than by trying to marshal the resources of the U. N. to thwart indirect aggression.

U. S. officials say Nasser necessarily will make his decision in terms of what he thinks will advance most his dream of a united Arab world under his leadership.

Mission Of Moon Rocket Is Explained

probe could do may lead the public to think the Air Force boasted too much in advance. "If the rocket goes flooey somewhere along the way."

"This speculation was not generated by the Air Force," it was pointed out. "It has been stated all along that the primary purpose of the first shot is to test the vehicle itself."

Envious of how the Navy was able to send two submarines under the North Pole without any advance public speculation as to the probable success, a public information officer sighed, "you just can't keep a missile under cover like you can a submarine."

Weapons Charge Is Lodged Here

Charges of carrying a concealed weapon were lodged last night against a 58-year-old Monroe Negro, arrested by city police at 9:30 p.m. at the corner of 11 and Adams Streets.

Isaac Williams, 106½ North 11 St., posted $360 bond on a charge of carrying a concealed pistol. He is scheduled to appear in court Wednesday, to answer charges.

Son Of Former Official Held As Boy Killed

of wrestling scuffles began "after some sand throwing. This was the tragic climax to a little, boyish argument, which developed over practically nothing.

"Apparently, they were wrestling in the sand," Wilkins said. "Ford decided to go home (his family has a summer home nearby, just south of the Grand Hotel at Point Clear, on the eastern shore of Mobile Bay) and one of the boys yelled 'let's get him.' Ford seems to have picked up the knife, then, from a pier. It belonged to Brown.

"The other boys apparently didn't see him get the knife, the sheriff continued. "When they clustered around him, he may have panicked and slashed at them."

"I don't think it was premeditated," he added.

Brown slumped to the sand, blood pouring from a chest wound. Muscat and McHugh and a fourth boy started to yell for help.

Brown, whose father is a prominent Mobile physician, died before the bleeding could be stopped. The other two were not seriously cut.

Urged To Okay Farm Measure Without Changes

to whittle minimum price supports — now at 75 per cent of partiy — to as low as 65 per cent for corn this year and for rice and cotton by 1962. These would be the lowest parity levels since 1939 and 1940.

This year, cotton is pegged at 81 per cent of parity, corn at 77 per cent and rice at 75 per cent. Under present law, the level can not be cut below 75 per cent

The Senate bill would have given Bensor even greater flexibility in cutting supports but benson indicated either the House or Senate measure would be acceptable.

Another Benson-endorsed bill was recommended today for a Senate-House conference by the Senate committee. It would extend the law which regulates the disposal of billions of dollars worth of surplus farm commodities aboard. Benson also put up a determined fight for it.

On the main farm bill, the Senate group bowed to a threat by House speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex) that sending the measure to conference would mean no farm legislation this year.

The senate committee then reversed itself.

Voting to adopt the house bill were Ellender and Sens. Olin D. Johnston (D-SC), Spessard L. Holland (D-Fla), James Eastland (D-Miss), Herman E. Talmadge (D-Ga), George D. Aiken (R-Vt), Milton Young (R-ND), Andrew F. Schoeppel (R-Kan) and Bourke B. Hickenlooper (R-Iowa).

Recorded against were Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn), William Proxmire (D-Wis), Stuart Symington (D Mo), Karl E. Mundt (R-SD), John J. Williams (R-Del), and Edward J. Thye (R-Minn).

Japanese Student

A highly interesting Japanese student and missionary to his people, the natives of Japan, will speak to audiences here today. Rev. John Kondoh will address successive assemblages at Trinity, Peniel and Edgewood churches today — all located in West Monroe. At Trinity church he is slated to talk at 8:30 a. m., at Peniel Baptist at 11 a. m., and at Edgewood Baptist at 8 p. m. His addresses will indicate the substantial service he is according the people of Japan and elsewhere.

Cool Vacation

Seems that the torrid month of August caused many to take that annual vacation to escape the heat. Jes' Ramblin' has received a card from the Bill Harpers, of whom there is one widely known as "Judge Harper." He writes us a card mailed at Asheville, N. C. which runs thus: "All of us from Monroe were sitting by a big fire in the huge fireplace here (Blue Ridge, N. C.) and we shall recall it with kindly thought when we get back to Monroe and the thermometer reaches 96 degrees." Many of us are a bit jealous of such a set up as the judge describes. But from the same place the YMCA and YWCA group from Monroe are also rusticating between conference sessions. In this group is Charles A. Wood, and Bess Sharp, executive secretary of the Monroe YWCA.

Card

The Ed Crowleys are at Nassau and the card they sent us indicates that the beach along the seacoast must be wonderful. Again we'd like to be there, too.

Cruise

The R. W. Ellingtin Jr. family, 409 College avenue, is spending this week end along the Gulf. Motoring to the vicinity of the Alabama coast they rented a large powered craft for a week-end cruise. They expect to return Monday well sunburned and a bit tired, but, oh, what a glorious time!

Visitors

St. Louis visitors in the home of Dr. and Mrs. Frank Martin on McCain Drive are enjoying their stay in Monroe as a part of their summer vacation. The group includes Mrs. Martin's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Rigley, and Dr. Martin's sister and her husband, the Frank Gilders, who were accompanied by their daughters, Betty Lee and Jane. The Martins came to Monroe two years ago when he accepted a position on the Northeast State faculty with the opening of the School of Pharmacy.

Monroe Man Treated For Slash Wound

A 25-year-old Negro was treated for a slash wound on the wrist last night, following a fight in his home. Another Negro landed in jail following the incident.

Marvin Ford, 25, Negro of 116 Old DeSiard Ave. was treated for the wound at St. Francis hospital.

L. C. Colsey, 20, Negro of Adams Street, was arrested by police at the corner of 14th and Washington Streets, and charged with simple battery, disturbing the peace, public intoxication and trespassing

Officials said that Colsey entered Ford's home and a fight followed. Colsey failed to post $500 bond when he was charged with the offenses, and was placed in jail to await trial next Friday.

Police also arrested Glosie Givens, 48, Negro of 1227 DeSiard St. on charges of disturbing the peace and carrying a concealed weapon

Bond was set at $127.50 and he was placed in the city jail, with trial scheduled for next Friday.

Two Men Face Charges Here

Two men were arrested, charged with public intoxication and placed in the West Monroe jail yesterday, after a two-car collision on the West Monroe side of the new traffic bridge.

James H. Speights, 36, of Route 1, Choudrant and Robert Speights, 1105 N. Third St., West Monroe were taken in custody after a car in which they were riding collided with the back of another auto which halted for a traffic light.

Driver of the other car was Thomas J. McCullough, 21, of 2005 Francis Pl., Monroe.

Both vehicles were going west at the time, according to West Monroe police who were summoned to the scene after the mishap.

Both Speights denied that they were driving the car in which they were riding. It is owned by Robert Speight, officials said.

employes, employer and self-employed.

With passage imminent, Senate leaders announced the Senate could quit for the night after the final roll call. Earlier, they had planned to bring up the controversial nomination of Wilson White to head the new civil rights division in the justice department. This was put off until Monday.

The unsuccessful move to boost the benefit payments had bipartisan support. It was offered by Sen. Ralph Yarborough (D-Tex.) who had nine co - sponsors. They argued the social security fund would still be "in good shape" with the higher payment rate.

Auto Damaged In Crash Here

Sometimes it isn't safe to park your car in front of your house.

That's what Daniel Head, 33, Negro of 712 Layton St., discovered last night.

His auto was safely parked - he thought - on the street, when he heard a crash, looked and saw another car driving away.

He investigated further, and found that the left rear of his auto was damaged.

Monroe police were summoned, and began investigation.

"Mutuality of interests" is the key fact, U. S. officials say. China needs Russia. Russia, to almost as great an extent, needs China.

The practical men in the Kremlin and the Chu Jen Palace give every sign of living by this fact.

Peipings successive five - year plans would collapse without Soviet aid. Its military might would become a paper tiger without Soviet gasoline, planes, guns, tanks and electronic gear. Its trade depends on Soviet markets and transport. Its political doctrines are founded on communist solidarity.

Moscow holds these trump cards. But can it safely play them?

Solidarity also is the Kremlin's gospel. Can its leaders afford to take responsibility for a split with China? Could it actually control Mao if he threatened, against Kremlin advice, to plunge into war with the United States over Chinese nationalist Formosa?

Could Russia stand by and refuse to help?

Could Khrushchev survive in the continuing Kremlin power struggle if the Chinese branch of the party exploited discontent feelings among the satellites and openly criticized Khrushchev's leadership?

These are some of the weapons that balance Peiping's dependence on Soviet handouts.

INTERNATIONAL MEETING

Nudists Guests Of English Duke

WOBURN, England (AP)—About 200 undressed men and women became guests Saturday of Britain's best dressed aristocrat—the Duke of Bedford.

They are nudists attending a full undressed session of the International Naturist Congress on the expansive grounds of the duke's stately home, Woburn Abbey.

His grace isn't there. He went off to Canada, maybe to get away from the anguished cries of neighbors who resent sun bathing in the altogether.

There is a chance, an aide said, that he may be back in time to greet some of the nudists before the congress ends Aug. 31. They'll have clothes on, though, if they are visited by the duke. He isn't a nudist.

Woburn Park has a circumference of 12 miles. The nudists are assembled about five miles from the abbey. A wattle fence of twisted twigs hides the congress's activities from the public gaze.

Woburn Abbey is one of the best known of the stately homes open to visitors for an admission fee.

The duke, an enterprising man trying to raise money to pay inheritance taxes on the estate, was quite unperturbed by criticism of his decision to let the nudists in.

The wattle fence seemed to overcome objections, and nudists don't undress until they get inside.

learned there was sufficient visibility. In the next five minutes the field was closed in.

The agent tried to reach Burnham to tell him the airport was closed but couldn't raise him.

Burnham, an experienced pilot, was killed as were the copilot Davis Carey, 23, of Cambridge and Nantucket, and the stewardess, Arlene Dabek, 23, of Manchester, N.H.

Fomer Stanshigh, an airfield maintenance worker, said he had seen a blinding flash.

"There was no sound—just the flash, he said. "A few seconds later I heard a hissing noise."

Helium Use Increasing Steadily

WASHINGTON (AP) — One day in 1903, citizens of Dexter, Kan., were disappointed when they attempted to ignite natural gas which had been discovered nearby. It would not burn.

Two years later two University of Kansas scientists found that the gas contained helium, which prevented the gas from burning. The helium discovery caused no excitement because at the time, Rep. J. Floyd Breeding (D-Kan) told the House, helium was a laboratory curiosity with no practical application.

"Today we know that the Dexter discovery was an important event in the development of our national defense and economy," the Kansan said.

"For today, helium is a valuable, industrial, medical research and military tool essential to our most vital programs — and the source of supply for all of our helium - bearing natural gas similar to that found in Dexter."

Use of helium is increasing so sharply, Breeding said, that by 1980 there may not be sufficient production to meet defense demands unless helium now being wasted is conserved. He said this would require new helium plants.

The Bureau of Mines now is the only producer of helium in the free world. It has four plants in Texas, Kansas and New Mexico. Money to permit construction of a 12 million dollar helium extracting plant at Keyes, Okla., is included in a pending supplemental appropriations bill.

"It is hoped that private industry will finance, construct and operate the plants to sell helium to the government," he said.

Breeding said a new national helium conservation policy announced last May by Secretary of Interior Seaton indicated the importance of the gas to the nation's needs.

"This policy, which will save billions of cubic feet of helium that would otherwise be wasted into the atmosphere, is deserving of the support of every farsighted citizen," Breeding added.

The Bureau of Mines estimates that the government's four existing helium plants produced approximately 330 million cubic feet of helium in the year ended last June 30.

Breeding said ten times that amount is being wasted yet be gases. This waste must be stopped, he said, if a serious shortage is to be prevented.

Natural gas from these areas now goes to Chicago, Detroit, Denver and other cities.

Simmons...Gives You All That You Expect of a Mattress

Paul Martin Looks 'Em Over

The people of Ouachita parish are going to be asked to purchase Cheniere lake and save this fine recreation spot for the future.

The contract between the Dixie Lumber Company, owners of this lake that's roughly six miles long and nearly three miles wide at the widest, and the Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries Commission expires in 1966. That contract back in the '40's permitted construction of the dam that created the lake, but when the contract expires the lake CAN BE DRAINED unless some provision is made to pass it into public hands.

The Dixie Lumber Company, to which area sportsmen already owe a tribute for permitting creation of the lake in the first place, is willing to sell the property at a price far below the value of the lake as a recreation center open to everybody and already attracting hundreds of fishermen daily.

Just who buys the property may have a lot to do with whether it remains a lake open to the public. Certainly if the people of Ouachita parish make the purchase through passage of a proposed one-tenth mill tax to improve and maintain Cheniere for five years, and a four-tenths mill levy to raise $150,000 for the Cheniere asking-price, the people are going to dictate that the lake is never drained and remains a permanent fixture.

As one that certainly takes advantage of what Cheniere has to offer, we hope that it will remain always a lake properly managed for the benefit of all. We would certainly hate to see it drained away, but unless there is public assurance of access to the lake from several points, it might as well be forgotten if it remains for the general public to buy it.

Parish officials should be able to assure that there will be adequate public-owned shore locations at points around the lake for boat launchings, and picnic areas. While some camps invite public use of their grounds, we know of only the small area between Camp's Camp and Tom Hicks' place that is now maintained by the parish for the public.

Once this lake is assured by public funds, shore values of property will climb and a lot of property not already bought up is going into private hands. It then becomes possible that Cheniere can be wrapped in private properties not open to the public and the few commercial boat camps that are private businesses asking additional charges for all who use their facilities. If the people throughout the parish are to buy the lake, then they're entitled to adequate locations to insure their easy and free access to the waters.

If the lake is purchased by the parish, we should make sure that what has happened elsewhere does not happen here—that the water becomes so wrapped up in private properties that the public which bought it is inconvenienced in obtaining its use.

Certainly Cheniere, at the present, can be "secured" for the public with adequate shore facilities, even a road circling the banks where possible.

When you take into consideration how many people fish at Cheniere, you can't see how the levy could fail to pass. At the same time there are a lot of people who do not fish Cheniere or do not fish at all—a lot of them will be opposition. A lot more who like to spend a day now and then at Cheniere will not be qualified to vote, many live in other parishes, many are not property owners.

So we must not begin thinking that passage of this proposed millage is going to be easy. Don't sit back and wait for it to pass. The sportsmen must continually work to stimulate interest in retaining the lake if they want to succeed.

Rivers, Bancroft Gain Semi-Finals

Defending champion Jackie Rivers yesterday defeated Roy Nash, 1 up in 19 holes and Speed Bancroft stopped Corbin Turpin, 1 up in 21 holes, to complete the semi-finals for the annual Club Championship Tournament at Bayou DeSiard Country Club.

Semi-final pairings have Rivers opposing Clyde Nash and Bancroft facing H. C. Menuet in matched that are to be played in time to set up the 36-hole finals for next weekend.

Stan Bagwell, who earlier had eliminated L. D. Ritter and O. L. McCleary, was joined in the first flight semi-finals by C. C. Minard, who defeated Walter Dorrah, 4 and 3, and C. T. Munholland, who stopped Frank Davies, 1 up in 19. An H. G. Prophit Jr.-Dickie Guerriero match will complete the semi-final set-up and decide an opponent for Bagwell. Minard plays Munholland in the other semi-final.

Second flight play had no action yesterday but Jim Sherman next meets "Bish" Johnston for the right to face Roy Skillman in the flight finals next weekend.

ALL-STAR HEROES

Mitchell, Ninowski Are Most Valuable

CHICAGO (AP) — The stunning forward pass combination of Bobby Mitchell of Illinois and Jim Ninowski of Michigan State Saturday won unprecedented honor as co-winners of the Most Valuable Player Award in Friday night's 25th All-Star football game.

The two former Big Ten rivals each collected 39 votes in a poll of sports writers who covered the College All-Stars' surprising 35-19 upset of the Detroit Lions in Soldier Field.

Runner-up with 29 votes was Texas A&M's Bobby Conrad, who kicked a record - matching four field goals and three extra points, and played a brilliant defensive halfback game.

Only other player named in the balloting was Lou Michaels, Kentucky's 235-pound tackle, who collected three votes.

Halfback Mitchell made brilliant scoring runs of 84 and 18 yards after snagging tosses from quarterback Ninowski.

In all, the fleet Mitchell, Big Ten sprint champion, streaked 145 yards with five Ninowski passes. Spartan star Ninowski completed 14 of 20 tosses for 242 yards, personally breaking the collegiate aerial mark of 172 yards in the All-Star game.

This marked the first time in the history of the most MVP award that two players shared that prize.

It was a great instance of double fortune, too, for coach Paul Brown of the Cleveland Browns, who drafted both Mitchell and Ninowski for his club in the pro draft.

One of the congratulatory telegrams All-Star head coach Otto Graham received after the triumph came from his former coach, Brown. It read:

"Congratulations on a wonderful job. You made us all very proud of you."

Toward the end of their long pro relationship, Graham and Brown weren't exactly seeing eye-to-eye. Some observers thought Brown was trying to put Graham on the spot when he made a pre-game comment that Graham's squad was the best he had seen in 10 years.

It turned out Brown was correct. At least, Graham's inspired, hard-playing Collegians ran up the highest All-Star point total in history. The record had been held by the 1955 All-Stars, who defeated the Browns, 30-27.

Saratoga Run Captured By Admiral Vee

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y. (AP)—In as tight a finish as the famous Saratoga Handicap ever produced, Edward Seinfeld's Admiral Vee nosed out Inside Tract in the 56th running of the turf classic Saturday.

With Ted Atkinson in the saddle and packing 122 pounds, Admiral Vee stepped the 1¼ miles over a fast track in 2:06 3-5 for his narrow victory. Inside Tract, owned by the D. and M. Stable and piloted by Eddie Arcaro, beat Jorge M. Small's lightly regarded El Bermejo 2½ lengths for runner-up honors.

Eddie Schmidt, the West Coast invader who also carried 122 pounds, was fourth in the field of 10.

To the owner of the winner went a net of $36,255. The race grossed $56,700. Admiral Vee paid $9.90, $4.90 and $4.00. Inside Tract paid $5.20 and $3.90 and El Mermejo $9.70.

El Bermejo traded the lead with Little Hermit during the first mile. Admiral Vee and Eddie Schmidt were in third and fourth spots, respectively until they straightened for the run to the wire.

Inside Tract was far back but found racing room along the rail and gained contention with three sixteenth of a mile to go. In the final yards it was Inside Tract and Admiral Vee in a head and head duel with Admiral Vee prevailing.

MARIS SHINES

Athletics Shade Bengals, 8 To 7

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Roger Maris doubled home three runs in the seventh inning Saturday night and led the Kansas City Athletics to a see-saw 8-7 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

Maris' winning blow came off reliever Frank Lary, the third Detroit pitcher who was guarding a 7-5 lead turned over to him by Hank Aguirre.

The lead changed hands six times in the wild, loosely played game. The winning pitcher was Ray Herbert, who took over after starter Jack Urban and Dick Tomanek had failed to stem the Detroit hitters.

Singles by Bill Tuttle and Preston Ward started the A's on their winning rally. Then Hector Lopez beat out a bunt, filling the bases and setting the stage for Maris.

Fighters Taper Off For Monday Title Scramble

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson and challenger Roy Harris held 11th hour workouts Saturday at their respective training camps.

They meet Monday night in a 15-round title match.

Harris sparred two rounds and then loosened up for two more at his camp at Arrowhead Springs.

"He's in fine shape and I'm well satisfied," said trainer Bill Gore.

That ended Harris' training.

The champion went through a light workout and plans another Sunday at his camp at Oceanside. He limited his drill to hitting the light and heavy bag and skipping rope.

White Sox Beat Indians In 14th

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago White Sox defeated the Cleveland Indians 7-6 Saturday night when shortstop Billy Hunter booted a ground ball with two out and the bases loaded in the 14th inning.

A pair of walks, sandwiched by Ron Jackson's single, sent Luis Aparicio to bat with two out. Aparicio ran the count to 3-2 and hit a grounder which went through Hunter's legs and ended a 4 hour and 20 minute marathon.

Jackson's hit was the only safety the Sox could muster off reliever Gary Bell who pitched brilliantly in the five innings he worked but took his seventh loss against seven victories.

Jim Wilson, fourth Chicago pitcher, was credited with his eighth win against nine defeats.

The triumph was the fourth straight for the second-place White Sox who now have won 17 of their last 23 games. It also enabled them to maintain a two-game lead over third-place Boston.

Earlier in the evening the Sox blew a four-run lead and had to come from behind with a run in the eighth to tie the contest.

Eagles Rally To Win Over Colts, 30-28

HERSHEY, Pa. (AP)—The Philadelphia Eagles, playing for the first time under new coach Buck Shaw, rallied for a fourth quarter touchdown Saturday night and defeated the Baltimore Colts 30-28 before 17,000 in the first National Football League exhibition game for both.

Norm Van Brocklin, 32-year-old quarterback the Eagles acquired from Los Angeles, pitched three scoring passes.

He threw 19 yards to rookie end Bob Gunderman for the final Eagle's touchdown with eight minutes to go in the fourth quarter. Bob Walston, who booted a 43-yard field goal in the third quarter converted.

The Dutchman also threw touchdowns to Tommy McDonald and Walston. McDonald scored again on an 83-yard punt return in the second period.

Baltimore took a 14-0 first period lead after George Shaw threw a seven-yard touchdown pass to L. G. Dupre and Billy Pricer plunged two yards to score. Lenny Moore passed 14-yards to Penn State rookie Len Walters in the second quarter for another Colt score.

The Colts led 21-13 at halftime. The fourth Baltimore touchdown came in the final quarter when Moore scored on a 22-yard pass from Johnny Unitas.

Browns Win In Exhibition With Steelers

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—The Cleveland Browns scored a field goal and a touchdown in the second half Saturday night to defeat the Pittsburgh Steelers 10-0 in the opening game of the pro football exhibition season for both teams.

Following a scoreless first half, the Browns drove 60 yards to the Steelers' six late in the third quarter before the attack was halted.

Lou Groza then dropped back and kicked a 14-yard field goal with less than two minutes left in the quarter.

A recovered fumble led to Cleveland's touchdown late in the fourth quarter. Buz Guy gained possession of the ball on the Pittsburgh 35-yard line and two passes by Milt Plum — 23 yards to Leroy Bolden and 11 yards to Ed Modzelewski — put the ball one yard short of the goal.

SET MANY RECORDS

Era Of Famed Babe Ruth Was Ended 10 Years Ago

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball's most renowned star—the man who dominated the sport as no one has before or since—died 10 years ago Saturday. The memory of his feats, however, still lingers in solemn tribute to his greatness.

A whole generation of sports fans know Babe Ruth only as a name in the record books and the subject of some of the most fabulous baseball stories ever told. But for those who were lucky enough to remember him when he was striding those dizy heights of his career, there will never be another like him.

The hulking, fun-loving figure, who died of cancer Aug. 16, 1948, at 53, represented the "American Dream." He rose from a boyhood spent in orphanhood to a position that made him more prominent than any American athlete. No matter whether a person knew anything about baseball, he knew Babe Ruth. And in a sense, that was true all over the world.

In Japan, he was known almost as intimately as in the United States. Once when his death was erroneously reported in 1925, a London newspaper printed a two-column obituary.

There was only one Babe Ruth. He held baseball's spotlight single-handed. All the other great players of the day were crowded into the shadows.

For two decades, he provided countless thrills for millions of persons. And in the process, he put 76 records in the baseball books, some 60 of which still remain.

Time cannot dim the nostalgic picture of Babe Ruth's prodigious swing, the awe-inspiring flight of his home runs, the unforgettable sight of this man with huge shoulders and match-stick legs mincing around the base paths.

Ruth was more than just a ball player: he was superman with a magic wand. He revolutionized the game. He brought prosperity to the sport, happiness to the fans.

Yet Babe was a very simple man. In some ways, he was a primitive one. He had little formal education but he owned a keen sense of knowing right from wrong. He had a notoriously faulty memory. He traveled the world over but could hardly recall the places. He literally walked with kings, yet he couldn't remember their names. He greeted them simply with "H'ya, Kid," just as he greeted fellow players, or the batboy.

He was warm-hearted, fabulously generous, genuinely fond of children, greatly moved by ills and trials of others and devoted to his family and friends. If he had an enemy, it never came to light.

His appetite was prodigious and he made no effort to restrain it.

He could eat 15 hot dogs at a sitting and washed them down with as many soda pops. There were times when he used something stronger than soda pop. He had a fondness for automobiles—fast automobiles. In reckless moments, he wrapped some around telegraph poles.

A slugger among sluggers, he was also a pitcher among pitchers.

There was no better pitcher on the 1915 Boston Red Sox, his first full year with them. He won 18 games and led them to a pennant and world championship that year. By 1916 he was fastening a strangle hold on fame. In that season he was one of the American League's top winners with 23 victories and 12 defeats. He led the league in earned run average with 1.75.

In the World Series, he won a 14-inning pitching duel with Sherry Smith of Brooklyn, the longest series game ever played. The Red Sox won the pennant again in 1918 and hooked up with the Chicago Cubs. In the opening game, Ruth's southpaw slants shut out the Cubs. In the fourth game, he did not allow a run until the eighth inning. His 29 consecutive scoreless innings in World Series play is a record that still stands. He was as proud of that as he was of his home run records.

The years 1919 and 1920 were fateful years in his life. In 1919, Ed Barrow, manager of the Red Sox, switched him to the outfield and he rocked the world of baseball by hitting 29 home runs, thereby becoming the greatest drawing card in the sport.

In January, 1920, he was sold to the New York Yankees and so set forth a new era, an era in which he was to become famous all over the world and to cause men to say that here was the greatest ball player who ever lived.

Records sometimes make dull reading, save for those who have a passion for statistics. But there's nothing dull about the record of Babe Ruth. As a Yankee from 1920 through 1934, he accomplished almost unbelievable feats with his bat. These include the 60 homers he hit in 1927, the 714 lifetime swats, his 15 in seven World Series, his total bases, runs scored and runs batted in marks. And always to be remembered is the home run shot he called in the 1932 World Series.

Every once in a while, when a big hitter gets into a hot home run streak, the sports pages start comparing his pace with that of Ruth's at a comparable date. Some day, probably, a hitter will get 60 or more home runs and, thus, wipe out another of Babe's record.

But it is extremely doubtful that anyone will ever duplicate his record as a hitter and pitcher. And no matter what the record books of the future show, there will never be another Babe Ruth.

As Lord Byron, who never saw a ball game, once remarked:

"Long shall we seek his likeness:
Long in vain."

Red Sox, With Brewer, Beat Yanks On 8-Hitter, 7 To 4

BOSTON (AP) — Boston right hander Tommy Brewer, subduing the Yankee hex on him, beat New York 7-4 Saturday on 8 hits including Mickey Mantle's 34th homer.

The Red Sox master of speed and control had a two-hit shutout until Mantle picked out a fat pitch in the sixth inning and sent it into the right field seats. The blow, which followed Tony Kubek's leadoff walk, put Mantle ahead in the American League home run race.

But the loss was the seventh in the last 10 starts for the runaway Yanks.

Outside the Mantle smash, New York could do little against the Cheraw, S. C., hurler until he weakened to yield two runs in the ninth.

The Yanks had beaten brewer in 11 of 13 previous lifetime decisions.

Dick Gernert contributed a two-run homer, his 15th, a double and a single to the 15-hit Red Sox barrage against loser Don Larsen and Zack Monroe.

Boston scored once in the first inning on Ted William's sacrifice fly, twice in the fourth and four times in the fifth.

Gil McDougald opened the ninth with a single, went to third on Norm Siebern's double and came home on a sacrifice fly by Jerry Lumpe. Marv Throneberry singled for the fourth Yankee run but Brewer finished out by retiring pinchhitters Enos Slaughter and Bill Skowron on a strikeout, and a grounder.

Brewer walked only two batters and fanned six for his seventh victory against 10 setbacks.

Gernert's drive into the left field screen was only the fourth homer hit off Larsen in 103 1-3 innings of work this year.

Mantle allowed Brewer's short fly to right to pop out of his glove for an error in the fourth that led to two Red Sox tallies.

Brewer reached twice more on a walk and a double, drove in a run and scored twice to aid his cause.

Williams lost a home run when Hank Bauer staggered against the low retaining wall in front of the right field stands to make a juggling catch in the third.

Ted just missed a hit over Siebern's head when Norm extended himself full height against the left field barrier on the first inning sacrifice fly.

Pete Runnels, league leading hitter, singled twice, walked twice and produced two rbi's as he lifted his average three points to .331.

AUTO RACING TODAY

'Bugs' Fill Card At West Monroe

The roaring "bugs," those little automobiles built strictly for racing speed, take over the day at the Twin City Speedway of West Monroe this afternoon as the entire Jackson, Miss., lineup of the classy machines move in for the afternoon program.

"We had the 'bugs' here once before for a special showing at the Rebel Races and the people seemed to enjoy them very much," declared Oliver Cloyd, track owner, last night. "So we're bringing them back for this special show. These automobiles are a lot faster than the stock cars that have dominated area racing. They use aeroplane fuel and really burn up the track when they get going."

Ellis Palasini, the Jackson manager of the visiting cars, will be back with his "Black Widow," the little machine that holds the fastest lap time of any machine ever to run the half mile oval. Palasini did 26.4 in a time trial during the Rebel Races recently. Palasini said 16 or 20 cars will be here from Jackson for today's event.

Some of the cars already registered here for the meet are:

Midified—Palasini, owner and driver of his "Black Widow;" P. A. Luther, driving 3-12, owned by Buck Ishie; John Irickson, driving John McComb's No. 7; Curley Walker in Four-Sevenths, owned by Pat Patrick and Lynn Hupperich; Ira Cooper, gunning "Chicken" McComb's No. 248; and Jack Mace, in 609, owned by Hugh Mith and Charles Walts.

Sportsman—Palasini, in Little Widow, owned by Patterson and Son; P. A. Luther, driving W. L. Bonner's 55; Ira Cooper, pushing Chicken McComb's, 631; and Jack Mace, aboard Joe Jones' 2J.

Several other cars are expected to join the lineup today.

Van-Trow of Monroe has designated Curtis Newsom to present a trophy for one of today's feature races, and the Westside Esso Station will have a trophy for another main event.

The races begin at 1 o'clock.

AT TUCSON

Harper Enters Jaycee Tourney

Seventeen - year - old Jim Harper of Monroe will be among more than 200 young golfers teeing off tomorrow in the 13th annual International Jaycee Junior Golf Tournament at Tucson, Ariz. Harper is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Harper, Point drive, Monroe.

Other members of the four-man team representing Louisiana include John Barcelo and David Lawrence, Jr. of New Orleans and Doug Farr of Alexandria. These four young men were the top finishers in the recent state Jaycee Tournament, with Barcelo taking top honors. The Monroe team, sparked by the play of Harper, with a 54 - hole total of 215, won the state team championship, but Harper was the only local boy to place in the top four, thereby earning a trip to the International.

Other members of the Monroe team were Joe Thomas, Steve Henry, and Gene Adams.

Joe F. Rabun, president of the Monroe Junior Chamber of Commerce, said the Jaycee Junior Golf program, conducted by Jaycee chapters throughout the country and in foreignlands, is considered one of the top national golf events. The International finals is not only the largest junior tournament in the country, but also serves as the Junior Ryder Cup Team selection ground.

Upon arrival in Tucson, the teen - agers will be treated to a welcome night dinner and dance, and on Sunday they will have the opportunity to participate in a driving contest and attend a golf clinic by Bud Holscher and Paul Runyan, nationally known golf professionals.

The tournament will be played on the famous El Rio Golf course at Tucson.

Qualifying and state team championships will be determined in play tomorrow and Tuesday.

Championship individual medal play of 18 holes daily will be conducted Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday. The 100 boys with the lowest qualifying scores will enter the Class A flight; all other qualifiers go into the Class B flight. Saturday's final play will be capped by awarding of trophies.

Baker Favored To Win Jaycee Junior Throne

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Some 200 teenagers tee off Monday in qualifying rounds of the 13th annual Jaycee International Junior Golf Tournament.

Leading the field over the 6,434-yard par-70 El Rio Country Club course will be Buddy Baker, South Carolina's high school champion and recent winner of the USGA Junior title.

The low 100 golfers in the two-day qualifying rounds start 72-hole medal play Wednesday and non-qualifiers will compete in a two-day consolation tournament.

Baker, from Florence, S.C., led his state's team in qualifying for international competition and has an 11-under-par total score for his last 110 holes of tournament play.

No. 2 favorite is Tom Finke of Tucson, who was eliminated in the USGA Junior semifinals by Baker.

SEASON ENDS

JONESVILLE, La. (Special) — The Catahoula Parish Little Boys Baseball League completed its first full season of play this week. Although operating on a very limited financial scale the season was a huge success as evidenced by attendance at the games and the enthusiasm displayed by the players. More than a 150 boys throughout Catahoula parish participated in the program.

The standings at the end of the regular schedule find the Jonesville White Sox in first place with a perfect record of ten wins and no defeats although in the final game of the season they had to come from behind in the last inning to defeat a fighting Sandy Lake team.

WHIP BOSSIER

Richland Stars Cop Dixie Title

BOSSIER CITY, La. (Special) — The Richland Parish All - Stars of Rayville won the Louisiana state Dixie League championship here yesterday afternoon as they defeated Bossier City, 8-4, in the championship final of a tournament that had been in progress all week.

Larry McDonald hurled four - hit ball at Bossier City to earn the pitching triumph. He struck out ten, did not walk a batter, and had only two errors made behind him.

Four home runs — one each by L. E. Traxler Jr., Milton Ringle, "Red" Hardwick, and Billy Miller — featured the Rayville attack, with Ringle, Hardwick, and Miller all getting their long clouts in a four - run fourth inning after two were out.

Miller, McDonald's catcher, was the batting leader with three-for-four. Hodge O'Neal hit two - for - four.

The Rayville club, runner-up for the state championship a year ago, passed district and state tournament tests without a defeat in double elimination play.

The championship trophy was presented to Richland coaches L. E. Traxler Sr., Jimmy Bruce, and Sheriff Earl Hill. All members of the Rich'and All - Stars squad were presented with miniature gold baseballs.

O'Dell 2-Hitter Sparks Orioles

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Baltimore Orioles went on a hitting spree for a change Saturday night as Billy O'Dell pitched a two-hitter for a 9-0 victory over the Washington Senators.

While the Orioles let loose with an unusual bombardment of 15 hits, including homers by Gene Woodling and Dick Williams, lefty O'Dell gave the Senators only two singles by Albie Pearson and Roy Sievers.

He struck out eight and walked one. A fourth Washington batter reached base on an error.

Woodling started pitcher Pete Ramos of Washington on the way to his 11th setback in 22 decisions by walloping his 10th homer on his 36th birthday in the second inning.

Williams opened the third with his second circuit blow and the Orioles went on to cross the plate five more times.

The Senators got only one runner to second base as O'Dell put them down in order in six of the nine innings.

Gus Triandos, Bob Boyd and Willie Miranda each hit safely 3 times in the Oriole outburst. Triandos smacked a pair of doubles.

All-England Final Chance Knocked Out

MANCHESTER, Mass. (AP)—Unseeded Mary Ann Mitchell of San Leandro, Calif., and first seeded Mrs. Dorothy Knode of Forest Hills, N. Y., dashed British hopes of an all-England final in the Essex Women's Invitation tennis tournament Saturday.

Miss Mitchell scored her second upset of the tournament, stopping Wightman Cup heroine, Christine Truman, 1-6, 6-4, 8-6.

Mrs. Knode rallied from a 5-1 deficit to beat another British Wightman Cupper, Ann Haydon, 7-5, 6-0 in the other semifinal. Misses Truman and Haydon share England's No. 2 national ranking.

Mrs. Knode, 33, will play Miss Mitchell, a 19-year-old California sophomore, in Sunday's final.

Mary Ann had eliminated second seeded Mimi Arnold in a quarterfinal match Thursday.

The British girls still have a chance for the doubles crown. They defeated Sally Moore of Bakersfield, Calif., and Mrs. Knode, 7-5, 3-6, 8-6 to qualify for a final round meeting with Mrs. Margaret duPont of Wilmington, Del. and Margaret Varner of Boston.

The DuPont-Varner duo stopped Gwyneth Thomas of Shaker Heights, Ohio, and Jeanne Arth of St. Paul, Minn., 11-9, 6-3.

Reported Mayo Smith Due For Job With Reds

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Cincinnati Enquirer said Saturday night that Mayo Smith has the inside track on the vacant job of managing Cincinnati's Redlegs.

Sports writer Bill Ford quoted an unnamed source saying a deal to bring Smith here for the rest of the season has already been worked out and that Smith will join the team later this month.

Redleg Coach Jimmy Dykes was named temporary manager of the team after Birdie Tebbetts' surprise resignation last Thursday.

Smith, 43, was fired last month as manager of the Philadelphia Phillies.

Banks Hits 36th And 37th Homers

By ALAN CLINE

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Willie Mays and Orlando Cepeda led the San Francisco Giants to a 7-4 decision over the Chicago Cubs Saturday in a free - swinging affair marked by five home runs.

The Cubs' Ernie Banks increased his National League home run lead with his 36th and 37th. His teammate, Tony Taylor, got a two-run blast but Mays and Cepeda homered and made the difference.

Mike McCormick, 19-year - old Giant lefty, got the victory—his ninth against five losses. Gordon Jones, a new Giant acquisition, relieved him in the sixth and gave up only one run.

A crowd of 17,617 saw rig[illegible] hander Dick Drott take his 10th loss. The victory kept the Giants in third place, 7½ games behind Milwaukee and a half-game behind Pittsburgh.

A four-run burst in the fifth did the job for the Giants. Until then they trailed 3-1 after Taylor's homer in the third and Banks' 36th blast in the fifth.

Cepeda, who also doubled and singled, had accounted for the Giants' only run in the second inning with his 23rd homer and second in two days.

In the fifth, Bob Schmidt doubled and scored on pinch hitter Bill White's single. Taylor fumbled Danny O'Connell's double play ball and then threw wide to first. White ended up on third. He scored as Davenport, attempting to bunt, forced O'Connell.

Mays followed with his 20th homer, scoring Davenport ahead of him. It was Willie's third four-bagger of the week.

Drott headed for the showers after Cepeda doubled in the sixth. Willie Kirkland brought the young Puerto Rican home with another double.

The Giants picked up their final run on singles by Kirkland and Schmidt in the eighth, after Banks hit his 37th in the top of the inning.

U.S. Women's Amateur Golf Starts Monday

DARIEN, Conn. (AP)—Defending champion JoAnne Gunderson of Seattle Saturday drew youthful Sherry Wheeler of Glasgow, Ky. as her first round opponent in the U. S. Women's Amateur Golf Championship.

The draw was made at the Wee Burn Club, where play will begin in the all-match tournament Monday morning.

There were only ten withdrawals from the near-record original entry list of 199. As a result, the program was changed so that only the first round will be played on Monday and all the second on Tuesday. Two 18-hole rounds will be played on each of the next two days, leading up to Friday's semi-final.

Eight American and six British Curtis Cup players were distributed in various sections of the pairings along with five former U.S. Women's titleholders and Philomena Garvey of Ireland, former British Women's champion. The rest of the draw was blind.

Only five of the Curtis Cup players will be required to play first round matches — Elizabeth Price and Dorothea Sommerville of the British team and Americans Anne Quast of Marysville, Wash., Mrs. Ann Casey Johnstone of Mason City, Iowa, runner-up to Miss Gunderson last year; and Miss Gunderson.

Also listed for first round action are Miss Garvey, Mrs. Marlene Stewart Streit of Fonthill, Ont., the 1956 U.S. champion; Mrs Edwin C. Vare of Philadelphia, six-time winner of the title, and Mrs. Mark Porter of Havertown, Pa., the winner in 1949.

championship against the challenge of Bill Barney, West Monroe automobile mechanic, and his partner, Hans Schnabel, a German matman working this area for the first time. The match comes up tomorrow night as the main event at Gus Kallio's Arena.

In addition to the usual wrestling program, Promoter Kallio comes up with a special event this week in which a 145-pound Monroe girl interested in a wrestling career makes her ring debut.

Kallio said Marjorie Ramsey, dispatcher for a Monroe taxi company, will meet Olga Zepeda, a 149-pound Texas girl already on the pro wrestling circuit but relatively new at the sport and considered a fair test for the Monroe contender. The girls will appear in a one-fall event.

Two other one-fall matches will serve as introductory bouts for the main event talent.

Barney, former Louisiana wrestling champ, had challenged earlier for a tag title tussle but was passed last week when George Curtis and his nephew Jack Curtis Jr. were given the chance, failing in their effort to left the Laye-Menace title.

But Kallio announced earlier in the week that the Laye-Menace team has agreed to give Barney and Schnabel their chance tomorrow over a 90-minute time limit distarce, two falls to win.

The show starts at 8:15 o'clock.

Vim, Columbia Easy Victors In Sail Tests

NEWPORT, R. I. (AP)—Vim and Columbia scored runaway victories Saturday as the second series of trials to pick a defender of the America's Cup began in fog and scattered showers.

The venerable, 19-year-old Vim, using an old-fashioned stiff boom instead of her controversial, bending "banana" boom, led Weatherly by two minutes, 23 seconds at the finish of a windward-leeward-windward course of about 14½ miles.

Sailing over the same course but starting 15 minutes later, Columbia won over Easterner by an even more decisive margin, 4 minutes, 31 seconds.

The current trials, listed as "observation" races, run through next Saturday. Final trials start Sept. 1 and the selection committee, headed by W. A. W. Stewart, must pick a defender by Sept. 13. That is one week before the best-of-seven Cup series against the British challenger Sceptre begins.

Sceptre, unloaded in New York this week, is scheduled to arrive here Sunday at noon—about the time the U. S. contenders will be starting their next races. Pairings won't be announced until shortly before the start.

Saturday's course consisted of a short run to Brenton Reef lightship, a seven mile run to the Point Judith whistley buoy and a six mile beat home.

Nadir Takes Arlington's Feature Run

CHICAGO (AP) — Claiborne Farm's Nadir Saturday took an easy 3¼ length victory in the richest 3-year-old race in Chicago's history — the $160,075 American Derby at Arlington Park.

With Manuel Ycaza aboard, Nadir covered the mile and a furlong over a heavy track in 1:51 3-5. Cain Hoy Stable's Victory Morn was second, after moving up at the sixteenth-pole. Mrs. Ada L. Rice's Talent Show took third in the field of eleven horses.

The triumph was Nadir's fifth in 13 starts this season and came as no surprise since the colt two weeks ago ran a blistering mile of 1:34 3-5 in winning the American Derby Preview.

The payoff was $114,600, richest in the fixture's 48-year history. It boosted Nadir's winnings over two years to $337,684.

Nadir returned $6, $4, and $3 to ticketholders in a crowd of 27,359. Victory Morn paid $7.80 and $5.20. The show price on Talent Show was $3.40.

Ycaza, making his last ride before starting a 10-suspension for Strong Ruler, an entry with Talent Show, after two furlongs and kept Nadir comfortably ahead throughout.

After Victory Morn, Talent order:

Strong Ruler, Hillsdale, A Dragon Killer, Olymar, Strong Bay, Rise N' Shine and Discordant.

A Dragon Killer, the 17-1 longshot winner of the Arlington Classic last month, never was better than sixth in sharing top weight of 126 pounds with Strong Bay.

Strong Bay, the California import ridden by the nation's leading jockey, Willie Shoemaker, was fourth in the field for the first furlong, moved to third after a half mile, then gradually fell behind.

Patterson Solid Favorite To Fight Off Harris' Bid

By BOB MYERS

LOS ANGELES (AP) — World heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson of New York puts his title on the line for the third time Monday night. He is a solid favorite to keep it, in 15 rounds or less, against Roy Harris of Cut and Shoot, Tex.

This is Los Angeles' first heavyweight title show in nearly two decades and the prayerful hope is that it will be better and longer than the last one.

That was a night in April, 1939, when Joe Louis, jolted and furious over one punch, disposed of Jack Roper in two minutes 20 seconds of the first round.

The battle pit is the same, Wrigley Field, and just as then, fight fans will flock into the place aware that their stay may be short.

Promoter Bill Rosensohn, in his first venture in such a business, expects upward of 20,000.

Additional thousands will watch via closed theater television in 150 or more theaters around the nation.

There will be no network TV nor radio broadcast.

The bout is slated for 11 p.m., EDT.

Patterson, a 5-1 favorite from the start, won clear claim to the richest crown in boxing when he knocked out Archie Moore in Chicago No. 30, 1956, in five rounds.

Floyd was only 21, the youngest man ever to win the title.

Patterson's first defense was against Tommy "Hurricane" Jackson July 29, 1957, in New York. He sent the Hurricane down and into eventual retirement in 10 rounds.

Last Aug. 22, in Seattle, Patterson knocked out the ex-amateur champion, Pete Rademacher, in six rounds.

Now comes this one and the spotlight has centered on Harris, a unique figure. Harris is 25. He is a school teacher, a college graduate and a lieutenant in the Army reserve. He speaks in a soft, Texas drawl. He neither drinks, smokes nor cusses—

Yet he was schooled for fighting in backyard brawls on the Harris farm in the Big Thicket country of East Texas. The community got its name because, say the natives if a guy stood still long enough he'd get cut and if he ran he'd get shot.

As a professional fighter, Roy won his first bout April 26, 1955, over Tommy Smith by a kayo in three rounds. He has since won 21 straight and has never been whipped.

His father, big Henry Harris who did most of his fighting barefisted, adds that Roy has never been seriously threatened.

Most of Roy's opponents are unknows but in his last three engagements he outpointed, in order, Bob Baker, Willie Pastrano and Willi Besmanoff, all in 10-rounders.

Baker scored the only knockdown over Roy. Roy got up and won the round.

Harris, guaranteed $100,000 for this fight, stands a shade under 6 feet and figures to weigh about 192. Patterson is 6 feet and will weigh about 184.

The champion in 34 fights has lost but one, a disputed decision in 1954 to Joey Maxim. He has knocked out 24 opponents. Harris has scored nine knockouts.

The Harris delegation, imbued with that distinctive and fierce Texas state pride, has promised one thing.

"Roy'll never quit. They'll have to carry him out feet first if he loses."

SOUCHAK ONE AWAY

Snead's Eagle Grabs One Stroke Lead At St. Paul

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP)—Sam Snead, winner of the St. Paul Open 21 years ago, eagled the 18th hole of the third round Saturday for a silver anniversary tournament.

With 197 for 54 holes the aging slammer was 19 under par at the Sitting Duck Keller course, one stroke in front of big Mike Souchak of Grossingers, N.Y.

The two came down the 18th fairway deadlocked for the lead. Snead hit the green on the 462-yard par 5 hole and the ball stopped 18 feet from the pin. Souchak hit his second shot to the edge of the green 45 feet away.

He putted six feet short and then watched Sam drop his 15-footer for an eagle three. Souchak holed out for a birdie and a 4-under-par 68.

Ken Venturi of San Francisco, the defending champion, and Ernie Vossler of Midland, Tex. who was tied with Snead one shot off the pace at the end of 36, were three strokes away at 200. At 201 was Lionel Hebert, 1957 PGA champion from Lafayette, La.

Venturi shot a 68 and Vossler and Hebert 69s.

The pros, playing on the third consecutive day of perfect golf weather, continued to maul the 6,557-yard course's par 36-36—72.

Three players — PGA champion Dow Finsterwald of Athens, Ohio; Tony Lema of Napa, Calif., and Doug Sanders of Miami Beach, Fla. — shot eight under 64s.

Lema tied a tournament record on the first nine with a six under 30 but took a 34 coming back to miss the 18-hole mark of 62.

Locked at 202, still within striking distance, were Finsterwald, Paul Harney of Worcester, Mass., Tommy Jacobs of Whittier, Calif., and Cary Middlecoff of Hollywood, Fla.

The cutoff for the final 18 holes for the 60 low pros and ties was a four under 212.

Major casualty was Dick Mayer of St. Petersburg, Fla., last year's National Open champion, who shot a 70 for a 213.

Columbia High Opens Football Drills Monday

COLUMBIA, La. (Special) — Coach James Turner, Jr. of Columbia High School has issued a call for all varsity football players to meet him tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

The meeting, at the Columbia Football Field, will be the first practice season of the 1958 season.

Those boys interested in pee wee football, practice will begin when school opens on September 2.

Finals Place For Anderson In Net Event

NEWPORT, R. I. (AP)—His game even sharper under dreary playing conditions, defending champion Mal Anderson of Australia advanced to the finals of the Newport Invitation tennis tournament Saturday by defeating Alejandro Olmedo of Peru, 6-3, 6-4, 6-2.

Rain forced postponement until Sunday of the second semifinal between Australians Ashley Cooper and Neale Fraser. The doubles semifinals also will be played Sunday, with both finals deferred until Monday.

Superior in ground strokes and with consistently better service, Anderson dominated the play throughout the match. The swarthy Peruvian's game fell below its usual standard, possibly influenced by the soft footing, the overcast, and a mist which became a drizzle as the match ended.

The slim Australian, who said he "liked to play spikes," breezed through the first set, and broke Olmedo's service to start the second set. He broke it again in the third game, only to have the South American break his in return to make it three games to one.

Olmedo narrowed the margin to 4-3, but never could overtake his razor sharp opponent, who won the U. S. singles championship last year.

Olmedo, suddenly recovering his service touch, won the opening game of the third set at love, but Anderson broke the Peruvian's service in the third and fifth games and the outcome was only a question of time after that.

During his 13 years of coaching college basketball teams, all at St. John's, Joe Lapchick's charges have won 213 games and lost 70.

Winner Of Top Rockingham Run

SALEM, N. H. (AP)—Circle K Farm's Sea Hymn scored a neck victory in the feature at Rockingham Park Saturday after traveling a mile and 70 yards in 1:41 2-5.

U.S. Davis Cuppers Earn Another Australian Trip

By WILL GRIMSLEY

RYE, N. Y. (AP)—Barry MacKay and Sam Giammalva assured the U. S. Davis Cup team another trip to Australia Saturday by crushing Argentina's Enrique Morea and Eduardo Soriano in the decisive American Zone doubles match 6-3, 6-2, 6-2.

This one-side triumph on the rain-dampened grass court of the Westchester Country Club came shortly after Ham Richardson, the court stylist from Arlington, Va., had completed an interrupted singles victory over the towering Morea 6-1, 6-2, 7-9, 6-2.

The U. S. forces, led by 68-year old Perry Jones of Los Angeles, thus clinched the American Zone title and qualified to meet the Italy-Philippines winner in Australia for the right to challenge the formidable Aussies once more.

The final interzone match is scheduled in Perth in mid-December. The challenge round is slated for Brisbane after Christmas.

Morea, a 6-4 gaucho who rides herd on his own 40,000-acre ranch, began the sunny, humid day leading Richardson, 5-4, in the third set after losing the first two.

The match had been interrupted by a violent thunderstorm Friday after MacKay, the young Davis Cup hopeful from Dayton, Ohio, had cut down Soriano in four sets. Resuming play on the soggy courts, with footing treacherous and little bounce to the balls, Morea managed to win the third set with a service break in the 16th game. But Richardson's sational poised and confident stroke-making cut short the rally in the fourth.

With only half an hour's rest, for Morea, he and Soriano took the court to face MacKay and Giammalva, two boys in their early 20's who have been playing as team for three years. The Argentines were outclassed.

The hard-hitting Yankees centered their attack on the less experienced Soriano and broke him in each of the two opening sets for a good-sized lead.

Then weariness caught up with the 34 - year - old Morea, playing captain of the Argentines.

With the zip gone from his normally explosive game, he dropped his service in the opening game and again in the fifth, failing to win a point in the latter game.

"I wasn't so terribly tired," the tall Argentine leader said afterwards. "Doubles is a game of service returns. Neither of us is experienced on grass. We couldn't return the ball well enough. Besides, the Americans simply were better."

Morea previously had complained bitterly of having to face the North Americans.

Giammalva, a bow - legged scrambler from Houston, who was a standout in the Davis Cup challenge round at Adelaide in 1956, played exceptionally well.

He never lost a service. His service returns were steady, generally low and sharp. His volleying at times bordered on the sen-

MacKay also never lost his service in giving a powerful though erratic performance.

The rival captains decided not to change lineups for Sunday's final singles, which became a mere formality. Soriano will play Richardson in the first match with Morea and MacKay clashing in the final.

Braves Win 5th Straight With 2-1 Defeat Of Phils

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Hank Aaron singled home the deciding run in the eighth Saturday as the National League leading Milwaukee Braves eked out a 2-1 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies for their fifth straight decision.

Warren Spahn, the Braves' 37-year-old left - hander, registered his 16th victory and 240th of his career after a shaky start. He shut out the Phils after they scored a run in the first.

A crowd of 31,869 watched Spahn and southpaw Curt Simmons duel at County Stadium. Simmons gave up only three hits through the first seven innings, only to weaken in the eighth and surrender three more hits and the tie-breaking run. His record now reads 6-11.

It was the Braves' second straight one-run decision over the Phillies. Young Carl Willey shut them out 1-0 Friday night, the Braves pushing over the only run of the game in the eighth.

It was the eighth again when the Braves aroused themselves for the tie-breaking run.

Felix Mantilla singled for his first hit in 17 at bats, went to second on a sacrifice, to third as Eddie Mathews beat out a bunt and scored on Aaron's single to center.

The Phillies pounced on Spahn for their run in the first on Richie Ashburn's leadoff single and a triple by Bob Young. Young never got any further, though, as Spahn retired the next three batters without a ball getting out of the infield.

A single by Aaron, Joe Adcock's double and Andy Pafko's sacrifice fly evened matters in the second.

Philadelphia runners reached third base again in the third and fifth, but each time Spahn pitched out of danger. It happened again in the sixth when Wally Post tripled to left with one out. Spahn fanned Ed Bouchee for the third straight time, walked Willie Jones and then disposed of Chico Fernandez on a pop foul.

BUCS ROUT REDS

Thomas Wallops Three Home Runs

CINCINNATI (AP) — Frank Thomas hit three homers and drove in six runs Saturday and led the upstart Pittsburgh Pirates to a 13-4 victory over the Cincinnati Redlegs. The pirates clobbered five Cincinnati pitchers for 18 hits.

The victory left the second place Pirates seven games behind the first place Milwaukee Braves, who defeated Philadelphia.

Although Thomas' big bat boomed for his 30th, 31st and 32nd home runs, it was a two-run homer by rookie Dick Stuart in the seventh that broke the Pirates out of a 4-4 tie and sent them on their way to the victory. Stuart was back in the game at first base after yielding to Ted Kluszewski in Friday night's encounter.

Bob Friend, who pitched the first seven innings for Pittsburgh, built his record to 16-12 while the slumping Brooks Lawrence (6-11) was charged with his eighth straight defeat. He was the third of five Redleg hurlers. Friend was lifted in the eighth for a pinch hitter and Bob Porterfield finished.

Frank Robinson's 24th homer had helped the Redlegs stay even until the seventh when Stuart slugged his seventh homer after Roberto Clemente beat out an infield hit.

Lawrence was charged with two more runs the Pirates scored in the eighth although both came in when Roman Mejias singled off Lawrence's relief, Alex Kellner.

The Pirates broke the game beyond reach with five more in the ninth. They had six straight hits, including Thomas' third homer with two teammates on base.

Pageant Purse To Fall Wind By 2 Lengths

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP)—Harriet Robinson's Fall Wind won the $25,000 added Pageant Stakes at Atlantic City Saturday, scoring by 2 lengths over A. T. Taylor's Miss Orestes.

It was 3½ lengths back to Mrs. Katherine Price's Stay Smoochie.

This was the first stakes victory for the daughter of Grand Admiral. She negotiated the mile and a sixteenth over a soft turf course in 1:50 3-5. She was ridden by Bill Hartack for his second triumph of the day and 20th of the meeting.

The winner paid $4, $3 and $2.60. Miss Orestes returned $4 and $3. Stay Smoochie was $3.40 to show.

The winner's check was for $18,338.75.

Fall Wind gained command at the first turn and never was headed. Down the backstretch Delnita made a serious bid but Fall Wind put her away and did the same when Miss Orestes made her one challenge.

49ers Will Use Pace In Today's Exhibition Tilt

MORAGA, Calif. (AP) — Jim Pace, one of the stars in Friday night's 35-19 College All-Star victory over the Detroit Lions, will see action in Sunday's National Football League exhibition between the San Francisco 49ers and New York Giants.

"Sure I'm going to play him," 49er coach Frank Albert said Saturday. "A guy who can haul the mail like him doesn't have to know the signals. Just give him the ball. I've never seen a guy as fast."

The 205-pound former Michigan back and three other All-Stars—end Fred Dugan, tackle Charlie Krueger and back Billy Atkins—arrived here from Chicago Saturday.

Albert said he might use Atkins as a punter. He booted one 80 yards against the Lions.

GEN. R. P. TAYLOR

Area Officer Named Chief A.F. Chaplain

Effective Friday of last week, Robert P. Taylor of the U. S. Air Force was nominated to the rank of Brigadier General and made Deputy Chief of Air Force Chaplains.

Chaplain Taylor is a descendant of the historical Taylor family of Union Parish in the Farmerville area. His father, William L. Taylor, was born in 1873 in Marion. His great-great-grand - father was a brother to Judge John Taylor, the first judge of Union Parish, during the 1840's. For the past few years Mrs. May Wooten of Monroe, and John Ramsey of Farmerville, cousins of Chaplain Taylor, have assisted him in some vital research on the Taylor family history.

A graduate of Baylor University Waco, Texas, in 1933, he received his Bachelor of Arts Degree and his Doctor of Theology Degree from Southwestern Baptist Seminary, Fort Worth, Texas, in 1939. He served as pastor of the South Fort Worth Baptist Church prior to entering military service.

In September 1940, he entered the military service and was stationed at Barksdale Field. In April 1941, he was reassigned overseas to the 31st Infantry in Manila, Philippine Islands. At the outbreak of the war his outfit went to the front lines in Bataan where he was cited for bravery and awarded the Silver Star for gallantry in action. At the surrender of the American forces, he became a Chaplain in the prison camp hospital where he ministered to more than 10,000 patients.

In the summer of 1944, he spent 14 months in solitary confinement for smuggling food and medicine to the patients. He was later taken to Japan and Manchuria on one of the infamous "hellships" which was bombed twice by American planes with a loss of over a thousand lives. Chaplain Taylor is one of the two remaining Chaplains who survived the horrors of 42 months of Japanese prison camps to remain in the service.

Following his liberation an return to the United States, Chaplain Taylor resumed his duties as a Chaplain and has since held assignments as Wing Chaplain, Mather Air Force Base; Deputy Staff Chaplain, Air Training Command; Deputy Staff Chaplain, Air Material Command; Chaplain for Civil Air Patrol Headquarters, Washington, D. C.; Staff Chaplain of the Air University, Maxwell Air Force Base; and Chief of the Personnel Division, Office, Chief of Air Force Chaplains.

Chaplain Taylor was assigned as Deputy Chief of Air Force Chaplains, Headquarters United States Air Force, on August 15, 1958, in the grade of Brigadier General.

College Team To Conduct Services Here

A team of young evangelists and musicians from Louisiana College will conduct a revival at Lakeshore Baptist Church this week, according to the Rev. Vester V. Headrick, pastor.

The church is located at Lakeshore and Camellia Drive, and services are scheduled to begin today at 7:30 p.m. It was pointed out a nursery will be maintained at all services.

The revival team is composed of three of the most outstanding students of Louisiana College, Pineville. Rev. Tommy Berry, a senior and pastor of Bird's Creek Baptist Church, Harrisonburg, is the evangelist. Mr. Winston DeVille, a senior and music major will serve at the piano.

For the past three years Winston has been pianist for the Louisianians, the famous male chorus of Louisiana College. Mr. Lonnie Stewart, a sophomore and the music director for the Zion Baptist Church, Coushatta, will direct the music. Youth choirs will bring special musical numbers during the revival.

The youth of the church led in cottage prayer meetings last week in preparation for the revival.

The public is cordially invited to attend these services.

ANNOUNCE PRICE CUTS

WILMINGTON, Del. (UPI) —E. I. Du Pont de Nemours & Co., Inc., has announced price reductions ranging from 10 to 20 cents a pound on several types of "mylar" polyester film, reflecting more efficient manufacturing.

Evangelistic Services At W.M. Church

The Rev. D. O. Foster, pastor-evangelist at the McClendon Baptist Church on the Old Natchitoches Road in West Monroe, announced a revival would begin tomorrow at his church.

"Services will be held each evening at 7:30 beginning tomorrow and mornings at 10 beginning with the Tuesday service," Rev. Foster pointed out.

Gaile Mallette will direct the music for each of the services, which will continue throughout the week. The revival will close with the Sunday, August 24, morning services scheduled for 11 o'clock.

Rev. Foster urges all persons in the area and friends and members of the church to attend.

Need Stressed For Missions In America

A top home missions executive sees the United States in a double light. It is a land of destiny for the world. Yet it is one of the world's needy mission fields.

The Rev. Dr. W. Vernon Middleton, Philadelphia, Pa., gave those contrasting views of America in an address to about 600 missions leaders at the recent Silver Bay Conference on the Chistian World Mission, Silver Bay, N.Y. Dr. Middleton is the general secretary of the Division of National Missions of the Methodist Board of Missions.

"The land in which we live has become a land of destiny for the world," Dr. Middleton said. "The important decisions will be made in the hearts and minds of the people of America, for whether we like it or not, we have suddenly become the center for the hope of the world. In spite of our failures, in spite of the fierce denunciations of the West, particularly the United States, there appears to be a hope among the peoples of the world that we may yet show the way to the abundant life and to peace."

But in the same breath that one speaks of America as a land of destiny, he must recognize it as a "crucially impoverished mission field," Dr. Middleton declared.

But in what sense can our favored land be called a mission field, Dr. Middleton asked. In answer, he said:

"We learn from a recent FBI report that: There are three times as many criminals as college students. There are more barmaids in the U.S. than college girls. A hundred thousand women enter white slavery each year; a million illegitimate babies are born each year. A murder is committed every 40 minutes, a major crime every 22 seconds.

"Racial tension is building up at the point in history when the peace of the world depends upon racial harmony. Our business ethics are at times questionable, and our statesmen have developed a blind side to their lives so that there is no awareness that gifts to men in public life may really be subtle bribes. Our give-away TV programs have further confused our sense of values and created an unhealthy moral atmosphere similar to that created by our craze for gambling."

The disconcerting factor, Dr. Middleton said, is that all these deviations from high ethical and moral insights come at the time when America has become "most religious."

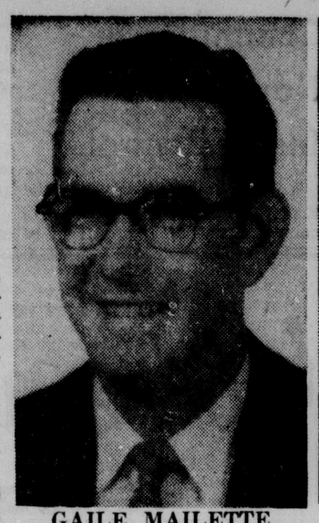

"We are told that 62 per cent of our population is related to the Christian church," he said. "Never before has so much interest in things religious been shown. There are prayers repeated on commercial radio broadcasts, hymns sung on television shows. Our churches are crowded, and evangelists draw huge crowds. One wonders whether there is real depth of purpose in our so-called religious revival."

In the light of America as a land of destiny and as a mission field, the church has a task of the utmost importance, Dr. Middleton asserted. The greatest contribution the church can make, he said, is to help the United States become aware of its destiny and to undergird that awareness with the necessary spiritual and ethical insights so that "we, as a nation, may fulfill our high calling."

MY ANSWER
by Billy Graham

QUESTION: A friend of mine told me there is a verse in the Bible which describes a Christian but neither of us can find it. Which one is it?

ANSWER: There are so many verses which might describe a Christian that I am not sure which one you refer to. In his letter to the Phillipian Christians, the Apostle Paul wrote: "That ye may be blameless and harmless, the sons of God, without rebuke, in the midst of crooked and perverse nation, among whom ye shine as lights in the world; holding forth the Word of life." There are so many wonderful truths in this passage but I would like to urge upon you this particular thought. Christians are in this world and must exercise their influence for Christ in the world, but, they are citizens of heaven and should live as God's children should live. When we let the things of the world crowd in on our hearts and into our lives, we lose our witness for Christ and people see little in us to make them want to be Christians too. But, if we show clearly by the things we say (and don't say), and the things we do (and don't do) that our standards are Christ's standards and that we are trying to please Him, we can make Christianity attractive to others. Actually, our witness is strongest when we show love and concern for the spiritual and material welfare of others. Don't be a "goody-goody", but a normal, wholesome lovable person. Also, don't be ashamed to let people know you are a Christian. If you do this, you will carry out the principles described in the Bible verse quoted above.

Church Has Role In World Crisis

(Pastor Martin Niemoeller, World War One U-boat officer, churchman and Nazi-era concentration camp prisoner, has long been in the fore-front of the struggle for a larger role by the Christian churches in social problems. In the following dispatch he states his views on the role of Christianity in the present world crisis in connection with the meeting of the central committee of the World Council of Churches to be held in Nyborg, Denmark from Aug. 21 to 29)

By DR MARTIN NIEMOELLER
Written For
United Press International

WIEBASDEN, Germany (UPI)—The main task of the world council committee meeting in Nyborg is to discuss the role of Christendom in the present world crisis.

This is reflected in two topics on its agenda — the prevention of war in the atomic age, and the mutual responsibility of Christians in areas of rapid social change.

The two are not unconnected.

The meeting, which comprises nearly 170 churches of all confessions — except the Roman Catholic — has considerable ecclesiastical business to transact, of course.

It is especially noteworthy because it will mark, after four years of effort, the first official contact between the council and the Russian Orthodox Church.

The agenda provides for discussion of organizational questions and for plans for the third world churches meeting to be held in Ceylon in 1960 and 1961.

Discuss World Crisis

But the crisis in the world—with its twin spectres of war and hunger — will play a leading role in our discussions.

The first question, as I have noted, relates to the fight to prevent atomic war.

The committee, in a communique issued last year, had already expressed its opinion.

It asked for urgent discussions on disarmament. Beyond that, it recommended the immediate halting of nuclear weapons tests — if necessary, unilaterally.

At that time the question was raised as to whether weapons tests could be justified in the face of the unknown dangers they might cause and possible violations of international law.

Undoubtedly these questions will again be given the closest attention by the meeting in Denmark, chiefly because the latest war dangers have awakened memories of the council's declaration in Toronto at the outbreak of the Korean conflict.

At that time, the churches believed they should give the United Nations organization a "blank check" for its police action. Today, it will not be so easy. Questions will have to be asked about underlying reasons for the Middle East situation and other problems, and not merely the formal question of "rights."

Responsibility In Change

The second topic concerns our responsibilities towards the peoples whose social situation is changing so rapidly.

Here we are face-to-face with the longer-standing, clearer, actual crisis in the world.

This question is not one of East versus West. Tht question here is: What will become of the hungry peoples of the world, who already comprise one half of mankind and are still growing at a rapid rate?

What is our responsibility in view of this crisis which grows more serious every day?

The member churches of our council represent a considerable portion of these peoples—a guarantee that the question will not disappear from our agenda.

Both problems are closely connected, for so long as peoples think of war and preparation for war, the problem of the pauperization of the poorer peoples cannot be met efficiently.

In this matter, a demand is being made upon all Christians—and they know it. Their representatives in Nyborg will have to ask themselves whether they can pronounce for the present generation a word — that will make things clearer, a word that will show them a path, a word that will take them further on their journey.

Parkview Sets Final Roundup For Kindergarten

The final roundup for the Parkview Baptist Church Kindergarten was announced today by Mrs. Roy Riley, who will conduct the class for pre-school students.

Mrs. Riley pointed out she has just returned from a teacher training course at the New Orleans Baptist Seminary where she received instruction in the latest kindergarten methods.

The course will include spiritual emphasis as well as physical, mental, emotional and social development, Mrs. Riley said.

Persons interested should contact the office of Parkview Baptis church, according to the announcement.

Beulah Church Near Calhoun Slates Revival

Revival services will be conducted at the Beulah Methodist Church near Calhoun beginning today at 11:00 a.m. and continuing at 7:30 p.m. each evening through Saturday August 23.

Rev. Roy Grant of the Ringgold Methodist Church is to be the evangelistic speaker. Song services will be conducted by the pastor, R. E. Carter.

Those attending Sunday morning are invited to bring lunch and join in the fellowship of an old time "dinner on the ground."

Mr. Grant is a native of this vicinity and well known as an evangelist. He hopes to see many of his friends and acquaintances during this meeting.

AREA NEWS

ABOUT PEOPLE' EVENTS

Commendation

JONESVILLE (Special) — Catahoula Parish Sheriff George McGee and his department were commended this week by J. B. Lancaster, supervisor of Public Funds, State of Louisiana in connection with the annual audit of the public funds handled by the sheriff's office.

In a letter to Governor Long Lancaster said, "the tax collector and his office deputy, Douglas tockman, are to be commended on the excellent collection record and the vast improvement shown in the maintenance of the accounting records."

Band Camp

WINNSBORO (Special) — The Winnsboro High School band camp will be held this year at Camp Brewer, near Alexandria, August 25 through the 29th.

According to Glynn Gardner, band director, the 45 member Wildcat Black and Gold band will leave Winnsboro by bus at 6 o'clock a.m. August 25, and after a week of instruction and recreation, will return to Winnsboro on the afternoon of August 29.

New Postmaster

JONESVILLE (Special) — Billy R. Johnson of Harrisonburg has been appointed the new postmaster of the Harrisonburg postoffice.

Johnson will assume his new duties as postmaster "as soon as the postoffice inspector can audit the books," which is presumably the first of next week.

He was appointed as a result of a federal civil service examination taken last September, and was attending Northeast State College at the time of his appointment.

Paving

COLUMBIA (Special) —The Louisiana Department of Highways will receive bids in the very near future for the widening and blacktopping of the shoulders of Highway 165 between Grayson and Columbia.

When this and other road projects that are going on in Caldwell Parish now is completed, the Highway from Monroe to Alexandria will be wide all the way through.

Parish Fair

COLUMBIA (Special) —The Caldwell Parish Fair Association is well on its way to raise funds needed to pay at least one-half of the premiums listed.

Up to date the Fair Association had collected over four hundred dollars. Their goal has been set at one thousand dollars, with letters being mailed to over 100 citizens of the parish earlier this month.

The date for the Caldwell Parish Fair has been set for the last week of September, on the 25th, 26th and 27th.

Boll Weevils On Increase

STATE COLLEGE, Miss. (AP) —The Agricultural Extension Service of Mississippi State University said Saturday boll weevils are increasing in many parts of the state.

It predicted they would begin to migrate within a week.

The county agents reported insect control and hay saving were the two major jobs facing farmers.

The extension service said reports showed crop prospects continue excellent, with corn outstanding.

Some sections report cotton picking will begin in a week and the condition is mostly fair to good.

Soybeans and pastures were reported good with quantities of hay being harvested.

Sweet potato harvesting is underway.

Rescuers Find Baby In Crash

NANTUCKET, Mass. (AP) — A baby cried in the flaming wreckage of the ill-fated Northeast Airlines plane.

Rescuers disregarded personal safety and plunged into the wreck to trace the cries.

Minutes later, 2-year-old Cindy Lou Young, was brought out into the open. She appeared to be only slightly injured.

The child had been sleeping on the lap of her mother, Mrs. Jacqueline Young, 18, of Nantucket.

The mother was killed. But even as she died her body provided the cushion to save the baby's life.

2 Guardsmen Die In Wreck

BOLTON, Miss. (UPI) — Two Air National Guardsmen from Kansas who were returning home from a training tour on the Gulf Coast were killed Friday night in a three-vehicle collision.

Harry Conrad, 34, of Haven, Kan., was dead on arrival at Baptist Hospital in Jackson and Ralph Morris, 32, died three hours later Severely injured were Bob Triplett, a third Kansas Guardsman and occupants of A Georgia car, William H. Jeason of Phenix City, Ala., and Joseph Edmonds of Summerville Ga. Two Negro occupants of a Louisiana pickup truck which was involved in the crash were not injured.

Shrine Circus To Open Here Next Saturday

Featuring an outlay of original circus acts never before exhibited here, the Bailey Brothers Shrine - sponsored circus will open Friday with a 2:30 p.m. matinee at American Legion stadium.

The circus will participate in a street parade that passes through the Twin Cities Friday morning, beginning at 11 a.m. The procession will form on Trenton street in West Monroe and march over the new traffic bridge, down Louisville to Walnut, turn right to DeSiard and up DeSiard to Sixth street. Several thousand spectators are expected to line the parade route.

Among the outstanding acts to be featured both at the Friday and Saturday matinees and 8 p.m. performances will be elephants, aerial daredevilery, chimpanzees, clowns and many others. The Shrine publicity team has declared this year's production "a must to every man, woman and especially the children who love good, clean, wholesome circus performances."

Children at the Baptist Children's Orphanage and the boys at Louisiana Training Institute will be special guests. Tickets have already been purchased and presented to both institutions for use at one of the matinees.

The circus is sponsored by the Northeast Louisiana Shrine Club, proceeds going to Shrine club charities.

213 Die In Crashes In Several Days

UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Major aircraft disasters in seven days have taken a heavy toll of human life around the world.

A total of 213 persons died in the wreckage of 4 airliners and 2 military planes. In all but one instance, the planes burned before or after impact.

The worst disaster of the week —and the worst single commercial airliner crash in history—was the mysterious crash of a KLM Royal Dutch airlines Super-Constellation off the coast of Ireland Thursday. It killed all 99 persons aboard. There was no fire.

The other disasters were:

Aug. 9: A Central African Airways Viscount crashed near Benghazi, Libya, killing 36.

Aug. 13: A Japanese DC3 crashed at sea 80 miles south of Tokyo, killing 33.

Aug. 13: A U.S. Air Force KB50 tanker killed 10 in a crash at Ambieve, Belgium.

Aug. 13: An Argentine Air Force DC3 crashed at Trewlew, Argentina, killing 12.

Aug. 15: A Northeast Airlines Convair crashed on Nantucket Island, Mass., just before midnight, killing 23.

Committee Is Named To Plan Insect Control

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Forest Industries Council named a special committee Saturday to help plan and coordinate forest insect and disease control on the nation's 484 million acres of commercial timberlands.

V. W. Cothren of the Southern Pine Assn., New Orleans, and George Stanley of Houston, Tex., were appointed to the Southwester area regional committee.

The council said insect and disease damage in United States forests totals about seven billion board feet of timber a year—about nine times the damage from forest fires.

Committee members will work with state and federal agencies toward planning and coordinating public and private programs on forest pest control problems.

NOW A SINGER

Jayne Mansfield Making Records

By HOWARD BENEDICT

New York (AP)—Stop Jayne Mansfield from cooing about her forthcoming baby long enough and you learn she may no longer play dumb blondes and that she's about to jump into the lucrative business of making records.

The latter is most surprising because the beauteous film star with the ample measurements has never been known as a singer.

"I'm going to start by recording three ballads I sing in my new picture," she said. "Then I hope to close a deal with a major company to do eight sides a year.

"The ballads are simply wonderful. I'm going to dedicate them all to my new baby."

The 24-year-old actress and her husky husband, Mickey Hargitay, expect their first child about Dec. 5. Although she has a 7-year-old daughter by a previous marriage, Jayne seemed as excited as a first time mother-to-be.

"It's a wonderful time in the life of a woman when she's expecting a baby," she says, with an air of discovery. "It's really her happiest time."

Blonde Jayne's new picture is as unique as her statistics. Titled "The Sheriff of Fractured Jaw," the picture is a comedy about an Arizona frontier town that was filmed in London and Spain the last three months.

"Those Spanish hills where we filmed the outdoor scenes look more like Arizona than Arizona," said Jayne. "And the Spanish gypsies we hired look more like Indians than American Indians. I couldn't believe it."

Jayne plays Kate, a hard-boiled saloon owner who runs the tough town of Fractured Jaw in the 1880s. "The town doesn't have a sheriff, but the boys generally listen to me," she said.

"It's a complete departure from the dumb blonde, cream puff role I've always played," said Jayne. "For the first time I get an opportunity to show my acting talent. It's a real milk before the ice cream role."

"You know," she said, getting back to her favorite subject, "I was pregnant during the whole filming of the picture and the studio didn't know it. If the studio had known, it might have taken a lot of unecessary precautions that would have delayed the picture until I never would have fit into those wasp-waisted dresses I had to wear.

"I even rode horseback in one scene because my stand-in, who is also pregnant, wasn't feeling well. I understood perfectly. Mickey almost died when he heard about it, but I assured him it was very light riding and just for a minute.

What are Jayne's plans now that she's back from Europe?

"One big item is to get our house in Los Angeles decorated. Mickey and I have been on the go since our marriage and haven't had a chance to do anything. It's a big house with two acres and 11 bathrooms and completely in need of everything.

"But mostly I want to rest until the baby comes. I'd like to have five of them over the next 10 years. I can, you know, if I time them between pictures."

Hungarian Will Be Honored On Stamp Issues

The 4-cent and 8-cent Lajos Kossuth "Champion of Liberty" stamps, to be placed on first day sale at Washington, D. C., Sept. 19, will feature a likeness of the Hungarian patriot on a medallion. The design is based on a photograph taken while Kossuth was in Washington.

Both stamps will feature the medal encircled by the working "1849 Lajos Kossuth — Governor of Hungary — 1849." The lettering "Champion of Liberty" forms the top of the stamp. The 4 - cent will be center will be in red, blue and gold.

Collectors desiring first day cancellations may send their addressed envelopes to the D. C., together with money orders covering the cost of the stamps to be affixed.

Collectors should plainly indicate in the upper right corner of the covers whether the 4-cent or 8-cent is desired. The outside envelope should be endorsed "First Day Covers — Kossuth Stamps."

Previous stamps in the Champions of Liberty series honored Ramon Magsaysay of the Philippines and Simon Bolivar of South America.

The Belgian Congo has issued a series of stamps honoring the 50th anniversary of its origination. The design features profile portraits of five Belgian kings who guided the destiny of the Congo. The six values in the set are 1 franc violet, 2 fr blue, 3 fr carmine, 5 fr green, 6.50 fr brown and 10 franc violet blue.

A new stamp honoring the city of Rostock and "Baltic Week 1958" has been issued by Eastern Germany. The 20-pfennig red stamp depicts the seven towers of Rostock, a landmark of the harbor city, and ocean vessels.

Portugal has issued four new stamps. The 200 esc. green and the 5 esc. brown honoring St. Theonius, a 12th Century Augustinian monk. The 1 esc. brown - red and 2.50 esc. violet pay tribute to St. Elizabeth, a 14th Century queen who became famous for her charity.

Stamp Notes . . . The Netherlands Antilles has issued a new series of pictorial definitives. The first in the set shows the queen's portrait and a building in Aruba . . . Poland's latest stamps honor the Seventh International Glider Championships . . . Haiti has issued two new stamps depicting the Dessalines Monument at Gonaives, a portrait of Dessalines on a medallion asd his dates (1758-1806) . . . Japan has issued two new summer post cards of 5 yen denomination. The stamp shows a dragon - fly in dark blue.

College Point Historic Spot In Louisiana

The College of Jefferson, a compromise between the College of Orleans and the College of Louisiana, was founded at Convent in 1831. Andre B. Roman, governor of Louisiana, and Valcour Aime, king of Louisiana planters, both of St. James Parish were among the prime organizers.

Subscriptions were undertaken with great success. The Vovasseur Farm was bought; and soon there rose the "College Point," an establishment of the first rank princely in its dimensions, its colonnade, its three stories, and its halls and dormitories.

There is no facade that presents a more dazzling effect than this one when the sun shines on its columns. On either side of the great iron entrance gates are small square buildings also adorned with columns, which presumably were used as lodges; and at the left of the campus is the old rectory, generally known as the "Priest House," another architectural gem.

To the rear are several supplementary buildings and an exquisite Gothic Chapel built by the fabulous Valcour Aime as a memorial to one of his daughters. In 1862 - 1863 the college was closed and used as barracks by federal troops after the bombardment of Donaldsonville, 20 miles up the river from Convent.

Reopened, the Mariest Fathers were invited by Valcour Aime and a group of friends to operate the college. The name was changed to "St. Mary's Jefferson College." In 1931 the college was again closed and sold to the Jesuit Fathers for a retreat for Catholic laymen and is now operated as Manresa House.

Manresa House is open to the public seven days a week with no admission fee charged. It is located on Highway 44 between Central and Lutcher.

GRIPELESS GRIPE SESSION

HOPKINSVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Mayor Ernest Lackey called a halt to monthly "beef" sessions designed to let citizens air their complaints against the city.

Nobody had any gripes.

Construction Project Near

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Construction is expected to begin within four months on a 15 million dollar, low-rent Negro housing project on the west bank of the Mississippi River in New Orleans.

The U.S. Public Housing Administration announced approval of the 1,002-unit development Friday.

The federal government approved earlier another 15 million dollar Negro housing project in New Orleans near the Union Passenger Terminal, but the construction site has been opposed by the Chamber of Commerce, contending the land is more suitable for commercial purposes.

Three-fifths of the grapes exported by the U. S. in 1957 went to Canada.

Annual Rodeo Opens Here On Labor Day

The Northeast Louisiana Rodeo Association will present their world championship rodeo at the West Monroe rodeo arena Sept. 1 through 4, it was announced today by James L. McGuire, the association president.

He said the rodeo will be produced by Tommy Steiner of Austin, Texas, whose horses and bulls are said to be the meanest, toughest and roughest in the rodeo business.

Tris Coffin, who portrays "Captain Tom Ryning" and Kelo Henderson, who has the part of "Ranger Clint Travis" of the television network show "26 Men" will appear in person at each performance McGuire said.

The association will also feature the Misses Ted and Betty Lamb, and Wanda and Rex Rossi, with their trick riding and ropin acts.

Buck LeGrande and Junior Meeks, two of the greatest bull fighting clowns of the rodeo, will present entirely new comedy acts.

McGuire stated that over 150 of the countries best cowboys will compete for the $10,000 prize money.

Other events on the program for each performance will be the saddle and bareback bronc riding, calf roping, steer wrestling, brahma bull riding and girl's barrel race.

The stock for the rodeo, which consists of over 100 head of horses bulls and calves, is now quarted at the rodeo arena and the public is invited to inspect the animals on whose backs the countries best cowboys will try to win the purse money.

McGuire said that all local riding clubs and individual riders are invited to participate in each performance grand entrance as well as the street parade which will take place Labor Day at 10:30 a.m.

He said on Sept. 1, there will be two performances, 2:30 p.m. and at 8:30 p.m. September 2 through 4, there will be only one performance each night at 8:30.

Altered Names Show Language Blend In State

Languages form a rich mine for the tracing of place - name origins in Louisiana. French, Spanish, Indian, and some few German names contribute to the cultural heritage of the state.

Cheri Ami is the name of a small bayou in Assumption Parish and translates directly as "Dear Friend." Bayou Chicot means "Stump Bayou." Cocodrie, applied to several bodies of water, is another French name and means "Crocodile;" Lake Coquille in St. Bernard Parish probably came from the molusk shells — coquilles at the lake.

Indian names have given the state some of its most picturesque names. One of the most beautiful is Catahoula, "Beloved Lake." Among others are Atchafalaya, "Long River;" Bogalusa, "Black Creek;" Calcasieu, "Crying Eagle."

Spanish has left its traces in a number of Louisiana names: Anacoco, "raincrow prairie;" Barataria, 'deception;" "Colyell," for a Spanish officer, a commandant of Fort Plaquemine in Iberville parish; "Vidalia" and "Bavou Vidalia," in honor of Jose Vidae, holder of a large grant in that area and a commandant of the old Spanish Fort of Concordia.

The first paper mill in the U. S. was built on the Neponset River at Milton, Mass., in 1729.

20 Valley Scouts Plan Kansas Trip

Representing the Ouachita Valley Council, Boy Scouts of America with headquarters at Monroe, a delegation of 20 Boy Scouts, explorers, and adult leaders will take part with more than 2,000 others in the 43rd anniversary National Conference of the Order of the Arrow at Kansas University, Lawrence, Kansas, from August 25 through August 28.

The theme of the conference is "Brothers in Service - Leaders in Camping."

Most of the delegates will arrive Monday, August 25. After registering, they will enjoy preconference activities consisting of movies and athletic events. In the afternoon, delegates will participate in the opening general session, and in the evening they will be entertained by a spectacular safety show.

The four-day conference of fellowship, training, and exchange of ideas is the only national meeting of its kind to be run entirely by young men whose ages average between 17 and 20.

The Order of the Arrow is a national brotherhood of Scout honor campers with a membership of approximately 110,000 experienced campers of the Boy Scouts of America, in whose program it has an official place. A total of 501 local Boy Scout councils have the Order as a part of their year-round camping program.

Local delegates are members of the Commanche Lodge of the Ouachita Valley Council. It was chartered in 1944 and has 125 members under Lodge Chief Holbrook McLean, 19 years old of Hodge, Louisiana.

The local group will leave for Lawrence, Kansas, on Aug. 23rd., traveling by chartered bus.

Members of the Order are selected by fellow campers as worthy examples of living the Scout Oath and Law. The Order develops and maintains camp traditions and spirit and generally promotes camping among Boy Scout troops and Explorer units. It is recognized as an influential force in teaching democratic principles, Scouting ideals, and good citizenship.

In addition to workshop sessions on many phases of the Order of the Arrow work, the program includes a camping fair, a beef barbecue, an Indian pageant, a gigantic fellowship campfire program, and many other varied activities.

Boy Scouts from the northeast Louisiana area who will attend the Order of the Arrow National Conference at the University of Kansas at Lawrence, Kansas are:

Ronnie Rushing, Pete Mulhearn, Holbrook McLean, Raymond Armstrong, Tony Breard, Mike Byrnes, Jack H. Pankey and Jack E. Pankey, all from Monroe.

John Mac Eaves, Chubby Salley and Joe Ross Jr., from West Monroe.

Billy Ray Burford, James McDonald and Joe C. White, from Bastrop.

C. D. Barfield and Gary Walsworth from Jonesboro; Davis Main, Winnfield; Lloyd Chapman, Lake Providence; Jimmy Black, Waterproof; and Paul Bonin from Dubach.

Accuse Colmer Of Outside Interference

KILN, Miss. (UPI)—Dist. Atty. Boyce Holleman Saturday accused Rep. William M. Colmer of using "outside interference" in his bid for re-election to Congress.

Holleman, who is opposing Colmer in the Aug. 27 Democratic primary, referred to a television film in which congressmen from other states praised Colmer as the leader of a strong conservative bloc in the House of Representatives.

"We want the liberty of governing our own affairs and the people of Mississippi must resent outside influence in our internal affairs whether it be in our schools, the race problem or a political campaign," Holleman said.

"Of course these are desperate tactics used by a congressman who cannot campaign for himself."

Holleman addressed a Hancock County rally here after speaking earlier in Waynesboro. Saturday night he was scheduled to speak in Gulfport.

Colmer resumed his campaign with a rally in his hometown of Pascagoula after returning from Washington where he voted this week on the farm bill.

SIZE CAUSES PERPLEXITY! — It doesn't take back-to-school arithmetic for Mabe Hall to determine that the two sizes of jeans shown above are not for him. Mabe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Milton C. Hall, 106 Larche Drive, West Monroe, selected the in-between size for his school wear from Max Hornbeck of Haddad Bros.

Many seem to think it was oil right for Uncle Sam to butter up old King Saud.

School Funds Face Shortage In Caldwell

COLUMBIA (Special) — The Caldwell Parish School Board has set September 2 as the date for schools to open in Caldwell and the problem now facing the Board is just how long school will remain open, according to T. L. Johnson superintendent of Caldwell Parish Schools.

Superintendent Johnston repeated an earlier prediction that Caldwell's school system is virtually certain to be forced into a curtailed term for 1958-59 by lack of funds.

If no special session of the Legislature is called to provide funds to maintain school personnel salaries at the levels of 1957-58 as provided by law, my rough estimate of the length of Caldwell's school term is six to seven months," Mr. Johnston stated.

Many parents have questioned him about whether or not students will receive credit for a shortened school term.

In answer, he said, "The state school board now requires nine months (180 days) for credit. As it now stands, students will not get full credit for a shortened term.

Dutch Plane May Have Exploded

GALWAY, Ireland (UPI) — Autopsies on 34 battered bodies fished from the North Atlantic today showed that a Dutch airliner that crashed with 99 persons aboard was destroyed in flight and that everyone on the plane was dead before hitting the water.

Just what caused the destruction of the plane was unknown. Theories ranged from an explosion, perhaps caused by a lightning bolt, to thunderstorm turbulence that caused structural failure and decompression of the cabin at the 16,000-feet cruising range.

Dr. K. Van Dieger, chief medical officer of KLM Royal Dutch Airlines, who flew here with a Dutch government investigating team, said his examination "indicated that all the people were dead" when the plane's wreckage hit the water 130 miles west of Ireland after a takeoff from the Shannon, Ireland, airport early Thursday en route to New York.

Van Dieger said that "in each case there was evidence of brain bleeding. This indicated that all the people were dead before the impact" with the water.

Hurricane Cleo Veers Northwest

MIAMI (UPI)—Hurricane Cleo and its 125-mile-an-hour winds veered to the northwest Saturday, ending any threat to the U.S. mainland or West Indies.

An 11 a.m. advisory reported the big storm's center 1,000 miles southeast of Bermuda, near latitude 23.5 north, longitude 51.4 west. This was 1,850 miles nearly due east of Miami.

The hurricane moved on a north-northwest course at 17 miles per hour at the time.

Cleo, first fullfledged hurricane of the season, meandered uncertainly Friday but finally fell under the influence of a high altitude stream of air blowing north, called a "trough" in weather bureau jargon. This air current drew the hurricane off a westerly course that had been carrying it toward the fringe of islands falnking the eastern edge of the Caribbean.

"There is no indication that this hurricane will affect the U.S. mainland, the Bahamas and the islands of the Caribbean except for hurricane swells in the Leeward Islands," the weather bureau said.

But advisories warned ships in the storm's path to exercise caution because "this is still a sever hurricane."

Epicurean dessert: English water biscuits — we'd call them crackers — served with cream cheese and fine preserved strawberry jam or the French Bar-le-Duc (a preserve made from seeded currants).

2 Fishermen Found Safe

MOBILE (UPI) — Arnold and Mike, two missing Bayou la Batre fishermen were found Saturday, safe at Mobile, where they were supposed to be.

The U.S. Coast Guard reported the men, never identified by more than their first names, arrived here Thursday afternoon, on schedule.

They had been subject of an air-sea search of Mississippi sound and Mobile Bay all Friday and this morning.

It had been feared they had run into difficulty in their 20 - foot oyster boat, on a trip from Bayou la Batre, south of here, to Mobile on Thursday. They apparently didn't take the route they had planned and when they were not sighted along that route an alert was out.

A city police car discovered them, with their boat, this morning. They said they had arrived Thursday afternoon and didn't know the search was on for them.

Funeral Set For Senator

JACKSON (UPI) — Funeral services will be held here Monday for State Sen. Wade M. Cole who represented Sharkey and Issaquena counties in the Legislature for 12 years.

Cole, a former Mayersville planter, had made his home here for the past eight years.

He was first elected to the House of Representatives in 1944 and served until 1952. He was elected to the Senate in 1956.

Survivors include his widow, one son and one daughter.

BY N.O. MAN

Murder Suspect Is Identified

MOBILE, Ala. (UPI) — Caswell P. Ellis III, a wealthy New Orleans candy manufacturer, Saturday positively identified a murder suspect held in Atlanta as the man who kidnaped and stabbed him Aug. 5.

Ellis picked a photograph of Ray Docery, alias Ray Bourger, of Fayette, Ala., from a stack of police "mug shots."

Detective Henry Wilson, who took the photographs to be viewed by Ellis in his bed at Mobile Infirmary, said Ellis thumbled through several pictures before coming to the one of Dockery.

"I don't have to look any farther," Ellis told Wilson. "This is the man."

The photograph of Dockery arrived here by airplane from Atlanta, where the man is being held.

Officers in the Georgia city said Dockery had admitted strangling to death Willie T. Heatherly of Cullman County, Ala., and robbing him of $2.

Dockery was arrested in Atlanta Thursday on the complaint of Clifford Morris, a 26-year-old Columbia, S. C., soldier, who said the man had attacked him after Morris gave him a ride.

Ellis turned up at Mobile County hospital last week and told police he had bought his life for $300 for a man who described himself as an escaper from Kilby Prison at Montgomery.

Ellis said the man had said he would kill him but Ellis talked him out of it by offering to pay him the money and not to report the incident to police for 24 hours.

The New Orleans man said he kept the bargain, in spite of having been severely stabbed. He was in fair condition today at the Mobile Infirmary, having transferred there late last week, with a punctured lung.

Detective Capt. Tallery Rollings said a hold order would be placed on Dockery.

The kidnaping and stabbing of Ellis occurred near Quitman, Miss. when Ellis said the man jumped him outside a roadside tavern.

Mullens New Controller Of Olin Division

The appointment of John D. Mullens as Forest Products controller was announced today by L. J. Madden, Jr., financial officer of Olin Mathieson Chemical Corporation's Packaging Division.

Mullens, formerly assistant controller, stated that the accounting department for lumber operations, previously located in Shreveport, will be moved to the West Monroe headquarters. Among the personnel soon to come here is Billy C. Turrentine who has been named assistant controller for forest products.

A resident of Monroe since 1948, Mullens is married and has three children. He is a member of the Parkview Baptist Church, past President of the Y's Men Club, past Vice President and Board Member of the YMCA, member of campaign executive committee for the YMCA building drive, and the National Accountants Association. He was graduated from Southern Methodist University in 1948 and is a veteran of World War II.

Turrentine, who is married and has one child, is a veteran of World War II and a member of the Shreveport Chamber of Commerce, American Legion, and the National Accountants Association. He is a lay reader in the St. James Episcopal Church in Shreveport.

Hearing Will Be Resumed

GULFPORT, Miss. (AP)—Hearing of a court attempt by the city of Biloxi to obtain about 8.5 acres of land belonging to the Methodist Seashore Assembly for school purposes is to be resumed next month.

Harrison County Circuit Court Judge Leslie B. Grant Saturday recessed the hearing until Sept. 29.

The Biloxi Municipal School Board is seeking to condemn through eminent domain proceedings the 8.5 acres as the location for a new junior high school.

The school board introduced evidence seeking to show that the property sought is at present vacant and unimproved and an Assembly witness agrees that it not being used now.

But the witness, the Rev. Clyde H. Gunn of Gulfport, Assembly Board secretary, said the Seashore Assembly is being widely used by various oranizations of the Methodist Church.

The Assembly has on file a writ seeking to halt the eminent domain proceedings.

Company Sends 1st Oil Into Ohio Terminal

LEBANON, Ohio (AP) — Texas Eastern Transmission Corp. of Shreveport, La.; started sending the first oil into a new two million dollar delivery terminal near here Saturday.

The new facility is the firm's easternmost terminal on the Little Big Inch pipeline system.

Millard Neptune, senior vice president of Texas Eastern, said the first shipment was 50,000 barrels of gasoline destined for delivery to Socony Mobil Oil Co.

Eurlyne Howell of Bossier City, La., who recently was named Miss USA at Long Beach, Calif., broke a bottle of Champagne over the mainline control valve to christen the new terminal.

The terminal is linked to refining areas of the Gulf states, Arkansas and Oklahoma.

The 1,800-mile long pipeline was the first common carrier link between the Gulf and the Midwest. Texas Eastern also operates a 6,000 mile natural gas pipeline system that spans the United States from Mexico to New York, crossing the gas fields of Louisiana and Texas.

Nearly half — 47 per cent — of the natural gas produced in Texas is consumed there, too.

JAILBREAKER

Blames Newsmen For Capture

ANNISTON, Ala. (UPI)—Ralph Cozzolino blamed "damn newspapermen" Saturday for his capture, which ended six weeks of freedom following the latest in a long series of successful jail breaks.

The 34 - year - old fugitive refused to talk to newsmen after he was captured on a downtown street Friday night by a horde of officers who surrounded his automiblle.

He snarled only that "you damn newspapermen" were responsible for his being in custody again. That's all the desperado would say but he carried a batch of newspaper clippings detailing his escapades since he broke out of Kilby Prison at Montgomery, Ala., June 18

Seven officers, including F B I agents, state patrolmen and an alcohol tax man, converged on Cozzolino's car about 9:30 p.m. as it stood in a line of traffic.

He had apparently been in this northeast Alabama city for a couple of days. The license plates for his 1958 model red and white sedan were purchased here Aug. 14 and the car was bought in Knoxville, Tenn., Aug. 12 for cash.

Officers refused to say how they learned Cozzolino was here but they may have traced him through the car.

Cozzolino, who had about $400 in his possession when captured, was wanted for an $18,000 supermarket robbery at Doraville, Ga., last week. He has a life term pending against him in Tennessee and long years remaining against him in Alabama.

Faisal, Nasser In Conference

CAIRO (UPI) — Crown Prince Faisal of Saudi Arabia and President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic met Saturday in talks intended to forge close links between their countries.

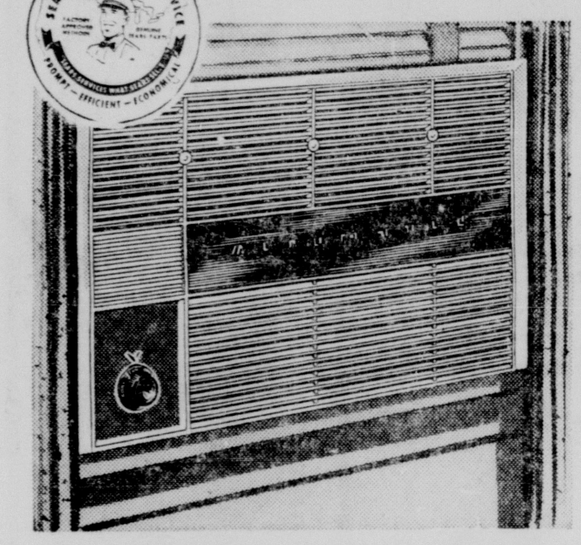

It was the second meeting of the two powerful Arab leaders since the prince, who also is Saudi's premier and foreign minister, arrived in Cairo Friday.

Smoothed over was the breach of last spring, when the UAR charged King Saud, Faisal's brother, with engineering a plot to assassinate Nasser. Now there was talk of "federation" between them.

Diplomatic sources did not rule out the possibility of Saudi Arabia joining the loose federation which links the UAR with Yemen in what is known as the United Arab States. They said the talks might lead to a resumption of Saudi Arabian oil shipments to Egypt, which have been suspended for the past several months.

By, for, and about WOMEN

Monroe Morning World

AUG. 17, 1958

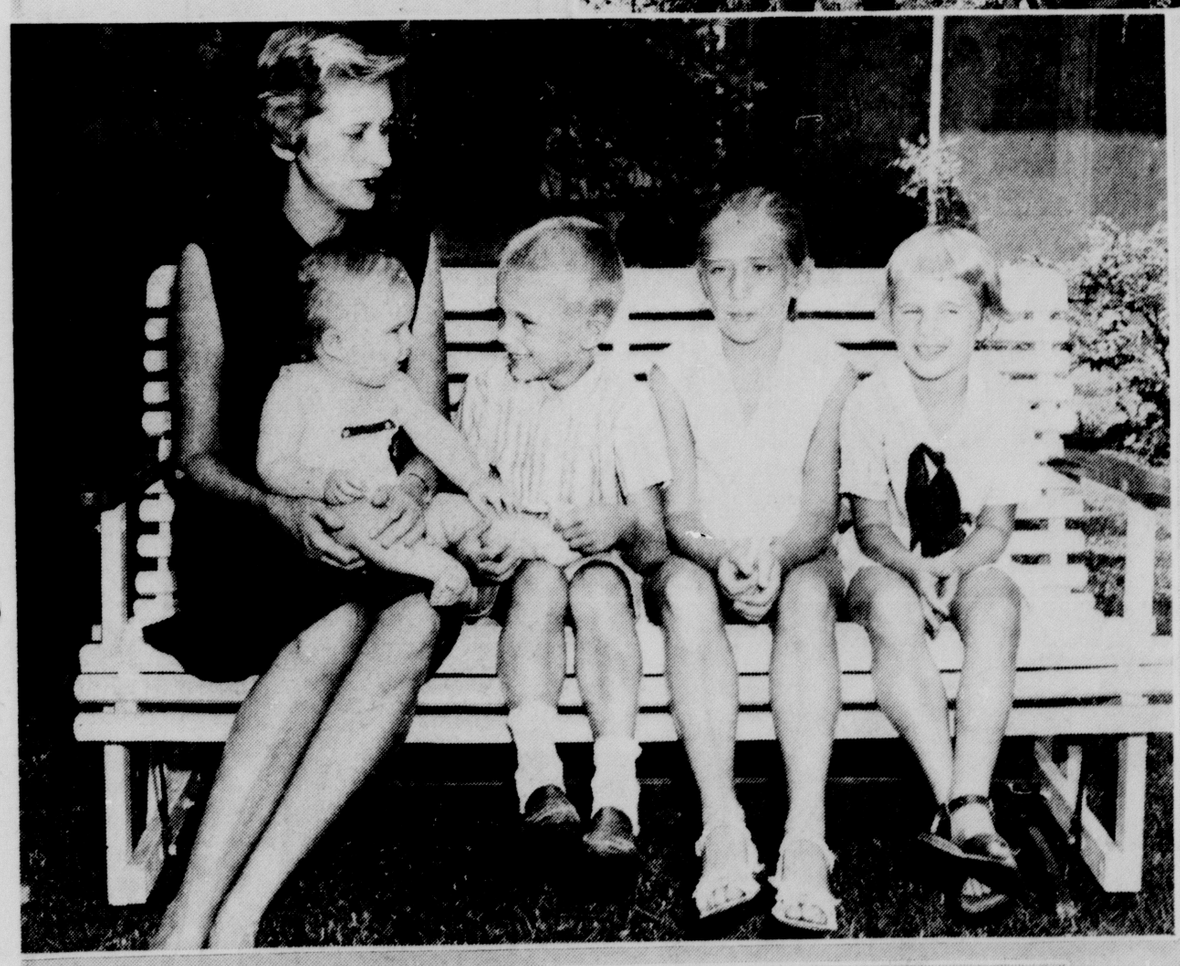

In a setting of yellow candles and flowers in the First Methodist Church, Miss Annie Laura Youngblood and Richard Joseph Crowe exchanged marriage vows. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Youngblood and he, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Merlin Crowe.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Powell are pictured during one of their favorite summer activities. Roasting marshmallows before an outdoor supper are daughters, Nancy, Jan and Holley.

Making plans for a first trip to Miami and Nassau are Nell and Mary Smith who left last week with their grandmother, Mrs. D. Y. Smith and cousin, Miss Helen Theus, for a ten day vacation. Nell is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Smith of this city, and Mary's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Smith of Shreveport.

Visitors at the home of her mother, Mrs. Thomas Leigh and Mr. Leigh, have been Mrs. David Normann and her children, Robert, David Jr., Susan and Louise Grisham. They will return to their home in New Orleans early this week.

Youngblood-Crowe Vows Are Exchanged Here In First Methodist Church

The First Methodist Church was embowered Thursday evening with yellow gladiola; the aisle leading to the altar was covered with a white aisle cloth and white candelabra holding aloft buring yellow tapers which were entwined with smilax and yellow gladioli, as was the altar and chancel rail.

The occasion was the marriage of Miss Annie Laura Youngblood and Richard Joseph Crowe. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Youngblood, and he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Merle Crowe Dr. Ben Oliphint heard their vows.

Mrs. Everett Zeagler at the organ provided a background of stately and sacred music for the occasion. Preceding the ceremony Miss Mary Coon sang "The Lord's Prayer", "Because", and "Always."

Bridesmaids

Miss Carolyn Cummings was maid of honor. Her dress was in a complimentary shade of dark yellow silk organza. The pleated neckline extended into a shoulder strap and around into a slightly draped back collar. The fitted bodice, belted in yellow satin with a back bow, draped into a full skirt from the pleated waistline. The bridesmaids included Miss Joyce Turpin, Miss Sally Ryan, Miss Martha Jane Burns, Miss Gay Demmary and Miss Dottie Dawson. All wore dresses of a delicate shade of yellow in pure silk organza. The waltz length formals were fitted at the waist and were sleeveless. The full silk organza skirts had a wide panel of yellow schiffli embroidery in the front and a back bow of schiffli embroidered organza streamers flowing from the waist. Their half hats were of matching yellow silk organza made in tiers with face veils. Jill Ann Ussery was the flower girl and she was dressed as the bridesmaids. She wore a circle of yellow roses and yellow net on her hair.

Mrs. Youngblood chose for her daughter's wedding a dress in a blue Italian silk sheath, with long blue sash fitted around the waistline. Her hat was of blue silk organza Mrs. Crowe's gown was an Italian linen sheath with beige jacket. Her hat was black velvet with tan chiffon veiling and bow. They both wore yellow orchids.

Mr. Crowe chose Dale Spence as his best man and as his groomsmen: Dickie Culpepper, Jimmy Deal, Ike McMullen, Tommy Crowe and Harry Crowe.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was gowned in an elegant full sheath of schifflie embroidered silk over satin with a chapel train overskirt of silk organza and a back bow. It had an intricate curving neckline and three quarter length sleeves of embroidered silk. Her fingertip veil was of imported silk illusion. On her head was a tiarra of lace and illusion with seed pearls and iridescent sequins. She carried a white Bible on which was held a white orchid and fleur d'amour and stephanotis with long white streamers.

Reception Ensues

Following the wedding a reception was held at the Highland Park Country Club. The bride's table held a beautiful arrangement of yellow roses, yellow daisies and smilax, surrounding the cake and flanked by flowers of yellow carnations under the hurricane lamps that had yellow roses and daisies at their bases. Swags of string smilax added to the beauty. The cake knife was tied with trailing yellow satin ribbon. The punch table held an artistic arrangement of yellow roses and yellow satin bows and smilax.

The bride is a graduate of Neville High School and she is a member of Delta Beta Sigma Sorority. The groom graduated from Ouachita Parish High School and attended Oklahoma State University.

Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. B. W. McDonald of Lisbon, Mr. James Robert Rich, Mr. Billy Rich, Mrs. Otis Welch, Mrs. Irene Lowery all of Lisbon, Mrs. A. L. Phillips of Marion, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Gerache of Vicksburg, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Drake of Hamburg, Arkansas, and Mr. and Mrs. L. Yancy Jr. of Rayville.

For traveling Mrs. Crowe chose a gray and white silk two piece dress with linen collar, box jacket, and her hat was white feathered and she wore white glaves. They went to New Orleans on their wedding trip, and on return will make their home on Hudson Lane.

MISS JOYCE RASBURY is engaged to marry Edward Thomason, son of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Thomason of Anacoco. The wedding will take place on August 30, at two o'clock in the afternoon, in the Chapel First Baptist Church. The Rev. Jaroy Weber will perform the ceremony. Miss Rasbury is the daughter of Mrs. Blanchard Reno of West Monroe, and Mack A. Rasbury of Tucson, Arizona.

To Celebrate 50th Wedding Anniversary

Open house honoring Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Glass on the occasion of their golden wedding anniversary will be held at their home, Haile, from two until five in the afternoon Sunday, August the twenty-fourth.

MR. AND MRS. LOY RAYMOND LORREN

Miss Ragland Becomes Bride Of Loy R. Lorren

In an impressive candlelight ceremony, Sunday afternoon, July 27th, Miss Margaret Jeannie Ragland became the bride of Loy Raymond Lorren. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Breton Ragland, Sr., of Lake Providence and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leon L. Lorren of Bogalusa.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. George D. York at three o'clock in the afternoon at the First Methodist Church in Lake Providence.

The church was decorated with tall floor baskets of white gladioli and huckleberry greenery, interspersed with many branched candelabra burning tall white tapers. White satin bows marked the reserve pews for members of the families.

Mrs. W. R. Ragland, Jr. at the organ, rendered a program of prenuptial music and accompanied the soloist who sang "I Love You" prior to the ceremony and the ever-beautiful "The Lord's Prayer" as the young couple knelt before the altar, after saying their vows. The traditional wedding marches heralded the entrance an departure of the bridal party.

The bride, entering on the arm of her father who gave her in marriage, wore a floor length gown of white Chantilly lace over net ruffling and taffeta. The fitted bodice was fashioned with a Queen Anne neckline and long sleeves which ended in petal points over her hands. The wrist fastenings of satin covered buttons were duplicated in the row of buttons at the back of the bodice.

The skirt was triple tiered scalloped lace in the front and drawn up in the back to form panniers over the multi-ruffled net. Her short veil of illusion fell from a crown of seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of purple throated orchids, based in white satin ribbon and stephanotis.

Miss Jo Ann Ragland, cousin of the bride, served as maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Lorraine Ragland of New Orleans and Miss Virginia Ragland of Lake Providence and Mrs. John Charles Gilbert. Their gowns were identical in Talisman rose Chantilly lace overlaid on taffeta. The basque bodices had an Empire filtted midriff accented with triple bands of self covered satin. The gown worn by the maid of honor was in American Beauty rose. Each wore satin slippers of dress matching shades. Each carried a cascade bouquet of carnations, tulle and satin leaves. The maid of honor carried an all pink arrangement and the bridesmaids carried American Beauty shades designed with jet pink tulle and satin leaves.

Lonnie Lorren of Bogalusa, served his brother as best man and the ushers were Reynold Minksy, of Lake Providence, George Purvis of Rayville and Hugh Willey, of Delhi. George Purvis and Hugh Willey also served as candlelighters.

Reception

Immediately following the church ceremony, a reception was held at the American Legion Home on Bayou Tensas. Mrs. Ragland, in the receiving line with the bridal party, was wearing a lace gown of sea aqua blue over taffeta. The V neckline was softened with folds of tulle which matched the sheer panel which began at the left side of the waist and fell the length of the dress. Her picture hat was of starched white net, trimmed with satin bows. Her shoulder corsage was of white carnations.

The mother of the bridegroom wore a light beige silk organza designed with white embroidered dots. Her hat was of dress matching shade with rayon petal trim. Her shoulder corsage was also of white carnations.

Assisting with the reception were Mrs. L. E. Townsend, Jr., Georgeann Townsend and Alice Jean Cooper; Miss Beth Byrd of Tallulah, who presided at the bride's book; Miss Ann Pinkston who presided at the punch service, assisted by Miss Linda Gail Oswalt and Miss Shearon Regenold.

The spacious lounge of the Legion Home was decorated in green and white with floor baskets and table bouquets of white gladioli and greenery. The bride's table was overlaid with a Mexican drawnwork cloth. The three tiered wedding cake was decorated in white and pale pink. It was topped with a miniature bride and groom in a bower of lilies of the valley. Centr.l decor of the table was the bridesmaids' bouquets which circled white candles based in styrafoam.

Mrs. W. B. Ragland, Jr. at the piano entertained with a background of music during the hours of the reception.

Before leaving on her wedding trip, the bride changed to a navy blue sleeveless one piece cotton, made with scooped neckline and overblouse of matching cotton lace with belt and collar fashioned of the dress material. Her accessories were in white and navy with a navy velvet toque, trimmed with two white felathers. Her corsage was an orchid from her bridal bouquet.

On their return from their honey moon, the young couple will be located temporarily in Meridian, Mississippi, where the bridegroom is working.

Out of town guests included:

Mr. and Mrs. Leon Lorren of Bogalusa, Mrs. E. O. Mitchell, Mrs. George Eaton, Mrs. A. B. Clinkscales, Jr., all of Greenville, Mississippi; Miss Carolyn Connors of California, Mr. and Mrs. J. Hammel, Jr., of New Orleans, Miss Ann La Dart, West Monroe, Mrs. R. Savoir, New Orleans, Milton Sanchez, Baton Rouge, Gennie Dickerson, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Dickerson and Dicky, all of West Monroe, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Maness, Sr., Gretna, Tommy Mogters, Jr., Bogalusa, Dan R. Rebsamen, Eudora, Ark., Guy Luno, Jr., Winnsboro, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Connors, and Ed Connors, of New Orleans, Ed Cooper, Rayville, and Hugh Willey, Delhi.

PLAN NEW PLANT

WILMINGTON, Del. (UPI) — Hercules Powder Co. Wednesday announced plans for immediate construction of a nitrogen tetroxide pilot plant on the site of its Hercules, Calif. facilities. Nitrogen tetroxide is a jet fuel component and is promising for liquid fuel rockets, the company said.

MRS. CHARLES DUNCLE MEYERS

Miss Jan Fuqua And Charles Duncle Meyers Are United In Marriage

A double ring ceremony performed Saturday, August 9, at 3:30 P.M. in the University Methodist church, united in marriage Miss Jan Fuqua, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kirk Fuqua of Lake Charles, and Charles Duncle Meyers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Simon Meyers, of Sicily Island. Reverend George Pearce of Natchitoches officiated at the ceremony.

Mrs. John L. Babb, organist, played 'Liebestraum" by Lisze, and "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring" by Bach preceding the ceremony. Miss Virginia Lee Khoury, soloist, sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer." The attendants entered to Bach's "If Thou Art Near," and the traditional wedding march was played as the bride entered the church.

A fan arrangement of white gladioli and white chrysanthemums was used on the memorial table, and white Grecian columns were entwined with ivy and topped with fan arrangements of white gladioli and chrysanthemums.

Kirk Fuqua gave his daughter in marriage. Her gown was a short, bell shaped silhouette of French Chantilly lace over parchment satin. The Sabrina neckline, which dipped to a V in the back, was re-embroidered with seed pearls and iridescent sequins. Her shoulder length veil of tulle fell from a Chantilly lace and tulle circlet enhanced by sequins and seed pearls. She carried a cascade arrangement of white roses and stephanotis.

Gay Fuqua attended her sister as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Alice Hulls of Newellton and Mrs. Wayne Boyd of Greenville, Texas. Miss Evie Campbell of Lake Charles was flower girl.

The attendants were identically gowned in blouson topped sheath dresses, fashioned of white re-embroidered cotton lace over pale pink cotton satin. The bow-coif was of pink velvet ribbon. All wore short white gloves, and satin slippers which matched their nosegays of red garnet roses.

David Simmons of Lake Charles attended the groom as best man. Groomsmen and ushers were Benny Alford and Johnny Meyers, brother of the groom, both of Sicily Island.

The reception was held following the ceremony in the parlor of the church. The bride's table was covered with an aqua organdy cloth over matching cotton satin. The centerpiece was of white stock, white feathered chrysanthemums with maline and leatherleaf fern, flanked by slim pink candles. White Grecian columns holding fan arrangements of white chrysanthemums were used throughout the reception hall. Mrs. Jim Matthews presided at the crystal punch service, and Mrs. Roger White served the cake. Mrs. Allen Breaux registered the guests Mrs. Ben Rosen was also a member of the houseparty.

For the first day of her two-week wedding trip to points along the Gulf coast, Mrs. Meyers wore a beige dress of cotton and silk which featured a slightly bloused jacket. Her shoes and purse were chocolate brown kid, and her ensemble was completed by a wide brimmed hat covered in brown and beige chiffon and short beige gloves.

Mrs. Meyers attended McNeese State College and is a graduate of Northwestern State College department of education. At Northwestern she was associate editor of the Potpourri, the college annual, a member of the Potpourri Court in 1957, and a member of Sigma Sigma Sigma, national social sorority. Her husband attended Northwestern State College where he was a member of the rifle team, and the Potpourri staff.

Mr. and Mrs. Meyers will make their home on Nicholson drive in Baton Rouge, where the groom will complete his studies at Louisiana State University. Mrs. Meyers is employed by the East Baton Rouge School Board.

MR. AND MRS. CLAYTON OLIVEAUX of Columbia announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Joyce Ann, to Pvt. Floyd Canterberry, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Golsby of West Monroe. The wedding will be in the Bellview Baptist Church in September. Rev. Arlie Bratton, pastor, will perform the ceremony.

MR. AND MRS. OLLIE STREBECK, of Grayson, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Hilda Kay to Mr. Jerry Gilbert Moffett, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Moffett, St., of Maplewood. The bride and groom are both residing in New Orleans and will make their home there after their marriage on August 29 at the St. Charles Avenue Baptist Church in New Orleans.

MR. AND MRS. JOSEPH C. SLAVANT

Miss Jerrie Sue Ramsey And Joseph C. Slavant United At Nuptial Mass

Charming in its simplicity was the wedding of Miss Jerrie Sue Ramsey, daughter of Mrs. Lessie Wade and O. Ramsey of Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, and Mr. Joseph Chris Slavant, son of Mrs. Chris Slavant and the late Mr. Chris Slavant of this city.

The impressive double ring ceremony was performed at St. Matthews Church with Father Vitus Duschinsky, O. F. M. officiating. Vows were exchanged before the central altar which was beautifully decorated with white gladioli and greenery flanked by tall branched burning cathedral tapers.

While the guests were being seated by the usher, Mr. A. V. Sciro, a program of nuptial music was presented by Mr. Leon Hammonds.

Given in marriage by her uncle, O. G. Henry, the bride was lovely in a waltz length gown of candlelight peau de soie featuring a very full skirt over tiers of nylon ruffles and silk taffeta. The bodice was of hand clipped lace fashioned with small round collar edged in seed pearls and elbow length close fitting sleeves, also edged in seed pearls. Her finger tip veil of bridal tulle cascaded from a bandeaux of tulle and seed pearls. Her bouquet was an arrangement of white feathered carnations, lilies of the valley and centered with a single purple orchid, and tied with loops of white satin ribbons and tulle.

Mrs. Nicholas C. Slavant, the bride's only attendant, wore a most becoming gown of petal pink silk organza fashioned with close fitting basque waist, scoop neckline with cap sleeves. The skirt, waltz length was gathered over pink silk taffeta and featured scattered white lace medallions. She wore a matching white lace picture hat and wrist length gloves. She carried an arm bouquet of pink carnations with pink satin ribbons and tulle.

The bridegroom chose Mr. Nicholas C. Slavant, his brother, to serve as his best man.

Reception

Mr. and Mrs. O. G. Henry were hosts at a reception in their home following the ceremony. Lovely arrangements of pink and white roses were placed throughout the reception rooms. The bride's table was overlaid with a handsome beige - pink handmade lace cloth and centered with a large arrangement of pink and white chrysanthemums, stock and lilies of the valley. On either side were twin crystal candelabra which held pale pink tapers. At one end of the table was the wedding cake. On the opposite end was the crystal punch service which was presided over by Mrs. A. V. Sciro, sister of the groom. Assisting in the courtesies were Mrs. Sam Rizzo who served the wedding cake and Miss Salley Peptone alternating at the punch service.

The bride's mother was dressed in a light pink sheath model with white accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

The bridegroom's mother chose for the occasion a lovely champagne silk organza model featuring a soft side drape of the same material and wore accessories of the same color. She wore a corsage of pink carnations also.

Before departing on their wedding trip the bride changed to a blue and white silk cotton chemise suit with white accessories and at her shoulder was pinned the orchid from her bouquet. Upon their return they will be at home at 800 Auburn Avenue.

Mr. Slavant is a graduate of St. Matthew's School, attended Northeast State College and Louisiana State University where he was a member of the Newman Club, and the American Institute of Chemical Engineers. He received his bachelor of science degree this past June.

Out of town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sciro of Birmingham, Ala. Mr. and Mrs. John Dennis and Mrs. Maxie Lawler of Shreveport.

Enjoy Life With A Belt In The Back

By DOROTHY ROE

Want to know how to enjoy life with a belt in the back?

Just eavesdrop at the monthly luncheon of the Sports Car Driving and Chowder Society in a midtown Manhattan restaurant.

It's real far out, man, practically frigid, with about 200 cats and kittens digging this new rumble that's like orbiting on the ground.

And that crowd, kids, it's like nothing you'll ever see this side of Mars—everybody from corporation presidents to truck drivers and from debutantes to secretaries, all tuned in like hi-fi.

The main idea here is that if you haven't driven a sports car, kitten, you haven't lived. It's a theory that seemed to be spreading all over, from Park Avenue to darkest Africa, with high concentration on the west coast and Florida.

The talk is of comparative merits of Jaguars, Austin Healeys, Triumphs, MGs and Corvettes.

Members have their own jargon, as you may have gathered. For instance, a square is anybody who drives a standard car with automatic shift and power steering. With-a-belt-in-the-back is fabulous, terrific, the most.

There are almost as many women as men in this new speed fraternity. Wives whose husbands have been bitten by the sports car bug have discovered that they have the choice of going along or becoming sports car widows.

Unmarried girls have found that the best way to attract men is to buy a sports car.

Then a lot of big business men and professional men seem to find an outlet for their spirit of adventure in piloting one of these small, powerful speedsters.

MISS FRANCES LUCILLE HINTON

Giovingo-Hinton Engagement Is Announced

Announcement is being made by Mr. and Mrs. Turner Hinton of West Monroe, of the approaching marriage of their daughter, Frances, to James Giovingo. The bridegroom to be is the son of Mrs. Agnes Giovingo and the late Mr. James Giovingo of Monroe.

The ceremony will take place October 17, at 4 o'clock in the afternoon at St. Joseph's Catholic Church in Monroe. A reception will follow in the church parlor.

Miss Hinton is the granddaughter of Mrs. Earl Becton, Sr. and the late Mr. Becton of Monroe and Mr. and Mrs. I. L. Hinton of Downsville. She is a graduate of West Monroe High School.

Mr. Giovingo is the grandson of Mrs. Joe Traina and the late Mr. Joe Traina and the late Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Giovingo of Monroe. He graduated from Neville High School and attended Northeast College.

The bride - elect has chosen her sister, Mrs. James Cole to be her matron of honor, and Miss Gwen Barnes to serve as maid of honor. Br desmaids will be Miss Nina Giovingo, sister of the groom and Miss Betty Jenkins. Junior bridesmaid will be Judy Balsamo.

James Balsamo will be best man and the ushers will be Charles Miller, Joe Jacola, and Salvadore Fontana, all of Monroe.

MRS. JAMES TROY HOOD

Soapsuds Games

Trying to find a way to entertain the small fry during the flu epidemic, when they may be confined to the house for a few days?

Here are some sudsy past times:

SOAP BUBBLES: Stir soap and glycerine in a bowl. A drinking straw, an empty spool and even a kitchen funnel will help make big beautiful bubbles. A drop of food coloring will color the bubbles.

DOLL CLOTHES: may be dipped in Easter egg coloring to help refurbish a little doll's wardrobe. Let them wash dolly's clothes before the tinting operation takes place.

BALLOON FUN: After balloons are blown up and tied, let the youngsters paint them with comical faces. A water-color brush dabbed in thickly beaten suds provides the little artist with harmless material for bushy hair, beards, brows.

Some housekeepers like to add a little vinegar to rinsing water to help brighten glassware.

MRS. JOHN NORMAN SHORE, the former Miss Joyce Marie McDaniel, whose marriage of July 18, was solemnized at six o'clock at Grace Episcopal church with the Rev. H. Newton Griffith officiating. Mrs. Shore is the daughter of Mrs. J. W. McDaniel of Lake Providence and the late Mr. McDaniel, and Mr. Shore is the son of M/Sgt. and Mrs. James E. Shore of Fort Campbell, Ky.

Candlelight Ceremony Unites Miss DeLouche And James Troy Hood

An impressive candlelight ceremony united in marriage Miss Frances DeLouche, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cliff DeLouche of West Monroe, and James Troy Hood, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Hood of Springhill. The Rev. Harold Cook performed the double ring ceremony on Saturday, August 16, at 8 o'clock in the evening in the New Chapel Hill Baptist Church. The vows were exchanged under an arch entwined with greenery. In the background were tall cathedral tapers in wrought iron candelabra, flanked by bouquets of white gladioli.

Marie Feazel, soloist, rendered "The Wedding Prayer" and "Because," accompanied by Mrs. Pat Sills at the piano. To the strains of the traditional wedding march, rendered by Sally Jackson at the organ, the bride entered the church on the arm of her father who gave her in marriage. She wore a formal length gown of lace and tulle. The fitted bodice with a scalloped neckline and the long tapering sleeves were embroidered with seed pearls. The full tulle skirt swept from a graduated lace insert into a chapel train. The fingertip veil of illusion fell from a circlet of starched lace and pearls. The bride wore small pearl earrings and carried a white Bible, topped with a white orchid surrounded by stephanotis and streamers.

Miss Barbara DeLouche, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor. She was gowned in pale pink chiffon over taffeta. Her headdress was a bandeau of small chiffon leaves and pearls. She carried a white lace fan with small pink mums nestled in the lace.

Miss Sarah Van Woolfolk and Mrs. Marion Harrell served as bridesmaids. They wore waltz-length dresses similar to that of the maid of honor, as were their headdresses and bouquets.

Sally Jackson and Patsy Torres were candlelighters. They wore waltz length pink tulle over taffeta with wristlets of pink mums.

James L. Caldwell served the groom as best man. Dave Goranous and Erroll Dawson were the groomsmen. Escorting the guests were Robert Earl Hood and Buddy Torres, nephews of the groom, and Bobby DeLouche, brother of the bride.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. DeLouche wore a light blue sheath with white accessories. Her corsage was of pink mums. Mrs. Hood chose a green two-piece model with black accessories. Her corsage of pink mums completed her attire.

Reception

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the youth center of the church. The reception table was overlaid with white lace over pink taffeta and was centered with an arrangement of pink candles and greenery. The traditional wedding cake was served by Mrs. Zelia Owen, while Mrs. A. Z. Jackson presided over the punch bowl. Registering the guests was Mrs. J. M. Torres.

For travelling the bride wore a navy two - piece silk shantung model with navy and white accessories. Her corsage was the orchid from her bouquet.

The bride was graduated from Ouachita Parish High School and received her B. S. degree from Northeast Louisiana State College. The groom is a graduate of Springhill High School and received his B. S. from Louisiana Polytechnic Institute. Both the bride and groom received their master's degrees from Louisiana State University.

After a honeymoon to the Gulf Coast, the couple will make their home at 158 West Chimes Street, Baton Rouge, where the groom will teach at LSU and continue his studies and the bride will teach in Port Allen.

Miss Wright And Richard Landrem Exchange Vows

LAKE PROVIDENCE — At eight o'clock in the evening of August eighth, nuptial vows were exchanged between Miss Myrtle Wright and Richard Landrem.

The bride is the daughter o' Mr and Mrs. Jack Wright, and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Landrem, all of Lake Providence.

Myriads of cathedral tapers in four standards of seven branched wrought iron candelabra, lighted the First Baptist Church of Lake Providence for the double ring ceremony. Floor baskets of pink gladioli with fern interspersed the lighting. Vased glads centered the communion table. Large pink satin bows marked the reserved pews for the families.

Dr. Ira C. Cole, pastor of the local church, heard the plighting of the troths.

Mrs. Howard H. Moorman played the familiar romantic ballads, "Dawn of Promise," "My Heart at thy Sweet Voice," "Love's Old Sweet Song," "Believe Me if all Those Endearing Young Charms," while the tapers were lighted by Don Whitehead of Lake Providence and J. M. White of New Iberia, the ushers. She also played the traditional wedding marches to mark the entrance and departure of the bridal party.

Preceding the bride down to the altar where the groom waited with his best man, Douglas Patrick, and groomsmen, Ned Edmondson, Bob Muirhead and Robert Rentz, Jr., were her attendants. Miss Sylvia Appleberry, McGehee, Ark., the maid of honor and the bridesmaids, Misses Betty Ann Rushing, Patsy Washam and Sylvia Whatley, all of Lake Providence. They wore identical models of bright green taffeta in a flattering princess styling with V neckline, brief sleeves and circular skirts of waltz length. Figure eight headdresses were of dress matching shade and were decorated with tiny pink roses. Each carried a cascade bouquet of pink gladioli with pouffs of matching maline and streamers of pink satin ribbon completed their ensemble.

The radiant bride who was given in marriage by her father, entered on his arm wearing a ballerina length gown of white Chantilly lace over satin. The moulded decollete bodice extended into a bouffant skirt of tiers of lace edging. The lace bolero had a Peter Pan collar, long sleeves that pointed over the hands and fastened at the wrists with heart shaped pearl buttons, matching those fronting the bolero. The finger tip veil of illusion fell from an Elizabethian coronet of pearls. The nuptial bouquet was of white orchids, tube roses, white net and narrow satin ribbon. She carried out the traditional something old, something new.

Mrs. Wright was becomingly dressed in a navy sheer with white accessories and her shoulder corsage was a purple orchid. Mrs. Landrem, mother of the groom, was attired in a dark beige crepe with white rounded collar latticed with brown braid. Her accessories were in white and her shoulder corsage was of white carnations.

Reception

Immediately after the ceremony the reception rooms of the church were filled with well wishers.

Miss Peggy Nan Ouzts of Transylvania presided at the bridal registry. The parents of both families and the wedding party received the guests. The bride's table was laid in Madieria linen over blue. At one end was the three tiered pink wedding cake decorated in white roses and green leaves and topped with a miniature bride and groom, and at the other was the crystal punch service with Miss Linda Howard presiding. Decor was the bridal attendant's bouquets to base the lighting by tall white tapers. Miss Sybl Ann Warner dispensed the cake serving.

After a wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Landrem will be at home in an apartment in the Landrem home on Riverside Drive.

On Dit'

by Denise

The social whirl in Monroe is still revolving mainly around a number of popular out of town visitors. No big, fancy parties, but a succession of gay, informal affairs.

MRS. RALPH WICKER of New Orleans, and her two children, RALPH, JR., and STEPHEN, have been the guests of the JACK DAVIES in their home on Country Club road. Jean honored her sister with a conversational hour on Wednesday morning. A large arrangement of roses in shades of pink into deep rose graced the living room while fresh fruit decorated the dining table. About thirty - five guests called during the appointed hours . . . Dona was also honor guest for dinner at the JOE MICKEYS' and at a luncheon hosted by ADRIENNE GASTOL Friday.

JANE EARNEST honored Dona with an informal coffee party on Thursday morning. About a dozen of Jane's neighbors were invited to come in shorts for coffee, doughnuts, and a visit with the guest.

A former Monrovan, who was a friend of Jean and Dona's in New Orleans, is MRS. JEWEL L. BATES, JR., the former Joy Bernhardt. She was here this week with her parents, the PHILIP BERNHARDTS, and entertained at a luncheon for Jean and Dona. White chrysanthemums and gladiola centered the table. Broiled chicken and fruit salad were high points of the menu served to six guests . . . Joy left her children, BEVERLY, RICKY, and BOBBY, here with Philip and Vettye and went to Shreveport Thursday to visit her sister, MRS. J. W. MORTON. Jewel met her there and they are scheduled to come back through today, pick up the children, and return to New Orleans.

Another visitor who has been honored with a number of parties is MARY SMITH, of Indianapolis, Indiana, who is staying with her twin sister, ELLEN MINTZ. A luncheon on Tuesday was the compliment of TOMMIE SUE SARTOR and BETTY B. JACKSON. Eight guests enjoyed the meal consisting of shrimp and avacado salad, crabmeat au gratin, and mocha souffle.

The BEN COBBS entertained with a boating party on Sunday. Guests in addition to Mary and the Mintzes were the JOHN COBBS of Shreveport, GLORIA ROBERTSON and her guest, and twelve children. The group swam and went water skiing. A hamburger supper was served at dusk.

Gloria Robertson's guest is VIRGINIA STEELE of Huntington, West Virginia, who has been here for a week. A sherry party for this visitor was held Tuesday at the home of HELEN CANNON. Co-hostesses were AVA M'CARTY and ROBERTINE COBB. Roses and eucalyptus were used in the living room, while mauve asters centered the dining table. Gold zinnias were the flowers on the sun porch. About 25 guests attended.

On Wednesday Gloria and Virginia motored to Rayville for a swim and supper at the home of MRS. ROBBIE BINION . . . Thursday JANE OLIVER was hostess for luncheon. Eight guests attended the party at the Bayou DeSiard country club.

Jane was also hostess to a home luncheon on Monday. Guest of honor was IRENE VAUGHAN, who is moving to Dallas, Texas. HAROLD has been coming and going all summer, and Irene and the children joined him Friday . . . Jane used blue placemats on the table, with an arrangement in shades of yellow. An assorted salad plate was served, with angel pie filled with peaches for dessert.

Guests of EDNA VAUGHAN this week have been her daughter, MRS. LANDON MILES of Meridian, Miss., and her two children, MARGARET ANN and MICHAEL. . . . Margaret Ann celebrated her tenth birthday Wednesday with luncheon for a few friends at the Lotus club, with a trip to the picture show afterwards.

Last week the HARRY UTTHOFS of Cleveland, Texas, were guests of Ann's parents, the H. L. WILSONS . . . Also from Texas are the BUDDY BERBERS of Austin, who visited Eloise's parents, the T. W. MUSSETTS . . . These two couples were guests for dinner at the residence of the J. D. WINKS. Fay served barbecued chicken, potato casserole, and strawberry pie.

The pledges of Lambda Sigma Chi sorority held a dance last Saturday night, carrying out the theme of "One Summer Night." The ceiling was covered with blue glittered stars and a moon, while a banner of white satin had the words "summer night" worked in glitter . . . Among the dancers were noted NANCY WILSON in a green print . . . CAROL SLAKTER in a plaid cotton sun dress . . . LINDA LEE WOODS in a black and white sheath . . . SUZANNE KELLOGG in full - skirted white . . . VICKIE DAVIDSON of Atlanta in pink cotton . . . MIKE M'KINLEY in a summer plaid. . . . and EVELYN AMMAN in black polished cotton.

JIM ADCOCK was honored on his birthday last Saturday night with a supper party at home. Guests were about twenty members of his office staff. The buffet held a lavish meal of fried chicken, potao salad, asparagus and almond casserole, tomatoes in wine, and cheese rolls. The birthday cake was baked for him by daughter JAN.

About sixteen junior misses who will enter high school this fall were entertained at a back-to-school party Wednesday. Hostess was GRETCHEN MASUR, who held the party at home. The girls feasted on sandwiches, cookies and soft drinks while they compared notes on summer activities and discussed the opening of school — right around the corner, now.

The NELSON ABELLS are spending this week in Nicaragua . . . BILLIE ROOT and her daughter NANCY are visiting relatives in California . . . The BILLY EDMONDSONS, with ANNE and BILL, are in Hot Springs, Arkansas, this week end.

MILANN GANNAWAY has just returned from a trip which is surely an eleven year old's dream. With her aunt, MILDRED GANNAWAY, she went by train to Washington, D. C., where she spent a day sightseeing. Then on to New York, for a week crammed with excitement and things to see and do — the Staten Island ferry, the stock exchange, the Rockettes. The return trip was made by air, with her parents, the BILLY GANNAWAYS, driving to Shreveport to meet her.

Enjoying a long week-end at the Cabana Beach Motel in Biloxi are the BOB CARTERS and the LEE EDWARDS . . . The JOHN CLAYS, who have been vacationing in Canal Fulton, Ohio, are due back this week . . . Also due back from a trip to the North Carolina mountains are JUDGE and MRS. W. M. HARPER.

MARGE and JOHN MULLENS took their three children to Hot Springs, Ark., this week; are due back today . . . The TIM ALLENS also took their children to Hot Springs. Virginia went to New Orleans to visit her sister, and on her return, took the children up for four days the first of this week . . . The ARTHUR SMITHS got in Wednesday from a week's trip to Point Clear, Alabama, and Baton Rouge . . . DOTTIE AMMAN, DOLL BURGOYNE, and MARGARET MOORE visited in Bastrop several days this week.

Back home after ten days on the Gulf coast are the CURTIS NICHOLS and their children, CAROL and CURTIS, JR. PEGGY FAIRCHILD was also in the party. They stayed at the Sun and Sand in Biloxi and Gulf Hills Dude Ranch in Ocean Springs, Miss.

On his eleventh birthday Thursday, EDWARD SOLOMON celebrated with a party in Forsythe Park. The group went for a swim, followed by a weinie roast. About fifteen boys attended.

It's a first child, a girl, for the Jerry R. LEES. the new daughter arrived on August 8 and has been named GINGER SIMONNE. The grandparents are the SIMON A. JOHNSONS and the RUSSELL W. LEES. The mother is the former Ann Johnson.

One of the summer's lovely parties was the coffee hour Tuesday in the home of MARY PETRUS, with Mary and her daughter-in-law, DOLLY PETRUS, co-hostesses. Guest of honor was GINGER STEVENS PETRUS, recent bride of Mary's son DAVID. Pink and lavender were the predominant colors in the arrangements of garden flowers used throughout the house . . . Ginger was wearing a blue polished cotton trimmed with lace . . . Mary was in pale blue linen, and Dolly in printed silk shantung . . . STELLA BERNHARDT and ALTA HAMILTON poured . . . The dainties served included tiny cream puffs filled with chicken salad, ribbon sandwiches, cookies and sand tarts.

Among the guests were noted ALETA FRIZZELL, a picture in an all - blue outfit . . . LORA CARSON in a white sack dress, worn with a black hat and long black and crystal ropes . . . DOLLY SUTTON in a white pillbox hat with a rose on one side . . . LUCY KNAPP in all beige . . . FRANCES MONTGOMERY, highlighting a white linen dress with exquisite antique cameo earrings . . . Those assisting were IRMANEE ROARK, DOT FULLER, LOIS MARIONNEAUX, JOAN FONTANA, and CAROL TONORE.

BENNIE BERRY of Bastrop, bride - elect of EDWARD BARHAM of Oak Ridge, was honored with a luncheon given by CAMILLE WOOD on Wednesday. The guests gathered in the private dining room of the Bayou DeSiard country club. The table was covered with a willow green cloth and centered with a silver tureen filled with white gladiola and Marconi daisies. Bennie's corsage was also of daisies. Her gift from the hostess was an Italian china salad bowl with matching tongs . . . Eleven guests were seated for the meal consisting of grape, apple and coconut cocktail; chicken and ham with Mornay sauce, a green salad and coffee mousse.

This poem by Elizabeth Barrett Browning was inspired by the line "He giveth His beloved sleep," as found in Psalm 127:

Of all the thoughts of God that are
Borne inward into souls afar
Along the Psalmist's music deep,
Now tell me if that any is
For gift or grace surpassing this—
"He giveth His beloved sleep."
What would we give to our beloved?
The hero's heart to be unmoved,
The poet's star-tuned harp to sweep,
The patriot's voice to teach and rouse,
The monarch's crown to light the brows? —
He giveth His beloved sleep.
What do we give to our beloved?
A little faith all undisproved,
A little dust to overweep,
And bitter memories to make
The whole earth blasted for our sake:
He giveth His beloved sleep.
And friends, dear friends, when it shall be
That this low breath is gone from me,
And round my bier ye come to weep,
Let one most loving of you all,
Say 'Not a tear must o'er her fall!
He giveth His beloved sleep."

FROM BURLESQUE TO BROADWAY

NEW YORK (AP) — Bert Lahr, who made his name in burlesque and slapstick musical comedy, is becoming a leading interpreter of French drama.

He began the cycle with an appearance in "Waiting for Godot," and moved on last season to the classic farce, "Hotel Paradiso."

Next season he is booked to appear in "Moodbirds," a new drama by Marcel Ayme.

OFF BROADWAY MARQUEE

NEW YORK (AP) — The off-Broadway hit show "Comic Strip" has received an unusual citation from its landlord.

Celebrating the first boxoffice success to settle in its playhouse, the Barbizon Plaza hotel has built a marquee over the central entrance, just like the ones on Broadway proper.

DEAR ABBY

There Are Other Activities: Try Them

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I have been going steady for six months and my boyfriend's religion doesn't permit him to go to movies or to dances. There is nothing much for us to do except to sit out in a car and neck. I like him a lot but this is getting dangerous. What should I do? AFRAID.

DEAR AFRAID: Get together with other couples and play records (you don't have to dance, even if they do), play scrabble, watch TV, engage in sports (swimming, tennis, bowling) picnic with others. Too much aloneness is dangerous indeed and you are smart to know it.

DEAR ABBY: I need your help on a subject concerning my husband. He is getting bald but he refuses to do anything about it. I say he should get a hair piece and cover up his head as he isn't even thirty yet and he is too young to be bald. He is very stubborn and says if he is going to be bald he will take it like a man and he doesn't care how it looks. I think just to spite me he brushes his hair more than he has to and harder than usual just to make it fall out. Please help me to convince him that he needs his head covered.

HATING BALDNESS

DEAR HATING: If he is getting bald, he is wise to accept it. The only way you'll sell him a hair piece is to show him someone on whom it looks so real he could never believe it.

DEAR ABBY: I am in search of feminine companionship. I'd like a good - looking, clean girl between 20 and 35 who is interested in some fun on week - ends and holidays. No chance for marriage. I've had it. Thanks.

LONESOME AL

DEAR AL: Where do you think you are going to find a CLEAN, GOOD-LOOKING GIRL who would go for a deal like this? Sorry, friend, you are barking (and I did say barking) up the wrong tree.

DEAR ABBY: I am dating a boy who has money. His birthday comes before mine. I am afraid if I give him a gift he will think I am doing it just so he will give me one. I hate to let his birthday go by without giving him anything, but I don't want him to get the wrong idea. Please help me.

NOT HINTING

DEAR NOT: Send him a telegram or mail him a birthday card.

CONFIDENTIAL TO WALLY: A woman's tears have been known to generate more power than Niagara Falls. Don't fall for it!

Barbara Purswell And George Tipton McKnight Pledge Marriage Vows

Now on a wedding trip to the Gulf Coast are Mr. and Mrs. George Tipton McKnight, who were married Saturday evening, August 9, at 4:30 o'clock at the First Baptist Church in Baton Rouge. The bride is the former Barbara Jeanette Purswell of Fort Myers, Fla., formerly of Baton Rouge. Mr. and Mrs. George D. McKnight of Columbia are the bridegroom's parents.

The Rev. Bruce Lowe officiated at the double ring ceremony. White rosa de montana, Filipino lilies and greenery decorated the front of the church. Mr. Drew Shaw, organist, and Mr. Marion Hall, soloist, presented nuptial music. Selections included "Because," "I Love Thee" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Following their wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. McKnight plan to reside at 3500 Dublin Street in New Orleans. He is currently attending LSU Medical School.

Preceding the bride to the altar were Mrs. Joe L. Bloodworth, sister of the bride and matron of honor; Mrs. Aubrey McCleary, Mrs. Al Mechana and Miss Faye McKenzie, bridesmaids. They wore beige lace sheath dresses over beige satin with empire waistlines. Attached to the backs of the dresses were tangerine peau de soie bows with panels flowing to the bottoms of the dresses. Each wore a clutch-type hat made of beige lace and corded with tangerine peau de soie set with rhinestones, beige lace gloves and beige shoes. The bridesmaids and the matron of honor carried fans with bronze mums draped along one side. The matron of honor's bouquet was distinguished from the others by a different shade of ribbon, and in keeping with the beige and tangerine color scheme of the wedding.

Mr. McKnight was his son's best man. Groomsmen and ushers were William Lembeck of Arsenal, [illegible]; Mr. J. E. Smith of New Orleans, and Mr. Joe L. Bloodworth of Fort Worth, Texas.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a gown of Chantilly lace and tulle. The bodice of tulle with designs cut from the lace and appliqued on was made with a scalloped neckline outlined in pearls and iridescent sequins inset with rhinestones. Both the yoke and bodice were made with insertions bordered with small crystal beads inset with pearls.

The long lace sleeves ended in points at the bride's wrists, repeating the pointed waistline. The gown was made with a double skirt of tulle over taffeta ending in a train. The center inset, bordered with satin cording with a ruffle at top and bottom, contained powder puff medallions of tulle bordered with satin cord and outlined with ruffles. In the center of each were two velvet bows.

According to tradition the bride wore a lavalier given to her by the groom's mother as "something old." gold earrings as "Something new," a handkerchief blonging to her mother as "something borrowed" and a detail of blue, a gift of Miss Gene Vick, the groom's cousin, as "something blue." In her shoe she tucked a sixpence, a gift of Mrs. Eugene Vick.

To the bride's headdress, a queen's crown of Chantilly lace, was attached a fingertip veil of illusion. Outlining the design of the lace were crystal beads inset with pearls, sequins and rhinestones. The bride's bouquet was made of an orchid surrounded by white tuberoses. The same flowers were noted on the streamers, which fell from the bouquet.

The dress worn by the flower girl, Sally Kelton, was almost a replica of that worn by the bride. The tulle gown was made with a yoke of imported chantilly lace with velvet bows on the yoke. Attached to the waist was a larger velvet bow with forget-me-knots extending the floor. She carried a white basket filled with white gladioli.

The reception hall of the First Baptist Church formed the setting for the reception which followed the ceremony. As she received guests, Mrs. Purswell, mother of the bride, wore a pale blue nylon organza dress over taffeta. The cap sleeves were caught with velvet bows. Completing her ensemble were matching accessories and a purple - throated white orchid. The groom's mother, Mrs. McKnight, chose a fall Dior blue satin dress worn with black accessories. She, too, wore a purple-throated white orchid corsage.

Filipino lilies, white rosa de montana and greenery decorated the hall for the ceremony. An ecru lace cloth over a beige cloth covered the bride's table centered with a three - tiered wedding cake encircled by ivy and rosa de montana. On the punch table, covered with an ecru linen cutwork cloth, was a centerpiece of white day lilies. At one end of the table was a punch bowl and at the other end was a coffee service.

Mrs. Wilfred Rodriguez and Mrs. J. L. Krizan cut the cake, while Miss Jane Werner and Miss Gene Claire Vick poured. Misses Jan and Judy Capdevielle presented small bags of rice to the guests. At the guest register was Miss Margaret Vick.

For traveling to the Gulf coast the bride changed to a silk cotton suit of black and brown mingled with British tan. Her accessories were British tan.

The bride was graduated from Istrouma High School and ISU. Mr. McKnight was graduated from LSU where he was a member of Alpha Tau Omega. While a student at the LSU Medical School, he is serving as president of the Interfraternity Council.

Out - of - town guests attending the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. S. Desha Jr., Mr. Lucian Larche, Monroe; Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Sanders and Mike, and Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Fisher, Buras; Mrs. W. E. Vick, Mrs. Mae Melson, Mrs. T. E. Andrews, Mr. and Mrs. Prentice Vick and Mr. Roger Vick, Clinton; Mr. and Mrs. Beach Egbert and Tommy, Mansfield; Mr. Otto Smith, Tullos; Mr. B. U. Stafford, Rolling Fork, Mississippi; Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Kosmac, Extension; Mr. and Mrs. Joe Kelly and family, Oak Grove; Mr. and Mrs. Pat Guice of Winnsboro.

MRS. GEORGE TIPTON MCKNIGHT

Girl Scout News

Looking back over the summer Scout activities one group of eleven - year - olds is going to remember with a great deal of pleasure the sewing lessons given by Mrs. Donn Kurtz, a member of the program committee of the Girl Scout Council. Only twelve girls were lucky enough to get into the class; many more applied after the class was filled.

Learning to thread a machine, the coordinating of hand and eye and foot or knee, even the threading of a needle or the wearing of a thimble are not easy for the beginner in sewing and require patience on the part of teacher and girls. Think how much harder it was before electric machines! Assisting Mrs. Kurtz with the group at different times were Mrs. C. H. Bird, Mrs. Floyd Stone, Mrs. M. A. Denoux and Mrs. M. E. Pickett. Lending their machines, in addition to Mrs. Kurtz, were Mrs. S. S. Hollan, Mrs. A. B. Gregory, Mrs. Marvin DuBose, and Miss Annis Klie.

The first thing each girl did was to assemble a sewing kit with all the equipment needed. Then after learning how the machine worked, she made a potholder, edging it with bias tape. Cutting out and making an apron was the next project, one which required basting, hemming, gathering. Mrs. Kurtz taught the girls how to hem a dress, something their mothers will be very happy to have them know.

By doing a few more requirements at home this summer, Mrs. Kurtz says, the girls will have fulfilled requirements for the seamstress badge. Some of the satisfactions the teachers derived from the project, they say, are seeing the girls help each other, making new friends, the happy singing while they worked. We think Mrs. Kurtz deserves a great deal of credit, not only for heading the project, but for having it in her home. We only wish more people could make similar opportunities available for girls.

The Scouts who took advantage of the opportunity are: Kathryn Bird, Jean Carter, Lynn Hollan, Pat Pickett, Kaki Stone, Gayle Popwell, Marilyn Denoux, Anne Spurgeon, Anne Armstrong, Kay Joyce, Carol Overton and Bonnie Baldo.

Miss Carroll Becomes Bride Of G. Keller

LAKE PROVIDENCE — A simple and beautiful background setting in the First Baptist Church of Lake Providence was used for the double - ring ceremony when Miss Doris Carroll became the bride of George Wendell Keller.

Dr. Ira C. Cole, the church pastor, officiated at the ceremony which took place Sunday afternoon, August tenth at two o'clock.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Edwin G. Blanche of Newellton and the late Mr. Jerry Carroll, and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. George William Keller of Lake Providence.

The beauty of the church was enhanced by an altar decoration of white crepe myrtle based with magnolia leaves, which were duplicated on the ledge of the baptistery.

Music for the ceremony was presented by Mrs. Douglas Hart oranist. She also accompanied her husband, the Rev. Douglas Hart, who sang "The Lord's Prayer," as a prenuptial number.

Mrs. Leon Hart of Tallulah, was the bride's matron of honor and only attendant. She was gowned in a waltz length model of pale blue lace made on redingote lines over matching polished cotton. Her shoulder corsage was of white carnations.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Paul Carroll of Newellton, was lovely in a gown of nylon net and lace. The fitted princess bodice was of lace with a sweetheart neckline and short sleeves. The flowing skirt of nylon net ruffling fell into a chapel length train. The veil of illusion was fastened to a crown of pearls. She carried a white Bible topped with a floral cross of white carnations and tulle.

The Rev. Douglas served the bridegroom as his best man. The ushers were David Carroll and Billy Carroll of Newellton, brothers of the bride.

Reception

Immediately following the church ceremony a reception was held in the church school parlors.

Miss Merrie Belle Deal registered the guests at a table decorated in zinnias and white caladium leaves.

Mothers of the bride and groom received with the bridal party. Mrs. Blanche was gowned in a light blue lace with white accessories and wore a corsage of pink rosebuds. Mrs. Keller chose a midsummer model of blue with white polka - dot design. Her corsage was of white mums.

The bride's table was covered with a white cutwork cloth over blue. The three - tiered wedding cake was iced in white and decorated with blue spun sugar roses and topped with a miniature bride and groom. Miss Linda Howard presided at the crystal punch service and Miss Evelyn Stampley sliced and served the cake. Mrs. Bill Edwards and Mrs. Woodrow Deal assisted in the serving courtesies.

YOUR PROBLEMS

How To Deal With Sorrow, Is Problem

Dear Ann: The husband of a dear friend passed away recently. It was a sudden death and we were terribly shaken.

What does one say to a widow at such a time? I've examined my heart and my head and there are no words.

Although everyone faces this situation in the course of a lifetime few people know how to deal with it intelligently. Can you help? — SILENT FRIEND

In time of sorrow it is far better to be useful than articulate. When death visits a home there is always much to be done and real friends do it.

Out-of-town relatives must be fed and housed. Small children should be taken elsewhere for a few days. Cooking becomes a big job. Cleaning must be done, and sometimes laundry.

Messages of condolence should be noted and a record kept of the visitor who brought a roster of chicken or a chocolate cake. The widow will be too stunned to notice, but she'll want to know about these acts of kindness later.

And most important — when the months have passed and well-wishers go about enjoying life as usual, do YOU remember to include the widow in your activities? Or do you drop her from the list because an extra woman is a social liability? THIS is the real test of friendship — not the floral offerings or oral bouquets at the time of the tragedy.

Dear Ann: I married a woman who had a difficult time with her first husband. He was abusive and struck her repeatedly.

Her son, 23, just got out of the service and is now living with us. it burns me up the way he orders her around. He's the image of his father — walks like him, talks like him, and has the same sadistic sense of humor.

My wife hasn't let me put my arm around her since the boy moved in three months ago. I've tried to discuss this but she clams up and says she "can't help it." What's come over her and what is the solution to my problem? BRICK WALL

Your wife identifies this boy with his father. His presence is almost the same as having Husband Number One around the house. She can't be a wife to you so long as the symbol of the past is right under her nose.

A boy 23 years of age is old enough to be on his own. Since he's wrecking your marriage it's hardly unreasonable to suggest that he live elsewhere.

Dear Ann: Please don't laugh this problem off. It may be amusing to others, but it's making a nervous wreck out of me.

My girl friend has insomnia. She thinks just because she can't sleep no one else should. We're together four nights a week and I phone her every day.

For the past four months she has called me every night between midnight and 4:00 A.M. — just to talk. I'm a commercial artist and I need my rest. My roommate moved out because of these calls and now my rent is a back - breaker. Advice, please. — ZOMBIE

The girl has more than insomnia — she's got a mean streak a mile long and a yard wide. She figures if she can't sleep, why should you have it so good? Tell her to see a doctor and get off the horn.

CONFIDENTIALLY: Can't Go On: Of course you can. Others have. Live your life a day at a time. Remember, life by the yard is hard — but by the inch it's a cinch. — a.

If alcohol is robbing you or someone you love of health and dignity, send for ANN LANDERS' new booklet, "Help For The Alcoholic," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

ACTS ON FLAG BILL

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House passed and sent to the Senate Monday a bill to authorize President Eisenhower to have a new flag designed with a 49th star for Alaska.

STAMP HOLDER

It only takes a few seconds to glue an envelope on the inside lid of your stationery box and you will find this very convenient for holding stamps, labels and addresses.

If you are using an English recipe: one saltspoonful may mean that as much as ¾ teaspoonful of the ingredient is needed.

Alumni Chapter Given Approval

An alumni chapter of Kappa Sigma fraternity for this area has been approved by the organization's national office, it was learned today. An organization banquet is slated for Tuesday at 7 p.m. at Bayou DeSiard Country Club.

Frank Davis, temporary chairman of the new chapter, said plans for the banquet were discussed at a meeting last week at the residence of Larry McCarthy. He noted permanent officers for the chapter would be elected at the Tuesday meeting.

Davis requested all Kappa Sigma alumni who have not been contacted to call Corbin Turpin, FA 2-6101, or himself at FA 2-3077.

The bidding:
North, Pass; East, Pass; South, 1 no trump; West, Pass.
North, 2 no trump; East, Pass; South, 3 no trump; West, Pass.
North, Pass; East, Pass.
Opening lead: Spade 6.

In today's hand, South, lacking the facilities to subdue East, engaged the services of West, who unwittingly crushed his own partner.

West led the spade 6, and East's jack forced declarer's king. Declarer had but eight running tricks. If he attempted to build up a ninth in hearts it would involve relinquishment of the lead, and with it the probable loss of four spade tricks. He, therefore, ran his five club tricks, letting go the deuce of diamonds. West parted with a diamond and a heart. East signaled high - low in hearts, and then gave up a diamond and a spade.

Since declarer could not safely work on any other suit, he determined to engage the services of the enemy by getting out with a spade. The previous discards had persuaded South that East held the K-Q of hearts, and if he also held the diamond king he would find discarding very distasteful if West should choose to cash his spades.

The spade 10 was taken by the queen, and West proceeded to cash the rest of the suit. On the final lead, all hands must reduce to three cards. Dummy came down to the diamond A-9 and a heart. East held K-Q of hearts and K-7 of diamonds. When he chose to let go a diamond, dummy's ace felled East's king. East had succumbed at the hands of his own partner, a victim of the fratricide squeeze.

Inspired defense would have led to defeat of the contract. East must hold on to both small spades, while South is running the clubs. When declarer plays the spade 10, West must refuse to cash his spades at that time but must shift to a diamond.

If the diamond is permitted to ride, East wins while he still retains a spade with which to contact partner. However, had East and West designed such a defense it would have been our great pleasure to nominate them for the top Oscar.

Two Area Men Escape Injury In Miss. Wreck

BOLTON, Miss. (AP) — Two Monroe, La. area men escaped injury in a wreck involving a truck and two cars in which two persons were killed and three others injured. The pile up occurred Friday night on U. S. 80 near Bolton, Miss.

D. L. Robinson of Calhoun and Willie Woodard of Columbia were occupant of the truck and were unhurt.

Those killed were identified by patrolmen as Ralph Morris and Harry Conrad of Haven, Kansas.

Injured were Bob Triplet, Haven; William Jeason, Phenix City, Ala., and Joseph Edmonds, Summerville, Ga.

Highway patrolmen said that the cause of the accident was unknown.

Her black calf opera pumps are by Accent shoes. Miss Wilson is a sophomore at Northeast this year.

Claims GOP Prospects Are Improved

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Republican National Chairman Meade Alcorn said Saturday that GOP prospects in the November congressional elections "have vastly improved" and Republicans "are not conceding a single seat."

His forecast was brighter than one he made last April 22 when he said "it's not in the cards" for Republicans to win control of the Senate from the Democrats.

In a statement Saturday he said he was "confident Republican strength at the polls this November will be a real shock to the armchair experts who were writing us off a few weeks ago."

"It's going to be a real battle all the way and we're not conceding a single seat," he added.

Two Bankers Attend School At Virginia U.

Two members of Monroe's banking circle are attending the seventh resident session of the Consumer School of Banking at the University of Virginia in Charlottesville.

They are J. H. Carroll, vice-president of Central Savings Bank and Trust Company, and Virgil Crawford, assistant vice president and manager of the bank's Louisville Street branch, who are among the 198 from 29 states, the District of Columbia, Canada, Puerto Rico and Pakistan attending the two-weeks course.

Seventy-five of the students are freshmen, 77 are returning for their second year of training and 46 seniors will complete their courses and receive diplomas at the graduation exercises August 22.

The school is sponsored by the Consumer Bankers Association in co-operation with the University of Virginia and provides specialized training in the increasingly important field of consumer banking. The course is based on lecture and case study principles and students enroll for the three-year course. Robert A. Fischer, executive director of the association, is director of the school, and Miss Margaret B. Goldsmith is registrar.

In addition to the regular class sessions and lecture periods, the students attend evening seminars.

The list of speakers includes such outstanding figures in the banking economic world as Dr. Clifton C. Thorne, associate professor of business, New York State College for Teachers; Edward A. Wayne, first vice-president of the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond; Thomas W. Gormly, vice-president of Peoples-First National Bank and Trust Company, Pittsburg; and George M. Wasem, vice-president of the Commercial National Bank, Peoria, Ill., among others.

The course takes in every phase of banking and financing.

Henry Kaiser, 76, Continues To Expand Empire

By CHARLES H. TURNER

HONOLULU (AP) — "I don't think I'll ever retire."

This is Henry J. Kaiser speaking, 76 busy years behind him and no letup in sight.

With amazing energy he continues to expand his huge 1½ billion dollar industrial empire, which employs 75,000 men and women in 17 states and territories and five foreign countries.

In recent years, Kaiser has moved both his home and operating headquarters for Kaiser Industries Corp. from California to Honolulu. He keeps in touch with his mainland enterprises by trans-Pacific telephone.

His pet business project at the moment is a sprawling Waikiki tourist development near Honolulu known as the Hawaiian Village.

Expects Tourist Boom

Kaiser contends there will be a definite need for such hotels in Hawaii with the advent of commercial jet aviation. The jets are expected to bring tourists from the West Coast to Hawaii in half the present eight to nine hours. Within a few years he will have 5,000 rooms on the 18-acre development.

The industrialist also has launched a boat building program which has already produced the world's largest sailing catamaran and a fleet of smaller, twin-hulled craft. The speedy catamarans, all painted "Kaiser pink," have proven popular with vacationers.

Kaiser works an 18-hour day but it doesn't seem to wear him down. He makes no bones about the way he drives men, but he expects no more from them than from himself.

A score of his former employes recently banded together to form the Kaiser Alumni Assn., Unlimited, and held a dinner in a competitor's hotel to roast him.

Kaiser, unexpectedly, walked in on the meeting and made a speech.

He told his former workers that he was once fired from a job "30 years ago, or maybe it was 50."

He said he got another job and "worked so hard at it that later I was rehired by the company that fired me."

"So you see," Kaiser said, "I have a deep kinship with people who have been fired and rehired."

Kaiser got a big round of applause and ordered drinks for the house.

He could afford it.

He is reported to be one of the richest men in the world with a personal fortune of 75 to 100 million dollars.

But he had his lean years. He started his business career at 13 as a $1.50 a week cash boy in a Utica, N. Y., dry goods store. Then he traveled as a photographic supply salesman. He became a junior partner in a Lake Placid, N. Y., photographic firm at 22 and bought out the business a year later.

Kaiser subsequently branched out into the hardware business in Spokane, Wash., and in 1912 started on his building career by going into the paving contract field.

He became a road builder in Cuba, went on to head the companies which built Hoover Dam and the Booneville, Grand Coulee and Shasta dams.

Just before World War II, he founded the Permanente Cement Co., which is the largest firm of its kind in the western United States today.

Legendary Performance

His venture into shipbuilding in World War II make him almost a legend. With no prior experience in that field, he became the nation's top shipbuilder and his yards turned out 1,490 ships.

Other fields added to the Kaiser ventures included aluminum building materials, chemicals, coal, gypsum, real estate development, household products, iron, steel, aircraft and electronics.

The industrialist — a leading booster of Hawaii — feels that his resort offers everything every other tourist spot in the world can offer except for one thing.

"We have everything they have except gambling," Kaiser says. "I don't regret it a bit."

Then, he adds:

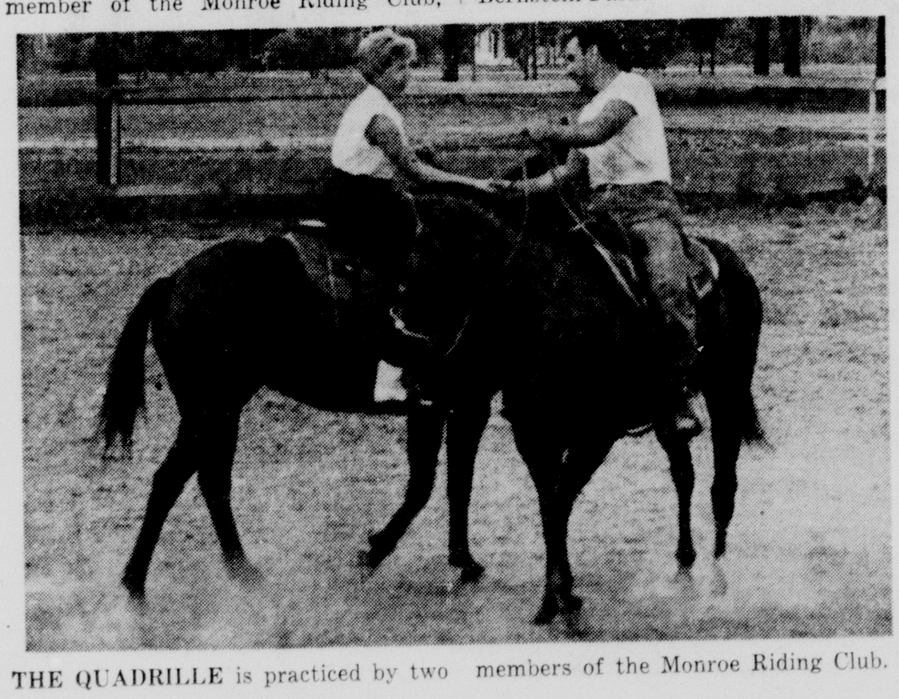

"If people were only as optimistic about the future of America as they are about the possibility that they might make some money gambling, I think it would be wonderful."

FRANK SWEET, five and youngest member of the Monroe Riding Club, wheels around a barrel at the arena at Bernstein Park.

THE QUADRILLE is practiced by two members of the Monroe Riding Club.

Spirit Of The Old West Enjoyed By Riding Club

By RECA BAMBURG
Staff Writer

Drive out to Bernstein Park any Sunday afternoon and in the far corner you will find a scene that looks like it is straight out of a western movie. The only thing lacking is the twang of a guitar, but the happy yells of children would drown that out anyway.

The prancing horses and the western - type regalia of the horsemen are not part of a movie scene but the Monroe Riding Club.

In 1954 a group of horse lovers started talking about forming a club. Well, talk led to action and within a short time the city administration had granted them a corner of the park where they could erect a permanent arena.

The city officials stipulated at the time of the agreement that the riding club would not be a private club but open to the public and that the arena grounds would be kept clean.

The fact that club members have lived up to both stipulations is easily testified to. Each Sunday afternoon finds streams of youngsters, some barely in the walking stage, taking a ride on a gentle horse, accompanied by an adult member of the riding club.

Grouped under the moss-draped trees, parents watch their children chatter happily about horses "like a real Roy Rogers," as they take their ride, some of them for the first time.

Many breeds of horses are present, but quarterhorse is most predominate.

Riding on the horses is not the only attraction the club offers the public. Each Sunday an exhibition is held. Generally featured are the barrel race, quadrille riding, calf roping, relay riding and just general trail rides taken by club members.

They also participate in many rodeo and other parades.

And age is no barrier. Frank Sweet, five, son of president of the club, Raymond Sweet, is the youngest member while Oscar McDonald, 67, is the oldest, and many would say, most active member.

There are now 71 members with Sweet serving as president; Nazie Sciaria, vice president; Mrs. C. A. Smith, treasurer; Mrs. G. O. Redden, secretary. Serving on the Board of Directors are Frank Tichelli, Miss Joy Lynn Smith, James Hightower and G. O. Redden.

Aging Scientist Dreams Of Space

By JACK STILLMAN

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (AP)—In a cluttered little office at Redstone Arsenal an ageing German scientist on the brink of retirement dreams of the future.

The future to 64-year-old Prof. Herman Oberth, is man traveling in space.

Oberth is the grand old man of rocketry. He has been studying space travel since 1920, and was a key figure in the German rocket program that almost won the war for Hitler.

Now Oberth is an employe of the U.S. Army, assigned to look ahead and decide what will be possible in rocket science in the next eight or ten years.

He has tousled hair and a mustache the color of steel. His eyes twinkle most of the time, but the smile lines in his face sometimes frown.

On occasion, he will disappear from his office on the first floor of the Army ballastic missile agency headquarters building at Redstone.

But he can usually be found pacing back and forth in a nearby parking lot. He says his office is too small. He will pace for perhaps 30 minutes, and then return to his desk to tackle some paper work.

Much of his work pertains to astronautics. In 1923 he wrote his first book: "By Rocket Into Planetary Space."

Much of what Oberth accomplishes at Redstone goes into top secret files. Ironically, since he is not a U.S. citizen, he is barred from seeing these files.

Of all his ideas, he considers his space station suggestions the most important.

"The space station is more urgent than the escape problem," he says, referring to the velocity needed for man to escape the force of gravity.

He considers artificial satellites the first step toward the establishment of space stations. "After some years, these satellites will become manned space stations," he says.

In his latest book, "Man Into Space," Oberth says:

"The space station's principal purpose should be to make still more distant space travel simpler. I have already pointed out that it is hardly possible to reach the moon, or any other planet in our system, directly from the earth, but that it would be possible with an easily reached filling station in space where the spaceship's fuel supply could be replenished."

Oberth said it would be possible to launch a rocket in the dire rocket on already existing four-stage systems.

"The possibility of hitting the moon would be little, because of the complicated machinery needed," he said.

"The more complicated the machinery, the more chances there are that it will break down," he added.

Nevertheless, he said there will be means to determine how close to the moon the first moon rocket comes.

"And later, perhaps there will be a television camera on a rocket which will move around on the back side of the moon which is never visible to the earth," he added.

Oberth said, however, that there is no reason to believe that the far side of the moon would be any different from this side, except that it may appear to be of a different color.

Oberth came to the United States a little more than two years ago to work for the Army as an idea man. He regards his ideas of space travel with deadly seriousness, but it has taken other scientists 30 years to prove some of his theories.

When his first book came out in 1923 most people laughed at him and scientists shunned him.

"Scientists did not read my first books, so I wrote them for the public. Then they turned against me, and spoke against me. I had no occasion to refute them," he recalls with bitterness.

So he turned to the public, avoiding scientists. He collected a cluster of youngsters who followed his work and were grateful for even a nod from the father of space travel.

One of the youngsters was Wernher von Braun, now a U.S. citizen and the Army's chief civilian rocket scientist. Von Braun was chiefly responsible for Oberth's decision to come to America.

Oberth, born at Heramannstadt in Siebenburgen, expects to return to Germany near the end of this year. "My wife is there now, preparing for my return. I will stay at least half a year. Beyond that, I do not know."

Oberth admires independence above a great many things. It was for independence he disappeared shortly after the end of World War II. He was discovered several years later living quietly in Switzerland.

"I am 64 years old. This is an age where a man should begin to think of the time when he will no longer be able to work," he says.

"I wish to retire. I do not wish to remain in this rocket business long enough for the other scientists to find out that I am outdated," he laughed.

He says he went to Switzerland because there was nothing left to do in Germany, no work he could accomplish.

As for the U.S. government, Oberth says that since the Russian Sputniks, it has become more . . . and he leafed frantically through a German-English dictionary before he pointed to the word . . . "reasonable."

But what does Oberth think is man's destiny?

"To make available for life every place where life is possible. To make inhabitable all worlds as yet uninhabitable, and all life purposeful."

THE WINE FLOWED

SAN LEONARDO, Italy (UPI)—Wine will be used to dedicate a new fountain in this village Sunday. The wine will flow as a stunt during the fountain inauguration ceremony, 220 gallons of it. When that is used up, water will issue from the fountain.

Thomas Jefferson was an avid book collector, his third collection now being in the Rare Books Division of the Library of Congress.

MODEL CLUB

'Hobby Hawks' Fly Planes From Ruston Airport Strip

If you think model airplanes are just toys, you should go by the Ruston Airport and watch the Hobby Hawks fly their planes some afternoon.

The Hobby Hawks, a model airplane club in Ruston, was organized by Cliff Stinson about six years ago. Mr. Stinson, who operates Cliff's Cycle Shop in Ruston, started teaching boys from Ruston, Louisiana Tech, and nearby towns to fly model airplanes as a project of his own.

"This is just my way of combating juvenile delinquency. I teach the boys patience by letting them read blue prints and build their own planes which concerns delicate handwork," stated Mr. Stinson.

In 1958 the Ruston Park and Recreation Board made arrangements for a model plane airport to be built at the Ruston Airport for the club and now helps sponsor the club. The Hobby Hawks field has concrete runways and a place for spectators. The materials for the field were furnished by local Lions Club and civic - minded firms.

Mr. Stinson stressed that people have the wrong idea when they think model airplanes are just toys. He stated that the planes that are flown in competition have real motors and usually average costing the boy about $30.

Mr. Stinson teaches the boys to build the planes; then he takes them out to the airport and helps them fly the planes. "This is the only way a boy can get the real enjoyment out of his planes," believes the interested teacher.

In the past three years, the Hobby Hawks have won over 100 trophies in contests all over the United States. There are about 50 active members in the club at the present time.

Chuck Anderson, a 14 year old Ruston High School student, has amassed 19 trophies in his three years of flying airplanes.

"I've always been interested in airplanes. I guess that's the reason I love to build and fly them," concluded Chuck.

Cliff Stinson's young son, Tommy, 11, is living up to his dad's expectations by being State Champion in the junior division in '56 and Gulf States Junior Champion this year.

But, his highest honor came two weeks ago when Tommy placed third in the Junior Combat contest at the National Model Airplane Championship at Glenview Naval Air Station in Glenview, Illinois.

Mr. Stinson accompanied Tommy and Chuck to the national contest where there were over 1500 contestants from all parts of the United States and Japan. This national contest has been sponsored by the United States Navy for the past 11 years. There were some 75,000 spectators at this year's event.

"The highlight of the contest for Chuck and Tommy was when they were asked by a committee of officials to put on a demonstration of combat flying for the spectators both Saturday and Sunday evenings," stated Mr. Stinson.

The youngest member of the club is ten year old Neil Kirkland who has won three trophies just this year, his first year in the club. He won second place in Combat, second in Scale, and third in Speed in the state contest.

The ages of the other members of the club range from grammar school through college. There have been several girls in the club in the past years and there were two this year.

In flying the plane the pilot stands in the middle of one of the three circles at the airport which have been marked off and turns counterclockwise. The controlling wires are high test steel cables used for safety's sake.

The Hobby Hawks concentrate on stunt and combat flying. Combat flying takes place when a streamer of crepe paper of about 15 feet in length is tied to the tail of two or more planes. These planes are put in the same circle. The object is for one plane to tear the others streamers with its propeller.

Former members of the Hobby Hawks have gone into aviation. Gary Young, an original member, is in naval flight training now.

Dale Gleason, 15, moved to Japan last year when his father was transferred there. He has won many trophies and has helped organize an active club in Japan which he named after the Ruston Club.

So you see, model airplanes aren't always just toys, but projects that require hard work and flying skill. They are a hobby that teaches boys something of mechanics and helps prepare them for the space age.

Many Admirers But No Fiance

By MARGARET SAVILLE
United Press International

LONDON (UPI) — Princess Margaret is approaching her 28th birthday on Aug. 21 with no sign of marriage on the horizon.

It's not because she lacks for interesting men in her life, or willing swains.

She still continues to be friends —but that's all — with Peter Townsend, the handsome former RAF officer she renounced as husband material in 1955, following the dictates of conscience, church and country.

The friendship is close and constant. There will be flowers from Peter on Margaret's birthday, and a gift, too. During her recent tour of Canada, he sent her regular letters and they also had at least one telephone conversation.

It is confidently expected the couple will meet in London from time to time this fall. He may be invited to tea or dinner at Clarence House where the Princess lives with her mother, the Queen Mother Elizabeth.

But throughout this continuing and mostly long - distance association the stress is always that Peter and Margaret simply continue friends.

What other young men does the extremely feminine, attractive Princess have among her admirers?

One of the most attentive is Billy Wallace. Margaret has known him since they went to children's tea - parties together. He is the 32-year-old son of the late Captain Euan Wallace, who was a member of the British government of his day and extremely wealthy.

Bill and the Princess share many interests such as music, drama and dancing. He works in the London offices of a large civil airlines company, though his career has been sometimes interrupted by ill health.

Wallace frequently takes Princess Margaret to the theater, entertains her at his handsome apartment and works with her on behalf of several charitable causes, including the Invalid Children's Association.

Another bachelor in Princess Margaret's circle is a handsome Scotchman, Dominic Eliot, son of Lord Minto. He is an amateur painter and very fond of riding as is the Princess. His parents are friends of the Queen Mother.

YOUNG SCIENTISTS

Interested In Lowly Insects

By FRED FAGAN

FARGO, N. D. (AP) — It's well known that the beckoning space frontier has fired the imagination of the nation's youth into new and unprecedented interest in science.

That holds true here, as elsewhere, but among one local group of budding scientists it has taken an uncommon form.

David Olson, a 9-year-old fifth grader, has this pungent definition for his field of scientific interest:

"I like bugs; any kind of bugs."

David is a typical member of the Fargo - Moorhead Entomology Club, sponsored by the North Dakota Agricultural College and open to all youngsters interested.

The fluid membership pays no dues and meets each month in the entomology lab at the college with Dr. Richard L. Post, NDAC associate entomologist, presiding.

At a Saturday morning meeting, Dr. Post explains, there may be anywhere from 10 to 30 grammar, junior and senior high school students — and an even larger number of insects, dead and alive — attending. All are surrounded by numerous jars, nets and cigar boxes.

The meetings mostly are informal, with the first two hours given to instruction and discussion, and another hour spent in laboratory work, microscopic inspection and mounting.

Gardens And Homes

THE HOME SHIFT

Late Summer Garden Jobs

By MILDRED SWIFT

August garden jobs are usually a hang over from July. You know those little things that, "I'll do tomorrow" but the air conditioned house just holds you back. Well — they still need to be done.

Here They Are

If you want to transplant your bearded iris, it is still not too late. Work bone meal lightly around the plants, not disturbing the roots. If you did this job in July, don't repeat.

Cut off violet foliage and fertilize plants with cottonseed meal or well decomposed barnyard fertilizer.

Time to plant the little old-fashioned hyacinth bulbs. Find a place where they can stay placed for years and years. They don't like to be moved.

Get beds ready for planting spring blooming annuals and perennials. Seed you'll want to plant in October are: Sweet peas (regular ones) cornflower, larkspur, candytuft, sweet alyssum, scabiosa, snapdragon, calendulas, pinks, carnations, sweet williams. Get your seed and have them when October rolls in. Time goes in a hurry. Time to plant your bluebonnet seed if you want spring blooms.

It is time to plant anemones and ranunculus. Both give gorgeous spring color in the garden.

If old blooms and seed pods are kept picked, it often prolongs the blooming period throughout the summer, and sometimes into the fall.

About this time of year mulch around plants has decayed. Renew this as we have some hot weather ahead and probably some dry weeks too.

Unusual!

Al Aleman, columnist for Baton Rouge newspaper, says if you want something unusual, order seed right now of the early blooming sweet pea. Make certain you get the earlies, not the spring flowering. Plant them in late August or early September. Give them a sheltered place. Then if the cold isn't too severe, you'll be cutting sweet peas in December or January. Wouldn't it be sensational to have sweet peas on your dinner table Christmas day? Baton Rouge is a few degrees warmer than Ouachita Parish, but with a warm early winter, the same can be done here. You'll have to search catalogues for these seed.

Pruning Roses

A number of gardeners are calling in about pruning roses. In February, you give this plant a heavy pruning. In August do a light job. R. H. Hanchey and W. D. Kimbrough say: "In the south where vigorous growth has been made during the summer and bushes are tall and ragged looking, another general pruning should be made in mid-August. This is done to get the bushes in condition for fall bloom. It should not be as severe as the winter pruning. Canes should be cut back to about 24 to 30 inches from the ground and some thinning done."

These gentlemen also say, "An application of nitrate of soda or it's equivalent at the rate of 2 to 4 tablespoons per plant in August may be beneficial for the fall blooms."

More Jobs

Dead branches near the ends of the limbs are an indication that your trees need feeding. This is not the time to fertilize but you can make a note of the trees that must be fed next winter or early spring. Many dead twigs are danger signals, and usually appear on older trees.

A few leaves are beginning to fall which reminds us to build that compost pile. You can use wire or unfinished lumber. Buy posts that have been treated so they'll not rot. Be sure the pen is three feet high. Other measurements may be any size you need. This winter, plant some kind of screening around this.

You'll Look This Way

After dress designers flattened out women's lines with the slim chemise dresses, hair stylists are going to round it out a bit with something called the chimicurl. This is one of the latest hair fashions. This will emphasize your height. It will be encouched in a profusion of curls with the hair cut short and brushed up on the back of the head. Hair will be worn close to the temples.

Headache bands are making quite a comeback this season for the very young on through the middle age. That's about everybody because none of us ever get past middle age. Cage veils and clip-on bandeaux, fashion cousins to the headache band, also are going well with girls and women who like to go hatless.

The long narrow fur stole is returning to favor. Some hang all the way down to the dress hemline, even after being draped, boa-style around the shoulders.

Ladies hats for fall will stress three daytime silhouettes: the soft-as-butter blouson with rounded contours; the high draped turban and the walking hat slanted to one side. All hats will be worn forward, slanted or square on the head.

Some of the sophisticated new hat styles are so closely related, it's impossible to tell sometimes where the hair begins and the hat ends.

Women seem to like the new empire - inspired dresses which stress the high bustline. This feminine look calls for above-the-bustline accent as seen in new, shorter more elaborate necklaces, or very ornate pins that should be worn "plumb" center.

The drop earring will be a real fad by the time the fall season rolls around. This isn't surprising, because a dangling earring looks just right with the new barely fitted silhouettes in dresses. For daytime, it should be a short drop — for evening it may be longer.

A brief roundup of the latest fashion news points up the fact that the heel-less seamless stocking is becoming the big favorite. By eliminating the line in the back, the stocking looks prettier with all shoes.

Stylists predict that shoes will change as much as clothes this fall, because of the sweep toward empire lines. The shoe recommended for the empire revival is a strapped slipper with sharp pointed toe.

Square buttons are likely to be popular on fall clothes here. Many are displayed on skirts, panels and necklines.

New

Women who need more leg support than is provided by ordinary stockings, no longer have to advertise the fact by wearing bulk hosiery. A new type of supporting stocking, made of sheer elastic nylon, is indistinguishable from "regular" nylon hose — except for a closer knit.

Announcements

Your Open House programs for next week are: Monday, Betty Jane Hodgkins will bring her 4-H Club winners in clothing to give you a style show of what the teen age gir' can make; Tuesday TBA; Wednesday, flower arrangements with Mary M. Jardine, Thursday and Friday, marketing with Mildred.

See you next Sunday.

'Sweetheart' Wins Camellia Title For '59

"Sweetheart," the All - America Camellia Selections Winner for 1959, is a lovely pink, formal double C japonica, beautiful in form and coloring and as attractive as its very appropriate name.

The All-America title, the most important honor which can be attained by a camellia, is awarded by All - America Camellia Selections, Inc., an independent organization of America's leading hybridizers and nurserymen. The objective of this group is to test throughout the camellia - growing areas as many new camellias as are entered in its trials, to give awards to those which qualify as the best and publicize the award winners, and to encourage the public to plant and enjoy more camellias.

"Sweetheart" was placed under test in 1953 in competition with other important new varieties and, during its three - year trial period, was scored upon such different qualities considered essential worthy of AACS honors as novelty, habit, vigor, foliage, floriferousness, flower form, substance, color, and fragrance. Gardens are staffed by a balanced corps of judges — amateurs, nurserymen, and professional horticulturists — who evaluate entries under actual growing conditions. Care is equivalent to that given the average home planting.

A handsome shrub, bushy and compact in habit, "Sweetheart" has foliage of thick texture, dark green and profuse, which makes the plant attractive even when not in bloom. Buds are produced quite evenly throughout the plant and, as plants age, are borne very generously. Young plants seldom are overloaded, but blossoms are of such quality that each is a treasure.

The flower form of this All-America winner is best described as full formal double, tight bud centered until complete maturity, when a cluster of short, golden tipped stamens may appear. Occasionally, there may be a semi - double flower with fluted petals, which displays the attractive golden stamens. Flower size averages about 3½ inches, but has been known to attain 4½ inches, particularly along the West Coast.

Coloring of "Sweetheart" is unique and to term it pink is to do the flower an injustice. Shadings are more of an apricot pink, as observed at times in tuberous-rooted begonias, a color rarely found in camellias. Such coloring constitutes a shade difficult to reproduce, either by the printer's or photographer's art, but it possesses the advantage of avoiding the bluish cast which other pinks often show under artificial light. "Sweetheart" remains a clear and pure pink, even under fluorescent lighting. Veining may be a deeper pink on occasion and, infrequently, a bloom may be softly marbled with white, an attractive variant.

Substance is excellent, making "Sweetheart" excellent corsage material, and florists who have worked with the blossoms find it a most rewarding subject. Cut flowers last exceptionally well.

During testing, plants survived temperatures of 15 degrees above zero in Atlanta without apparent injury, and the variety appears equally adapted to outdoor and greenhouse culture. It is wonderfully adapted also to container culture, remaining compact, well-foliaged, producing quantitites of flowers. In Southern California, where the variety has been observed since 1943, the year of discovery, blossoms will appear as early as THANKSGIVING and continue to appear as late as the middle of March, an exceptionally long period for bloom.

"Sweetheart" traces its ancestry to the old - timer, "Bleichroeder," of which it is a most distinctive sport. This same parent has yielded many fine camellias over the years, several of which still are popularly regarded and produced, among them being the almost rose - pink "Casablanca" (known also as "Anne Galli" and "Huntington Pink") and "Mother of Pearl," which is silvery - white with a barely noticeable pale pink center. In definite contrast is the rhodamine pink of "Sweetheart," whose color and other attributes make it outstanding and easily the most distinguished and finest member of its family.

Camellias, once grown primarily in the south and along the Pacific Coast, now are cultivated out - of - doors as far north as Philadelphia and Long Island, as well as in greenhouses throughout the country. This interest and attention continues to expand, fully justified by the unique beauty of the widely varying flowers and adaptability of the plants to a variety of uses. A beautiful evergreen shrub under all but extreme conditions, camellias are usually attractive both in and out of bloom.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Crescent Used In Arrangement

By MARY M. JARDINE

Guest Writer, Gladys M. Kulcke

The Monroe Garden Club staged a versatile Flower Show at the Garden Center this week.

Mrs. Henson Coon used the crescent design in her composition placed in a footed boat-shaped, green pottery container, on a black base.

Vegetables

Vegetables and foliage were used in this composition. At one end of the container the aspadistris and grey-green spiral Eucalyptus rose in a sweeping curve that suggested the circle. On the other end of the container the crescent line was continued with the same foliage. Yellow acorn squash and banana peppers, in tones of yellow and yellow-orange, were placed in the center of the container, filled in with short spirals of Eucalyptus forming the central point of interest. The composition would be pretty in any kitchen or family room.

Driftwood

Mrs. Dewitt Milam designed a most interesting one flower composition, using a white orchid with driftwood. Mrs. Milam chose a grey - brown flat round container. The slightly curved driftwood was anchored on a needle point holder in a vertical position, in the center of the container. Three large arrow leaves followed this vertical line. The orchid was placed low in the design. The combination of this material makes this composition suitable for any room in the home. Mrs. H. B. Hargrove's arrangement created much interest in the Garden Center. She made a symmetrical, vertical mass composition, using vegetables, dried and fresh cut materials. On a round block base the verticle line was made with small brown cat tails. This line was accented with candy - striped Ainnias of red - orange and yellow. Large orange zinnias were massed low in the composition. Tomatoes and magnolia seed pods were placed at the base of the design. Gardenia foliage was used low in the design. A beautiful composition in color, suitable for the den or patio.

Mrs. George Weaks, Mrs. Ray Rhymes and Mrs. Dewitt Milam made a highly decorative large mass composition. The container was a modern epergne with black iron stand and candelabra with a white bowl. White sprayed artificial fruit and berries formed a free standing pyramid design. Transition was carried through by the gradation of the fruit in forming the design. This arrangement was made for large parties. Some 1859-1959 Garden Club Year Books are being received by the Garden Center and we find these to be very pretty. We hope that in the very near future we will have a copy of your Garden Club Year Book.

Welcome to the three new Garden Clubs, Leaf and Petal, Monroe, Highland Study Club, West Monroe, and Sprig and Twig Garden Club, Lake Providence, La.

Notice: Please send to the Fifth District Garden Center, 1501 Louisville Ave., Monroe, La., the name of your Garden Club president for 1958-59.

Red Labor Camps Fail In Efforts At Reclamation

HONG KONG — (UPI) — "Corrective labor" camps aren't always paying propositions the Chinese Communists have found.

They just haven't got the men to run the camps efficiently.

For instance, in Inner Mongolia, workers in "corrective labor" camps reclaimed about 157,400 acres of wasteland during the past five years, but only two-thirds of the land has been cultivated.

The Communists blamed "bad more than $262,400 had been wasted.

The managements of factories and farms set up in Inner Mongolia to implement the policy of "reform through labor" have been heavily criticised for inefficiency, waste and extravagance.

One report cited the case of lowed 226,000 pounds of fresh vegethree farms at Paotow which altables and 133,330 pounds of medicinal herbs to rot. In addition, livestock valued at about $120,000 died as a result of "improper feeding and insufficient care."

Winter Presses Radar Stations In Far North

FROBISHER BAY, BAFFIN ISLAND, Canada — (UPI) —An Arctic task force is fighting time, tides and ice in a grinding battle with the elements that marks the annual sea lift of supplies for America's first line of defense in the Far North—the Distant Early Warning (DEW) Line.

The task force of the Military Sea Transportation Service commanded by Rear Adm. Donald T. Eller, Petersburg, Va., hasn't much time to complete its job. Before next month, the brief Arctic summer will be over and the water passages now open will close again, locked tight by ice.

Adm. Eller, MSTS commander in the Atlantic area, has units of the Atlantic Fleet, special purpose cargo vessels, ice breakers, tankers, commercially operated merchant ships and reconnaissance planes in his force.

The DEW Line is a string of radar stations stretching more than 3,000 miles from northwest Alaska to the east coast of this island. Manned by Americans and Canadians, the line is designed to flash instant warning to North America if a surprise air attack is launched across the polar regions.

The MSTS fleet is heading for the eastern section of the DEW Line with some 20,000 supply items in the holds of its cargo carriers. On board are trucks, landing vehicles and big "Cats" (caterpillar tractors) to move items inland from the landing sites. The cargo manifest includes sewing needles, paper napkins, toothbrushes, food, oil—everything needed to keep the DEW Line running.

CANNES, France (AP) — The condition of Hollywood film pioneer Jack Warner, critically injured a week ago in an automobile accident, was reported slightly improved today. Hospital aides said the 66-year old president of Warner Bros. spent an easier night.

THE SOUTHERN GARDENER

Tries Growing Foreign Flower

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

The fall - blooming colchicums, and many kinds of spider - lilies are an exciting group of flowers. In his youth, your columnist read with great wonder that, "down under" in South Africa and South America, spring comes in September. "Wouldn't it be wonderful to bring their spring up here!", I thought. Since that time, many a bulb has been tried out here in the south to see if it was happy in our climate.

Exotic Bulbs

Some of the South African and Chilean bulbs had the wrong growing season and were not hardy out of doors. Some were really tropical plants. Some were just too fussy to bother with. The bulbs named above, however, as tough and easy to grow. All of them are not from "down under." The spider - lilies in this group are mostly from Japan and China where it gets cold. The sternbergias gild the hillsides of The Holy Land, and the colchicums and fall crocuses are native to a very large area in the Near East and Europe.

Taking a quick look at these bulbs, the following things stand out about them as garden plants in your columnist's mind: Spider-lilies — the common old red ones and the others in their group have evergreen leaves that like the winter sun, therefore plant them where they will not be shaded by evergreens. The other group represented by the tall pink spider-lilies ("Hall's amaryllis") have no foliage till daffodil time.

Colchicums

Sternbergias, the little yellow flowers that are so cheerful in September and October, are evergreen, too, and need winter sunlight. The colchicums, some of which look like waterlines when they bloom without any leaves at all on the bare soil, will have no foliage till late winter. The thing that comes first to your columnist's mind to tell you about them is that they must have no interference with their large leaves in the spring. Nor must they be choked with weeds at this time.

Small Roots

The roots of colchicums are very small and not very long. They are like tulip roots in that they are not of long duration. Therefore they must be in fairly rich soil so that they can make the new corm in their short season compared to the long season of the spider - lily foliage. Little groups of colchicums tucked in, here and there in the garden in rich places are charming, but be sure that you put them where they will not offend you with their leaves in spring.

Paycheck Affect Menu Variety

By AUDREY DAWSON

It's good to be back home again after being away for five weeks this summer. Monroe and Ouachita Parish looks wonderful to your Home Demonstration Agent.

Interesting Facts

An average American family serves forty - five different dishes over a two week's period. Thereafter, the dishes are apt to be duplicated. Variety of menus are closely related to pay days with most families eating considerably better after the pay check arrives. Of total food servings eight per cent occur at "snack" time between meals. Nearly half these snacks are eaten by adults after 7:00 p.m. These are findings of a study of 14,000 housewives directed by Marketing Research of America.

Pictures In a Room

Pictures were meant to do more than fill up an empty space on a wall. They can add much to the general feeling of a room. Framing and hanging a picture correctly play a big part in getting the effect you want.

Mats should be selected with the room decoration in mind and kept darker than the lightest tone in the picture. Strive for good relationship to nearby furniture and wall areas so that they and the picture will form a unit. When hanging groups of pictures, avoid a jogged effect by making sure the bottoms or tops of the frames are same distance from the floor. Pictures should be hung slightly below the eye level of a standing person.

Hints To Homemakers

When not in use, electric appliances should be disconnected. Appliances should not be connected to a light socket. Wall outlets should be provided for this purpose.

Respect the whirling blades of electric mixers and use rubber paddle or plunger to feed foods into grinders or shredders.

A lavatory placed 35 inches above the floor allows more comfort that does the 82 inch height.

Shallow shelves and closets in bathroom makes articles accessible and easy to find.

Rod for shower curtain can be lined with ⅞ inch steel rod anchored at each end in two inch framing members. This would support a person's weight.

Carborundum strips on the bottom of bathtub will prevent slipping.

Don't place radio or electric heater where it can be contacted from the bathtub or kitchen sink.

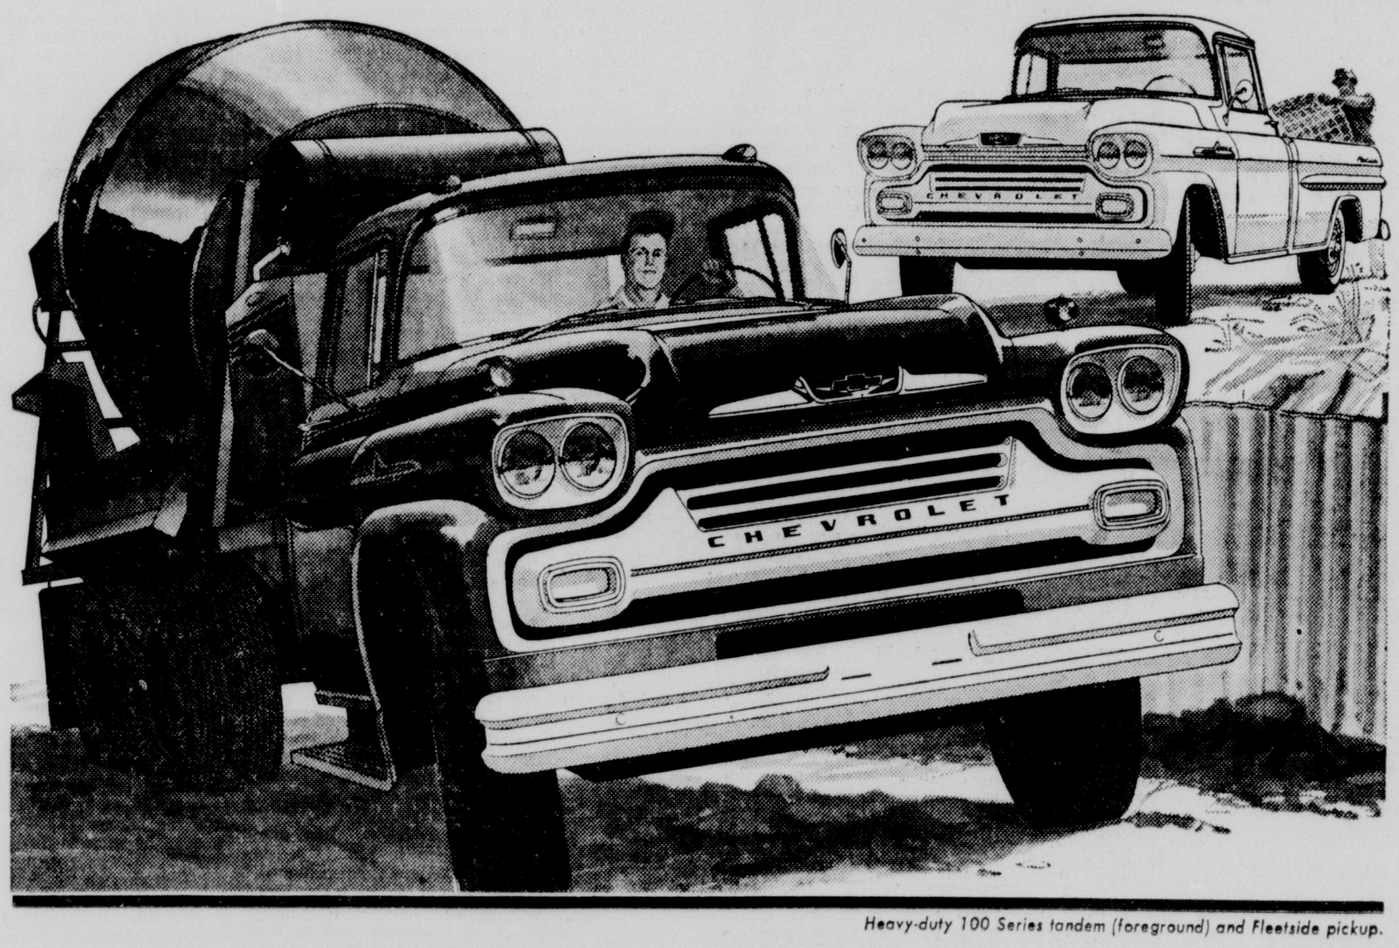

New Paint

The recent introduction of synthetic ingredients such as the Alkyd resins has caused some confusion among homemakers. Loosely known as "plastic paints," the new compounds merely substitute synthetic for certain natural materials. The new paints generally speaking, are considered superior chiefly in their wearing qualities, their resistance to fading, the hardness to which they dry, their speed in drying and important to the average user, the absence of the disagreeable odor, characteristic of the older paints.

There are a great many kinds of paints, but only a few major classes of paint — the oil, enamel and water paints. Plastic paint is considered as an oil paint.

A Thought

Worrying, like a rocking chair, gives you something to do but gets you nowhere.

Heavy-duty 100 Series tandem (foreground) and Fleetside pickup.

You get the right power... right down the line!

From the mountain-movin' Workmaster V8 in tandems down to the quick-stepping Thriftmaster 6 in pickups, Chevrolet trucks offer precisely the kind of power you need. Here are seven truck engines designed and built to work longer for less on your job.

WORKMASTER V8
Powered for top-tonnage hauling, this 348-cubic-inch V8 achieves peak efficiency with new "Wedge-Head" design. It packs a whopping 230 h.p.

HEAVY-DUTY SUPER TASKMASTER V8
This 283-cubic-inch V8—with 175 h.p.—is tough-built for tough jobs. Like the Workmaster, it has 4-barrel carburetor, dual exhaust.

HEAVY-DUTY TASKMASTER V8
Engineered to put more muscle into medium-duty hauls, this 283-cubic-inch V8 develops 160 h.p., has 8 to 1 compression ratio.

JOBMASTER 6
Built for dollar-saving durability, this high-torque 261-cubic-inch 6 hauls hefty loads with ease. It has 150 h.p., 8 to 1 compression ratio.

TRADEMASTER V8
This 283-cubic-inch V8 has the stay-on-the-job stamina that whips tight schedules. Delivers 160 h.p. with high 8.5 to 1 compression ratio.

THRIFTMASTER 6
Tops for cutting cost corners on fast-moving delivery jobs, this 235-cubic-inch engine develops 145 h.p., has spunky 8.25 to 1 compression ratio.

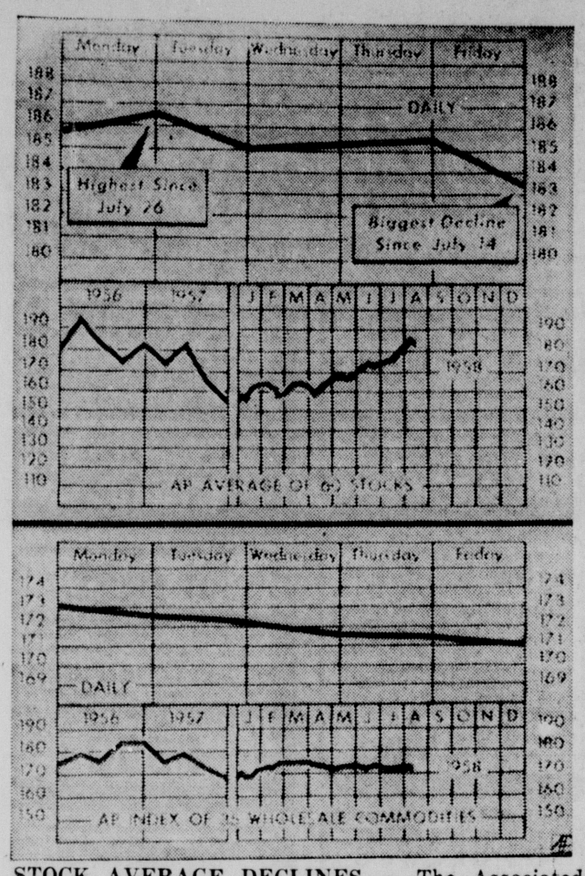

THRIFTMASTER 6 SPECIAL
Ruggedly built for Step-Vans and other Forward Control models, this 6 has more "go" for stop-and-go hauling.

TRADERS TAKE BREATHER

Stock Reversal Snaps Advances

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market reversed its course this week, snapping a string of seven weekly advances.

Traders took a breather much of the week and prices were about a standoff until Friday's sharp decline.

Two things stood out above the realm of statistics: turnover slackened greatly from the recent hectic pace, while demand for low priced stocks assumed new proportions.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks dropped $2.40 during the week to $183.40. The average touched a 1958 high of $186.50 Monday, declined $1.50 on Tuesday, edged back slightly the next two days, then plunged $2.10 on Friday.

The week's volume totaled 14,621,501 shares for a daily average of 2,924,300 shares. This was the first week in a month that the average went under three million shares.

Brokers said many investors were becoming skittish as a result of the trend toward tighter money and the failure of stocks to break through major barriers in the averages.

Interest reates for several types of short-term loans went up during the week, followed by a hike in the discount rate by the Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco late Thursday.

Thus, the Federal Reserve tightened the screws on credit for the second consecutive week. The previous step came when the board lifted stock margins from 50 to 70 per cent. This meant a man who bought stocks on credit could borrow only 30 per cent instead of half.

The boost in the discount rate from 1¾ to 2 per cent was regarded as a signal that the Federal Reserve was more concerned about the dangers of inflation than the recession.

The five most active stocks of the week sell for under $20 a share and all moved higher despite the drop in the averages.

Progress In Miss. Field Is Reported

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Central Oil and Lone Star Producing Co. is down below 1,480 feet after logging oil shows in its Jones County wildcat, Masonite No. 1 in section 25-10n-10w.

The potential new oil field find has shown oil in the Paluxy zone at 8,676-94 feet and Rodessa sand at 10,266-69 feet. Commercial worth of the two zones has not been determined definitely. However, there are reports the Paluxy sand was well developed.

The important wildcat is located four miles east of the Sandersville field and has contract depth of 11,500 feet.

A second important Jones County wildcat is drilling below 12,700 feet. The venture is Sinclair Oil & Gas Co.'s No. 1 soloman gore, sec 13n-11w, located southwest of the Sandersville field. The test is reported to have logged slight oil shows in cutings at 11,934-90 feet and has contract depth of 13,100 feet.

Bateman and Hawkins are reported to be running electrical log at about 1,000 feet in their Lincoln County wildcat, the Davis No. 1, section 31-5n-83, four miles west of the Little Creek field. A core at 10,773-801 feet logged shale and sand and no shows of oil.

About a mile northwest of the Little Creek field in Lincoln county, Vasser, Howard and Radzeqicz are drilling below 9,500 feet in their wildcat, the Soloman No. 1, section 27-5n-83, with contract depth 11,000.

In Scott County, California Co. is attempting to free stuck drill pipe in its wildcat, the Forkville unit No. 1, section 32-7n-7e, located four miles northwest of Morton. Total depth is 10,279 feet, with contract depth 13,500.

In Southern Rankin County, Monsanto Chemical Co. is drilling below 12,200 feet in its wildcat, the Rathell No. 1, section 19-3n-4E, with no shows of oil reported logged.

Monterey Oil Co. is drilling below 3,100 feet in its Simpson County wildcat, the Gaylor Container Corp. No. 1, section 21-2n-3e, a 13,800 foot test.

Plymouth Oil Co. has set conductor pipe in its Greene County wildcat the Jackson No. 1., section 33-1n-5w, a 13,500 foot test.

Marshall Young is preparing to deepen an abandoned Hancock County wildcat. The venture is the International-Alexander No. 2, section 17-s15w, drilled by Sun Oil Co. to a depth of 9,851 feet. The new operator will depen it to 10,850 feet.

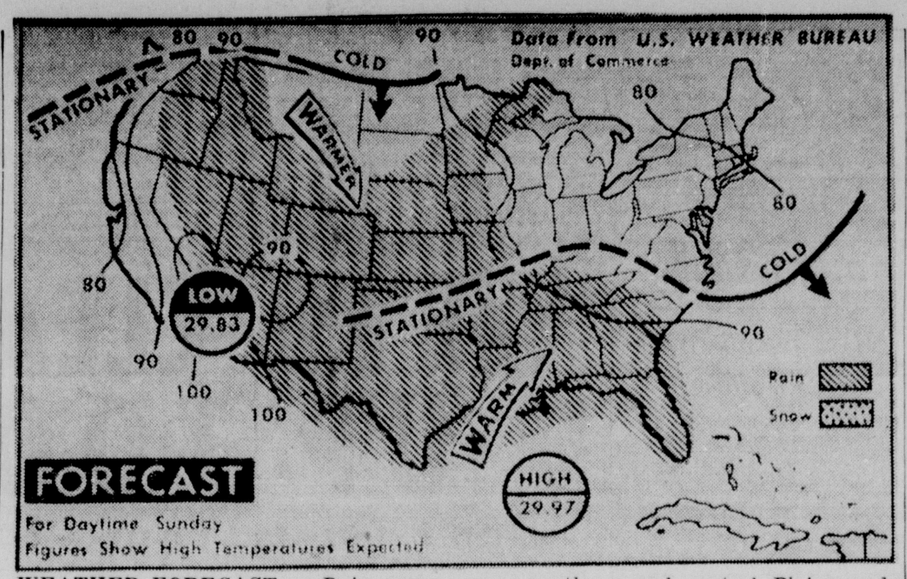

Field drilling during the past week saw three new oilers and one gas condensate well completed.

In fast developing Raleigh Field of Smith County, California Co. has completed its Central No. 4-6, section 34-2n-7e, from a Hosston sand at 12,148-198 felet. The well flowed 324 barrels of oil per day.

At Poplar Grove in Adams County, Serio-Punches and Billups Brohthers completed their Emery No. 8, section 45-6n-2w, pumping 105 barrels of oil per day from a Wilcox sand at 6,294-97 feet.

Humble Oil & Refining Co. completed its Overton Field well, the Blake No. 10, section 22-5n-3w, pumping 36 barrels of oil per day from a Wilcox sand at 6,463-65 feet.

In the Pistol Ridge field of Forrest County, Jack Grigsby completed his Creosote No. 1-W, section 3-1s-13w, flowing an estimated 1,300,000 cubic feet of gas and 10 barrels of condensate per day from a Wilcox sand at 4,792-96 feet.

WEATHER FORECAST — Rain areas today will include south Atlantic states, Ohio and Mississippi Valleys, Plains states and Plateau. It will be warmer over northern and central Plains and most of the Lakes area, and continue hot and humid in the southern states. (AP Wirephoto Map)

Cotton Futures Lose Ground During Week

NEW YORK (AP)—Cotton futures lost ground last week. Active contracts on the New York Cotton Exchange took net losses ranging from 55 cents to $4 a bale.

Distant deliveries were the hardest hit. October and December 1959 postions made new life-of-contract lows.

At the start of the week, nearer months turned soft on selling influenced by a larger-than-expected official crop forecast and a smaller-than-expected final 1958 loan rate. The distant maturities firmed on the erroneous expectation that the House of Representatives would not approve a farm bill at this session.

When this proved false and the House finally passed a compromise Farm bill, prices were hammered down in waves of heavy selling. The market steadied somewhat toward the close on short covering that reflected technical considerations.

Biggest influence on the market was the compromise farm bill, which provides lower support price levels. After the close of trading Friday word came from Washington that the bill had been sent to a Senate-House conference committee.

Exports of U. S. Cotton for the week ended Tuesday were estimated by the New York Cotton Exchange Service Bureau at 95,000 bales, compared with 105,000 the previous week and 90,000 in the same week last year.

Exports for the current season through Aug. 12 were estimated at 142,000 bales. That compares with a total of 112,000 bales at approxmiately the same time last season.

A certain psychiatrist had an unusual experience recently. He cured a patient of an inferiority complex and presented him with a bill for $500, whereupon the patient called him a profiteer and a and beat him up.

Grain Action Is Lackluster During Week

CHICAGO (AP)—Grain futures traders waited all week for some inducements to do business but they didn't come. The market could scarcely have been more lackluster even if there had been a boycott by domestic consumers.

As a result the market limped along through draggy session after draggy session with only an occasional light flutter of buying to retard the generally slow declining prices.

Flour mill and other processor buyers were little more than spectators throughout the week but there was the usual volume, at least, of export business to help offset the pressure of hedge selling which was diminishing rather markedly near the end of the week.

In fact, some grain firms said the peak of hedging in connection with the 1958 wheat and oats harvest appeared to have passed although another wave could be expected when the heaviest movement of spring wheat begins late this month or early next.

ONE CAMERA FOR EACH CITY

Within the next few days census takers will be calling on you as residents of Monroe and West Monroe to make an official count, which is expected to entitle our Cities to more State funds. We urge you to cooperate and help them to do their work promptly. In the meantime, we invite you to come to our showrooms and guess the final results of their tally. For the best guess in each city, we will award a much-wanted Polaroid camera.

CORNER LOT 178x332x180x375 ft. "and a beauty if you ever saw one." Owner is leaving—you'll be lucky to become the owner of this exquisite home. It has unusual charm from the front door, with its wide covered entrance into the comforts of its spacious rooms. A rugged fireplace bids welcome. Picture windows overlooking the tree - studded bayou just beyond is just all you could ask for! 2 exquisite baths. This home only 4 years old and so well cared for —not a dime to spend. Used little, abused never. Big comfortable 33 foot family room, its 2 big 16x14 bedrooms, and a most unusual kitchen with island sink features convenient pass-through to the comfortable living room. Very few Monroe homes feature the "metal Fabricon" closets, built - ins, etc. You'll love them! Big corner 170x350 ft. lot just full of beautiful scarlet climbing rose hedges and other lovely flowers and trees. Centrally heated, air conditioned. Big boat dock makes fishing easy and safe. Barbecue pit, etc. Oh! It's got everything! Let's see it now. Ask for particulars.

POOR LONELY LITTLE ANGEL! SHE'S SO HAPPY TO HAVE SOME PLAYMATES... TOO BAD IT HAS TO BE THOSE SQUATLEY CHILDREN.

TRASHY LITTLE FIENDS! THEY'RE A BAD INFLUENCE, I TELL YOU.

YOU'RE RIGHT, BROTHER, WE MUST GET RID OF THE SQUATLEYS. BUT HOW?

MEANWHILE.

HEY, I GOT AN IDEA! LET'S DIG AN ELEPHANT TRAP!

A WHAT?

C'MON, ANGEL! AN ELEPHANT TRAP!

WE'LL DIG AN ELEPHANT TRAP RIGHT HERE IN THIS PATH!

HAVE YOU EVER CAUGHT AN ELEPHANT?

SURE... AND PIGS AND CALVES AND--- HERE, YOU DIG A WHILE, ANGEL.

NOW WE'LL COVER IT WITH PALMETTOS AND STUFF, AND WAIT FOR THE ELEPHANTS TO COME ALONG AND FALL IN.

SOON.

AW, SHUCKS! I DON'T THINK THERE ARE ANY ELEPHANTS IN FLORIDA. I'M TIRED OF WAITING.

YEAH! LET'S PLAY A GAME WHERE WE EAT SUMPIN'.

HELP!

WELL, IF'N IT AIN'T MR. SWEENEY!

HOORAY FUR PAW! HE'S A HERO!!

HE SAVED MR. SWEENEY'S LIFE!

YES, SIREE! THERE HE WAS, ALL WET AND COLD. IF'N IT WEREN'T FUR ME, LIKE AS NOT HE'D OF TOOK PNEUMONY AND DIED IN THAT HOLE!

IF IT WEREN'T FOR YOUR NO-COUNT BRATS, I WOULDN'T HAVE BEEN IN THAT DANGED HOLE!!

BY THE WAY, BROTHER, DID YOU THINK OF A WAY TO GET RID OF THE SQUATLEYS?

YES, CONFOUND IT! BUT YOU GET SENT TO JAIL FOR WHAT I'M THINKING OF DOING!

Little Orphan Annie

"LET US NOT BE WEARY IN WELL-DOING: FOR IN DUE SEASON WE SHALL REAP, IF WE FAINT NOT." NEW TESTAMENT ...IT TAKES A LOT TO MAKE ANNIE FAINT...

THIS TOWN... "FUTILE SPRINGS," TH' SIGN SAID... "POPULATION 27,998"... EVEN TWENTY-EIGHT THOUSAND, IF WE DECIDE T'STAY...

SEEMS LIKE SUCH A FRIENDLY, SETTLED, HAPPY SORT O' TOWN... BUT THAT KID UP THERE, ALL SCROOCHED DOWN IN TH' SHADOW BY TH' FENCE... SOBBIN'...

NO BOY'D CRY LIKE THAT... AND NO GIRL, 'LESS HER HEART WAS BUSTED... BUT IT'S NONE O' OUR BUSINESS... WE'VE GOT OUR OWN TROUBLES... AS WHO HASN'T...

GO STICKIN' YER NOSE INTO OTHER FOLKS' BUSINESS AND, OH BOY, CAN YOU BUY Y'RSELF INTO A MESS... C'MON, SANDY... LET'S GET OUT O' HERE...

HEY, SANDY! DIDN'T Y'HEAR ME? C'MON... LET'S BLOW! WHATSAMATTER? Y'GONE SOFT OR SOMETHIN'?

YA-YA-YA! I KNOW... I COULDN'T LEAVE A KID LIKE THAT, EITHER... NOT REALLY... SO WE'RE JUST A COUPLE O' BORN PATSIES, SANDY...

BUT MARK MY WORDS... THIS IS GOIN' TO MEAN TROUBLE, FOR US... WHY DO WE HAFTA GO THROUGH LIFE NEVER LEARNIN'?

WELL, HANG ONTO YER HAT... HERE WE GO AGAIN... HEY-HEY! WHY KILL TH' FLOWERS WITH ALL TH' SALTY TEARS? NOTHIN' CAN BE THAT BAD...

LOOK, HONEY... IT'S LATE... AND YOU OUT HERE! BET YOUR FOLKS ARE WORRIED SICK... WHY DON'T Y'GO HOME TO YOUR MOM?

M-M-MY MOM'S GONE... ...A YEAR AGO T-T-TODAY...

GEE... I DIDN'T KNOW... I'M AWFUL SORRY... BUT EVEN IN HEAVEN SHE'S CLOSE TO YOU, HONEY...

I'M NOT "HONEY"... I'M BEANIE! AND MOM DIDN'T DIE...

ER... WELL... YOU CRYIN' SO... WELL, NATURALLY I FIGGERED... SAID YOUR MOM'S GONE... ....THEN HOW...?

VANISHED! NEVER SAID GOOD-BY OR NOTHIN'... JUST VANISHED!

THE PHANTOM

BY LEE FALK AND WILSON McCOY

IN THE EXPLORERS CLUB, BENGALI.

YOU SAW THIS MAN-EATING PLANT GOD OF THE MASSAU?

NOT SAW- HEARD OFTEN WHEN I WAS LITTLE.

DOC, COULD I TALK TO THAT PILOT?

EXPLORERS CLUB

MEAD, YOU CAN'T TAKE HIS RAVING ABOUT A MAN-EATING PLANT SERIOUSLY?

WHO KNOWS? I'D JUST LIKE TO TALK WITH HIM.

JAMES IS AWAKE NOW, AND CALM. YOU MAY SPEAK TO HIM FOR A FEW MINUTES. HE NEEDS REST, MEAD.

LOST FOR FOUR WEEKS IN THE JUNGLE. YOU'VE HAD A ROUGH TIME, JAMES.

YES. LUCKY TO BE ALIVE, THEY TELL ME.

-ER- THEY SAY YOU SAW SOMETHING-

OH-THAT? I'D RATHER NOT TALK ABOUT IT. IT SOUNDS SILLY TO ME NOW. GUESS I WAS DELIRIOUS, AS THEY SAY.

MIND TELLING ME WHAT YOU THOUGHT YOU SAW?

WELL, MY PLANE CRASHED, MID-JUNGLE- BROKE MY ANKLE. MADE A SPLINT OUT OF A STICK-

"DIDN'T KNOW WHERE I WAS EXACTLY- HEARD DRUMS- SAW FIRE- LIGHT-"

"I HID IN THE BUSHES- AND SAW SOME NATIVES, MASSAU, I THINK, DANCING WILDLY-"
